Names Alleged Aid of Nye Committee.

BY PARKE BROWN.

An offer to return approximately $50, supposed to have come out of its appropriation, was made yesterday to the United States senate committee investigating the campaign expenditures of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick.

After carefully arranging the currency in sheaf, W. C. Dannenberg, employed by Mrs. McCormick to investigate the investigators who were investigating her, held the money out toward Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, chairman of the committee.

"I don't know whom it belongs to," Dannenberg said. "I don't know whether it belongs to the United States senate or——"

"Well," said Chairman Nye, when the witness hesitated, "it looks as though it might belong to the government in some way."

Dannenberg Keeps the Money.

But there the subject was dropped and when Dannenberg was excused for the day he returned the money to his pocket and said he didn't know what to do with it. He said it might be used to help pay the costs of Mrs. McCormick's investigation of the Nye investigation, even though it may be a part of the Nye committee's own fund.

Dannenberg's story of how the money came into his hands was brief. He said that a Nye committee employe had tried to bribe a Dannenberg operative, that the operative took the money and reported the incident to his chief, that for three weeks the Dannenberg agent was on the pay roll of the Nye man but turned the money over to his chief regularly, meanwhile fooling the Nye agent into thinking he was getting some valuable information about the work of the Dannenberg agency.

Names Alleged Payer of $150.

The man who Dannenberg said paid the money over as a representative of the senate committee was David A. Groh, a Chicago private detective convicted in 1922 of killing a policeman and sentenced for manslaughter to an indefinite term of from one year to life. Groh was accused of killing South Park Policeman Martin Collins, who leaped on his running board in an effort to put an end to a burst of reckless driving. Groh put on speed, Collins was bumped by another car and thrown to the pavement.

Senator Porter H. Dale of Vermont, who sat with Senator Nye, denied that Groh was working for the committee. But Dannenberg insisted upon the truth of his statement and said he was convinced the committee members did not know what their employes were doing in the McCormick case.

Senators Call a Hearing

The currency incident came as the climax of an unexpected hearing before the committee called by Senators Nye and Dale following the appearance of a newspaper statement by Mrs. McCormick saying that she had employed the investigators whose activities caused a sudden hearing concerning their activities at Senator Nye's home town, Fargo, N. D., last Saturday.

The two senators with some of the committee staff came to Chicago from Fargo and early in the morning began the issuance of forthwith subpoenas for a dozen witnesses. An investigator at Fargo had said that he was working for Dannenberg and the first batch of summonses covered the entire personnel of the Dannenberg agency.

They also covered the personnel of another agency, that of Edward W. Alt, a former associate of Dannenberg in the federal bureau of investigation, who the committee's staff also believed connected with the present inquiry. But Alt appeared with one of his operatives and both denied that they knew anything about the subject under inquiry except that they also had been shadowed by the committee agents who had been shadowing Dannenberg and his men.

Dannenberg Takes Stand.

THINGS ARE HUMMING IN SOUTH AMERICA

GUNMAN SHOOTS TRUCK DRIVER AS HE SITS IN CAFE

James Murphy, 27 years old, of 2705 West Adams street, a truck driver, was shot in the cheek, shoulder, and back last night as he sat drinking a cup of coffee in a restaurant at 409 South Racine avenue.

There was no warning. Murphy was talking with Paul J. Gudulias, waiter, and Mike Chiolettes, chef. The place had no other patrons. Then a young man walked in. He talked with Murphy in low tones for five minutes.

A second youth entered and walked up to Murphy, drew a revolver, and fired. The gunman and the other youth fled as Murphy toppled from his stool.

Murphy was taken to the Bridewell hospital, where his condition was said to be critical. He refused to name his assailant or tell the cause of the shooting. A brother, Roy Murphy, 23 years old, who was found near the scene, told the police he had seen his brother enter the restaurant, but had avoided him because he knew he had been drinking and was quarrelsome.

Policeman Poses as Drunk and Captures Holdup Man

Posing as an intoxicated straggler, Sergt. Chris Callahan of the detective bureau walked deliberately into the arms of two colored holdup men early this morning. When they tried to rob him he seized and disarmed one of them and routed the other with pistol fire. The prisoner is William Johnson, 18 years old, 3753 South State street. The struggle and capture occurred at 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue as Sergt. Callahan was on the way to his home from the Wabash avenue station.

Mr. Pinscher Crashes Gate in Lake Forest

A crash of glass and a series of dull thuds in the dining room early yesterday roused Mr. and Mrs. John T. Pirie and all the servants in their home at 930 East Rosemary road, Lake Forest. Lights were switched on, voices raised, bare feet pattered through hallways and downstairs. The household was mobilized within two minutes.

Mr. Pirie led the forces to the dining room. The intruder had hurtled through a French window, carrying segments of sash and frame, but he was unharmed. He was a mammoth black and tan police dog of the imported Dobermann-Pinscher breed. The dull thuds the household had heard were caused by his stubby tail, beating on the dining room table, which he occupied.

Flanking Movement Falls.

The hasty concensus was that the thing to do was for the household to surround him en masse. Before the maneuver could be executed, the dog leaped from the table and scurried between the legs into the living room, still wagging his tail. He was in a playful mood.

En route he knocked over a couple of pieces of statuary and some vases. Galloping through the living room, with his pursuers in full cry, he made his way into a sun room and a sleeping room. Mr. Pirie had hunted wild game in Africa, but never before a police dog. Finally somebody suggested a bit of hamburger. It worked. The dog was corraled.

Chief Tiffany Takes Prisoner.

Mr. Pirie then telephoned Chief of Police Lester T. Tiffany of Lake Forest to come and get the animal; that he wanted it held "until such time as the owner pays me for the property destroyed."

So the dog is now incarcerated in the woman's cell of the Lake Forest jail, where it occupies the center of the chintz covered bed. Chief Tiffany visited Dan Hentges, the butcher, and bought the prisoner's luncheon, which consisted of two and a half pounds of round steak. This sells at 44 cents a pound regularly, but Dan let the chief have it for $1.

"And that was only one meal," said Chief Tiffany. "I am a married man, with two children; salary, $275 a month. I hope the owner of this pooch hurries and calls for him."

Pershing to Publish His War History by January

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Gen. John J. Pershing expects his history of the world war to be published before January. Back from abroad, he said today he would work on his own memoirs in the near future. The history covers exclusively the war. The leader of the American [illegible]ary Forces will celebrate his [illegible]ntieth birthday Sept. 13.

ACTRESS WIFE OF CUDAHY TO ASK DIVORCE TODAY

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—A year and six weeks of married life with 23 year old Michael Cudahy, member of the family of wealthy meat packers, was enough for his 20 year old motion picture wife, Muriel Adele Cudahy, she said tonight.

Mrs. Cudahy has instructed Attorney William J. McNichols to file a divorce complaint tomorrow morning charging cruelty and incompatibility. Young Cudahy is now residing with his mother, Mrs. Jack Cudahy.

"We are good friends—he's a dear boy," said the wife.

"She's a sweet girl—there's no hard feeling on Michael's part," said the mother.

The couple were married in Riverside, Cal., July 6, 1929, and separated on Aug. 20, 1930. The latter was the date Cudahy was released from Hollywood hospital where he had been treated for illness following the drinking of some bad liquor.

Mrs. Jack Cudahy and Attorney McNichols tonight said a financial settlement has been arranged outside of court.

TEST 600 AUTOS IN EVANSTON'S SAFETY DRIVE

Evanston this week is observing the first anniversary of Safety week, which was begun last year by Frank Kreml, director of the accident prevention bureau of the Evanston police department. During the last two days more than 600 automobiles have been tested as to brakes, lights, and steering apparatus. Of this number only 62 machines were found to be in perfect condition, Mr. Kreml said.

According to statstics prepared by the bureau automobile fatalities in the north shore suburb in the last year have been reduced 62.5 per cent. Evanston now stands in second place in a nation-wide "safety city" contest sponsored by the National Safety council, Mr. Kreml said, being surpassed only by Baltimore. A section of Lake street between Chicago and Hinman avenues has been roped off for the tests.

Elgin Aviator Is Dead; Third in Sunday's Crash

Frank L. Deihs, Elgin realty dealer, in whose Waco plane two young men of Elgin were killed in a crash Monday evening at Carpentersville park near Dundee, died of his injuries late last night.

A department of commerce inspector who investigated the accident yesterday declared that Deihs had violated stipulations of his limited commercial pilot's license by taking off from a so-called "barnstorming field" instead of from a registered airport. Deihs, who was 36 years old and a war veteran, leaves a widow and a small daughter.

The other victims were Ervin Born 21 years old, and John Hubert, 1[illegible] years old.

Pilot Gives First Story of Exploit.

BY CAPT. DIEUDONNE COSTE.

[Copyright: 1930: In North and South America: By the New York Times company. All rights reserved.]

New York, Sept. 2.—When we took off from Paris yesterday we knew it was the greatest moment in our lives. It was the culmination of three years of hard effort not unmixed with many heartbreaking disappointments. If we had not left at that particular minute we might well have faced three more years of delay before accomplishing the first flight from a city of the old world to the greatest city in the new world.

The tremendous load of fuel required for this flight, in which we expected to buck prevailing unfavorable winds, gave us the first real thrill of the voyage. Would the ship lift off the ground? That was our great concern. We had 5,200 liters [1,370 gallons] of gasoline on board.

Storms Close Ahead.

But the great fear passed in a few moments and we found new cause for concern with each passing moment. There were storms ahead. We would have to push our overweighted ship through that. We ran into the first of these disturbances off the Irish coast. The second gave us some trying moments not long afterward over the ocean, but fortunately we were able to escape the worst of it.

The third—and probably the worst of all—was the storm we encountered over Nova Scotia.

That it occurred only this morning seems impossible just at this moment. So many things appear to have happened since that. The storm seems remote — something that happened long, long ago.

Flew Around Storm.

We had to find the best route to Novia Scotia and that in short order, if we were to avoid the hazards that faced the Bremen when it ran into fog and storm of a similar nature and was forced down hundreds of miles from its goal.

In seeking to avoid this storm we were obliged to fly 100 miles out of our way, to the south. We did not find land, as we had expected, so we turned northward again, flying another 100 miles. Time was swiftly passing. Each minute meant the loss of more of our precious fuel. Again we turned.

It occurred to us that three is a lucky number. We had faced three storms, were we now to be defeated? We were sure that we would not be.

Finally Sight Land.

After three hours of searching we computed that we must be very near the coast of Nova Scotia. At 3 a. m [French time] — for we had not changed our clock—we sighted land. At the same moment it became obvious that the winds were abating. Naturally we were very happy—very happy.

The only thing that could stop us now, we thought, would be failure of our motor. It had carried us already from France to North America and we knew that it would not fail us now. We had perfect confidence in its staunch heart and that confidence was justified. The motor was wonderful. It did all that we had hoped it would.

Weather, on Whole, Favorable.

Weather conditions, on the whole, were very favorable—at least the winds were on our side. On the other hand, almost the entire route was

PARIS GOES WILD; CHEERS FILL AIR; WINE CORKS POP

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 3.—[Wednesday.]—After a day of suspense over the progress of the Question Mark in blazing a westward trail, the people of Paris awoke to enthusiasm early this morning.

The biggest crowd since the armistice—25,000 by a conservative estimate—milled around the historic Place de la Concorde. Six powerful loud speakers in front of the Auto club from time to time announced the progress of the flyers.

On the roof of the Hotel Crillon a couple of hundred Americans awaited the news.

Crowds packed the Place de l'Opera and the grand boulevards were jammed. Traffic in the downtown district equaled the noon rush.

News Comes After Midnight.

The crowds stood in the streets waiting patiently, making very little noise. It was after midnight when the news arrived that the flyers had reached their goal. The announcement was greeted with a deafening roar of applause and shouts of "Vive Coste! Vive Bellonte!"

All the boulevard cafes did a rush business accommodating the thirsty patriots who wanted to do right by their country's heroes. It was a sharp contrast to the coolness which marked the public reaction to the takeoff and the comparative indifference with which the early stages of the flight were followed. The young aviator, Coste, has become the toast of the whole nation, and it is estimated that the champagne drunk in his honor up to 1 o'clock this morning would fill a good sized swimming pool.

Wife Gets Phone Message.

"I heard my husband's voice over the radio a few minutes ago," Mme. Coste told THE TRIBUNE early this morning. "Then, a few minutes later I received a cable from him with 'love and kisses' in it.

"At 1:30 I was overjoyed when he called me over the trans-Atlantic phone as he had promised before he took off from Le Bourget. He just told me briefly about the trip and said that he and Bellonte were feeling fine."

While the beautiful wife of the new hero of the Atlantic was talking over the long distance phone a messenger walked in with a large bouquet of roses from Mme. Nungesser, the mother of the heroic flyer who died in an attempted flight in 1927.

The celebration in the Costes' home, in a high class apartment house in a fashionable quarter of Passy, ended with a joyous champagne toast early this morning.

Berlin Praises Air Feat.

BERLIN, Sept. 3.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—Berlin morning papers display prominently the news of the Coste-Bellonte flight from France to the United States and the few editorial comments in the early editions are warmly congratulatory.

"It is a brilliant success for French aviation," says the Vossische Zeitung.

The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung points out that while the problem of regular trans-Atlantic service by airplane still remains to be solved by engineers and technicians, the feat of the French flyers is an "outstanding sporting achievement."

Assaults Teacher Who Flunked Him Years Ago

Marion, Ill., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Five years ago George Alexander of Chicago was a pupil in the Marion High school. He failed in one study and was not graduated. He came home for a Labor day visit and met Prof. C. W. Benson, his erstwhile instructor. When Benson started to shake hands, his nose was broken, both eyes blackened, and his teeth loosened. A warrant is out for Alexander, who fled to Chicago in his automobile.

It's a Good Time to Buy Good Bonds

When Bobby Jones shoots a course there's a gallery of divot cutters following. Bill Tilden likewise has his public. And the bridge sharks tell in the papers how it's done. Some specialties are like that. But finance isn't one of them. A gallery doesn't follow successful financiers around La Salle street. A cup isn't given for making a million with the smallest number of strokes.

But though all expert investing isn't exposed to public gaze, some of the most expert is. Leading banks report weekly what they are doing with their money and other people's. Since the first of the year they have bought bonds. 600 leading banks about the country have put an extra half billion dollars in bonds since the first of the year. Leading Chicago banks have invested $100,000,000 in bonds in the past year. Banks depend increasingly on bonds for their incomes. It's a good time to talk over your investments with a good house.

FRENCHMEN FLY 3,800 MILES IN 37 HOURS' TIME

Great Crowds Cheer Their Feat.

BULLETIN.

PARIS, Sept. 3. — (Wednesday.)—(A.P.)—The government announced early today that it would make Capt. Dieudonne Coste a commander of the Legion of Honor in recognition of his achievement.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Curtiss Field, Valley Stream, L. I., Sept. 2—(Special.)—Dropping down like a red arrow out of the sky, the airplane Question Mark, carrying two famous flying Frenchmen — Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte—completed the first nonstop flight from Paris to New York at dusk tonight. They returned an air visit that Charles Lindbergh made to Le Bourget flying field a matter of three years ago last May.

When the bright colored sesquiplane glided down to the end of its 3,800 mile flight it had been in the air 37 hours 18 minutes and 30 seconds and had averaged more than 100 miles an hour through sunshine and darkness, fair weather and foul. It had spun along the great north circle route without a bobble from its single Hispano motor and had roared down the American coast line in a triumphant journey over eagerly watching cities.

Greets Crowd in French.

"Comment ca va?" (how do you do?) was Capt. Coste's greeting to those of the crowd of 15,000 welcomers who could fight their way within hailing distance of the air trail blazer.

There was the inevitable jamming and surging and general melee. There was broadcasting and pushing and pulling and snatching by souvenir hunters, and then Capt. Coste was speeding toward the city and a hotel bed.

"I want to sleep," he said to his admirers. Good-by. Thank you, very much."

Start West Friday.

After landing, the French flyers were informed that Col. W. E. Easterwood of Dallas, Tex., had offered $25,000 to them if they would fly their ship to Dallas.

The idea appealed to Capt. Coste. He immediately said he "would be glad to make the trip, because it will give him an opportunity for cross country flight." Coste said he would probably take off Friday morning after the plane had been tuned up and put into shape. He said he would not decide on the route until he had studied maps.

It was 6:10 p. m. (E. S. T.) when the Question Mark appeared in the gaining twilight to the east of the airport.

The crowd was quick to recognize the visitor, and giant loud speakers, sirens and the din of hundreds of honking automobiles sent a noisy welcome skyward.

Visitors Dip in Salute.

The Question Mark dipped in salute and circled twice around the field, then came weaving in to cut its speed. It was 6:12 o'clock when the French visitor touched Long Island soil, half a mile away from the crowd, on the southeast side of the field. For a moment it was hidden, for the air had been full of welcoming airmen, and they were hurrying earthward to join in the reception.

Then, flanked by an official automobile and another great red plane, the Question Mark was taxied toward the welcoming committee, made up of French representatives and dignitaries from city, state, and federal governments. Col. Lindbergh and his wife waited at a discreet distance to receive the return call from France.

Crowd Breaks Loose.

The crowd, until that moment, had been under perfect control. But in a jiffy it became a surging mob. The French visitors, eager to greet their friends, leaped from the plane fifty feet from the official welcomers. Coste was first out, quickly followed by Bellonte. Coste flung his arms around the shoulders of his American manager, Rene Racover, but it was only for a moment.

The crowd hoisted both flyers atop strong shoulders and, led by a squad of Nassau county policemen, paraded to the nearest hangar.

"Vive la France!" "Vive Coste et Bellonte!" cried the hundreds of French men and women packed along the police lines. Flashlights boomed in a billowing cloud of white smoke as the procession moved across the runway toward the buildings. The police had their hands full and fought and kicked at the crowd, but the crowd, as is the custom on New York's flying fields, won, and hundreds broke through the bluecoat cordon.

Airmen Crowded to Wall.

With their backs against a wall in an all too tiny rooom, Coste and Bellonte, their faces dripping with perspiration and their ears still deafened from the roar of their motor, stood speechless and bewildered for almost ten minutes, while those who had forced their way inside the hangar fought to get as close as possible to the airmen.

Finally, in phalanx formation, the cops forced back the crowd far enough to make an exit. The Frenchmen were pushed and shoved up the stairway into another small room which opened out above the milling crowd below.

Representatives of the French government and other members of the official greeting party were smuggled into the room. Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh sought to slip in by a rear door.

A Doubting Policeman.

"This is Col. Lindbergh and his party," some one told the guardian, but the cop replied: "You can't pull that Lindbergh stuff on me." Finally he got a good look at Lindy and changed his mind.

The flying colonel shooks hands with the flying captain. Lindbergh exclaimed: "That's good, great, that's fine. A splendid flight." Bellonte was pushed forward and greeted by Lindbergh. Then the three flying men were photographed together.

Previously Col. Lindbergh had expressed his admiration of Coste's flight to newspaper men. He said he considered it "much more difficult than the west to east crossings because of the headwinds and worst weather possible at the end of the journey."

Ignoring the cries of the crowd to come to the window and share in the applause, Lindbergh withdrew into a corner, leaving the honors to the Frenchmen.

Hurried to Hotel.

After a few words in rapidly spoken French to the mob beneath the window, Coste and Bellonte were led downstairs to the radio broadcasting room, where they spoke to an American and French audience over a transatlantic hookup.

"Je veux dormir!" [I want to sleep], shouted Coste to Lindbergh as the colonel slipped out a back door and then, in English, "Good-by and thank you very much."

Outside a car was waiting to take the flyers to New York and to their quarters in the Ritz tower.

Capt. Coste was brief with his radio audience and the waiting reporters.

"We chose this time for our flight because it presented marvelous weather conditions," he told his audience. "At any hour, of course one takes a route that presents risks. You have to go by way of the north, where there are always rain and stormy weather. We knew what was awaiting us. It took us 37 hours to reach here, which we consider very good time. The engine worked well all the way."

Col. Lindbergh's time on what he calls "the less difficult eastward flight" was 33 and one-half hours.

Without further delay the flyers were rushed in an automobile to New York.

Greets Reporters at Hotel.

Shortly after 10 o'clock tonight newspaper men and photographers who had been waiting at the hotel since early evening won their way into the flyers' suite. They found Bellonte fast asleep in one of the twin beds, but Capt. Coste, clad in green striped pajamas, sat upright in the other.

He was smiling as he greeted the reporters. Bellonte never stirred.

"The first thing I want to say," said Capt. Coste, "is that we appreciate this reception. I particularly appreciate the act of Col. Lindbergh in coming to meet me and being at the field with me."

An interpreter then read a statement which had been prepared by Capt. Coste. It read:

"Bellonte and I want to say that the happiest moment of our lives was when we landed at that field and saw the American and French flags waving to us.

"I was never so affected in my life as when our plane touched Curtiss field. I hope you boys will excuse two very sleepy men tonight. Look, Bellonte is already asleep and that looks good to me.

No Sleep Since Takeoff.

"Have you had any sleep at all?" a reporter asked in French.

Capt. Coste replied that he had had none, but Bellonte had snatched a little. They had had nothing to eat, he said, in answer to another question. He said he and Bellonte will not fly back to Paris, but added, enigmatically, "Some one else will."

As the newspaper men left Capt. Coste sank back as though to go to sleep, but it was reported later that he arose and attended a small dinner given in his honor by M. Henry. Among those present were Grover Whalen and Henri Prince, managing director of the hotel.

100 Gallons in Fuel Tank.

When the Question Mark landed at Curtiss field, there was more than 100 gallons of gasoline left in the tanks, sufficient for almost three more hours of flying. The Hispano motor needed only a new rocker arm and grease and oil.

After the Question Mark had been wheeled into its hangar and while mechanics were busy examining it, the lone customs officer and his appraiser got to work. One of the mechanics found a stale French biscuit in the cockpit and tossed it to a friend:

"Here's a bit of old France," he shouted.

"Put that back in the ship," ordered the customs officer. The aged French biscuit was promptly restored to its place on the cockpit floor.

There was only one bit of merchandise brought along, a bit of evening finery from a Paris dressmaker to a New York department store.

A heavy guard was thrown around the Question Mark to prevent souvenir hunters from cutting pieces of the fabric from the plane, but despite their vigilance a number of the more adventurous onlookers succeeded in scribbling their names and addresses on the fuselage.

Whole Chicken Untouched.

In the front cockpit were found meats, sandwiches and a quantity of jelly. In the rear cockpit, Bellonte left untouched a whole roast chicken, some bread and other tidbits.

The delegation of Frenchmen who greeted the flyers was headed by Jules Henry, French chargé d'affaires in Washington; the mayor's committee for distinguished guests was represented by George F. Mand, while William E. Ennequist headed the Nassau county welcomers. With a three-headed welcome party a lot was bound to happen. A lot did happen. M. Henry, despite an elaborate badge, was pushed about with considerable violence by Mr. Ennequist's policemen before he managed to establish his identity. Ennequist himself was lost in the rush when the plane landed and never was able to get near enough to greet the fliers until they had begun their radio broadcast. M. Mand also was a belated greeter. He arrived with Mr. Ennequist in the radio room.

Crowd Bursts Windows.

The curious almost upset the radio broadcast. They piled about the windows in such numbers that two glass panes were forced from their place and fell to the floor.

Capt. Coste and Maurice Bellonte, who served as co-pilot and mechanic, passed over St. Pierre just before 8 o'clock [E. S. T.] this morning to make an American landfall. They headed down the American coast on the last leg of their nonstop flight and ran into some of the worst weather they had encountered on the nonstop journey from Paris. Fog and rain brought static to their radio apparatus and wireless stations large and small tried without success to establish direct communication with the Question Mark.

While the Frenchmen were slipping down the line and the success of their venture was assured, New York set about planning an official reception that would equal the welcome accorded Lindbergh on his return from France.

The welcome will be extended to the flyers at city hall Thursday afternoon. No parade up Broadway is planned to the ceremony at City hall, but it is probably that the French visitors will receive their paper shower afterwards. An invitation was extended to the flyers to attend an advertising club luncheon Wednesday noon.

French Pilot's Own Story of Ocean Hop.

clouded over and we went hour after hour over the watery waste, through a thick, white mist. We could not see what lay ahead, below, or above. It was like floating in a dream. There was something unreal about it—unreal and awesome. We were two but we seemed so all alone.

Most of the time I was at the controls and there was plenty to keep my mind busy. There was no time for dreaming. Constantly I had to shift my course to find a way out of the haze. Sometimes we dropped the plane down to less than 300 feet from the waves. At other times we were up to 2,500 feet. We seldom went above that mark.

Relief from Sighting Land.

But we had our reward. Although my mind was taken up with the details of navigation and the business of control, with my eyes constantly on the instrument panel, I could not help but feel some satisfaction as we passed over the first signs of human habitation. It was a great relief after riding the mists.

Later, as we came down your coast and saw below us great centers of population — widespread blocks of homes—some of the thrill was gone. Of course it was a great satisfaction, but after all the battle had been the flight across the sea, the war with the elements over the ocean. We had arrived in America and now our only thoughts were for Curtiss field, our final objective.

Acknowledges Reception.

When at last we arrived over Long Island we were tremendously happy. Of course when we hopped off we had gone with the greatest confidence that we would make it. And when we did we were greatly moved, not only by accomplishing the flight but even more so by the great reception which was given me here this evening.

After all, it was not the flight itself so much as the preparation that counted. Any one can get in a plane and attempt to fly across the Atlantic, but it is the preparation which determines success or failure. We did not hesitate to make our decision to leave not later than Sept. 1, because we knew that we had done all that any one could do for the trip. We had overlooked nothing.

Forecasts Too Bright.

Meteorological conditions were not as perfect for the flight as we had been led to expect. There were extensive areas of low pressure carrying unfavorable winds, but not along the entire route.

Conditions in France were far from good. There was considerable fog in the north part of my country, and we ran into dense banks of it again in the south of England. However, we had made up our minds to leave on Sept. 1, come what might. We reached this decision on Sunday.

We met some trouble getting ready for the flight because there was the Sunday holiday and not many men were available. Finally, we did the best we could with an emergency crew, hastily mobilized, and on Sunday night the plane was taken from the airdrome of Villa Coublay to the airdrome at Le Bourget, where it was put in the care of expert mechanics.

The food we were to carry was contained in two small aluminum boxes.

We waited for the dawn with great impatience. The fog at that time was so thick that we could not see farther than two kilometers. The landscape was a gray blur and the air was wet with mists. That made us restless. We could not leave, and the hours began to drag. We simply had to wait for that fog to lift.

With the aid of our friend Viau, the meteorologist, we made a weather map, based on telephone reports from every point on the French channel, to learn if there was some little loophole in that blanket of fog through which we might steal our way. From American sources, as well as from the French weather bureaus, we knew that, except for the fog near us, conditions were uniquely in favor of a westward flight.

Take Off in Mists.

We had to find that loophole if we were to get advantage of those conditions. We telephoned to Nantes, to Brest, to Cherbourg, to Havre, to Dieppe, and even to Calais, but all the doors were closed and we had to wait. About 10:30 a. m. however [French time], there was a slight improvement. Twenty-four minutes later we took the chance. We took off in the mists.

We felt certain that if we could get out of France we would reach New York the following night. Our struggle with the elements had now begun. Sixty square meters of cloth fabric had to lift 6,300 kilos, our total weight—had to carry that tremendous load through valleys, over hills, past all kinds of projections and towering heights.

Weight Prevents Climbing.

But we forged ahead, most carefully, our weight was too great to ascend to a really safe altitude. Finally, we reached the English channel, just north of Rouen. At the same time that we left the dangerous stretch of territory behind and got out of the fog over the water the air began to clear. Now we could fly above the clouds.

We went up to 700 meters, then to 800 meters, but this did not last for long. We encountered a threatening storm area, black and menacing, that barred our way and we were forced to drop again. It was a game of hide and seek—the storm reached for us and we dodged out of its way—until we reached the coast of Ireland.

Here the sky was a bit clearer and to the north of us, beyond Cape Valencia, our speed, in spite of temporary adverse winds, was more than 200 kilometers [125 miles] per hour. We then saw the Atlantic rolling under us. We were leaving the old world behind. We went on, hour after hour.

A few hundred miles east of the Irish coast we ran into a bank of cirrus clouds, indicative of more storms to come. We were ready for a fight with ocean winds. The visibility lowered and we had to swing further northward than we had planned. For a time it seemed as though we might have to go to Iceland and go inland there. That was not a pleasant prospect.

Again we started playing hide and seek. I shifted our course to the north, then I shifted it southward. Everywhere the clouds marshaled their forces to block our way. Finally, after innumerable changes of direction, we found a clear path. Not only did we escape the storms for a while, but found favorable winds, too, to carry us beyond. This good fortune lasted most of that day and into the night.

Night of Total Darkness.

Of the night there is little to be said. The fog blanketed the ocean with startling swiftness. We could not see the water beneath, nor the stars above. Never have I known darkness so complete. It became monotonous. Only the song of the motor and the tedious watch of the instruments. We yearned for daylight and relief came to us when we saw it.

We computed our position at 35 degrees north, 46 west at the coming of the dawn. This indicated to us how capricious the weather had caused us to make our path.

Our next objective was Nova Scotia. And again we had to search for a clear path around new storms. We dodged through areas of cloud, seeking favorable winds. We did not know whether the last of the journey would be smooth. We knew that we must find the best route to Nova Scotia. That was one of the danger points.

It was then that we began the long dodge of 100 miles to get into clear weather and when at last we had found it the very motor seemed to rejoice. We tore along the coast at top speed, certain then that we had conquered the Atlantic.

As you know, the coast of Nova Scotia is full of bends and turns, fills and rivers, promontories and little gulfs. When we reached the coast we were determined not to lose sight of it again. In order to keep it in view we had to follow all these devious turns, and that was a job. At the same time we had another problem. The sky was overcast, it was raining, and we had to fly below those rain clouds. Sometimes they were extremely low, which made it necessary for us to fly as close to the water as 10 meters [about 30 feet].

We came to one bend and turned it. We flew on, skirting a precipice. Suddenly there loomed up out of the mist another precipice, on our port side. We were caught between the steep banks of a river—what river I do not know. It was a tight place. Bellonte was at the controls at that time and he had to think fast. Fortunately, having flown thousands of miles, the ship was light. Bellonte gave her the gas and shot upward.

A Narrow Escape.

It is not pleasant to think how close we came to these cruel, jagged rocks. We went up fairly high and began to fly steadily by instrument. Some time passed before the clouds and the rain cleared somewhat, and then we were over what I called the Gulf of Maine. We came lower down a little later, through a new bank of fog and headed down the coast until we were over a large city.

We were so interested in trying to determine what city it was that it never occurred to us that this was the first great city we had passed since leaving Paris. Only a few minutes later we passed another city, and now there was no doubt. We identified it as Boston. We continued the flight without further incident, before landing at Valley Stream.

This is the second time that I have been in New York, and, though my first reception here was very warm, it could not, of course, compare in any way with the reception I received tonight. It touched me greatly. I was also very much touched to find that Col. Lindbergh had come to greet me with Mrs. Lindbergh.

MAP OF COSTE'S PARIS-NEW YORK FLIGHT

Log of the Flight

[By the Associated Press.]
[All time is eastern standard.]

MONDAY.

4:54 a. m.—Left Le Bourget field Paris.

9:40 a. m.—Passed over Limerick, Irish Free State.

6:00 p. m.—Liners Bremen and Europa heard plane give position as midway between Ireland and Newfoundland.

TUESDAY.

6:00 a. m.—Passed over French island of St. Pierre, south of Newfoundland, completing trans-Atlantic crossing.

9:35 a. m.—Passed over Canso, Nova Scotia.

1:55 p. m.—Reached United States coast at Great Wass island, Maine.

6:12:30 p. m.—Landed at Curtiss airport, Valley Stream, N. Y., after continuous flight of 37 hours eighteen minutes and 30 seconds.

U. S. AIRMEN PRAISE FEAT

New York, Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Flyers and leaders in the industry of aviation were enthusiastic tonight in their praise of the achievement of Capt. Coste and Maurice Bellonte.

Comment in detail follows:

Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker—It is the outstanding flight of aviation, including those made by our own pilots. The obstacles to be overcome are so much greater than those of a flight from west to east that it becomes a doubly important achievement. It goes to show what knowledge and the organization of effort can do. Basically, this is what took Lindbergh over in 1927. The flight goes to show, too, the development in motors and in carrying capacity of planes. It overshadows anything that has yet been done.

Admiral Richard E. Byrd made his comment in the form of a message to Capt. Coste, which Prof. Larry Gould of the Byrd expedition conveyed to the flyers at the field. The admiral said: "It is a great flight, old fellow. Welcome back to the States again. You have covered yourself with glory. Heartiest good wishes from all members of the Byrd expedition. I am delighted this honor has come to you. We all congratulate France in your achievement."

GERMAN FLYERS IN CLEVELAND ON WAY TO N. Y.

The flyers are en route to New York from Chicago.

CHARGES ATTACK WITH HOT POKER.

Edward Henry, a plastering contractor, was sued for divorce in Circuit court yesterday by Mrs. Minnie Henry, 2415 Foster avenue. The bill charges Henry tried to burn his wife with a red hot poker.

Adams and Lamont Also Congratulate Coste.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—(AP)—President Gaston Doumergue tonight cabled the following message to Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, trans-Atlantic flyers, in care of the French consul general at New York:

"Happy to send you my warmest congratulations for your magnificent exploit.

"GASTON DOUMERGUE."

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The highest officials of the nation, led by President Hoover, tonight joined in the acclaim of the French flyers, Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, after they completed their ocean spanning flight in New York.

"I join with the people of the nation in rejoicing over the brilliant exploit of your distinguished aviators in successfully completing for the first time in history a nonstop flight from France to the United States," President Hoover said in a telegram to President Doumergue of France.

A Glorious Record.

"France has established a glorious record," the chief executive added. "I hope that in the future many others of your citizens will come to us in this manner.

"I extend to your excellency and to the people of France my heartiest congratulations."

The President also sent the following message to Capt. Coste:

"The news of your successful flight thrills the people of the entire American nation and upon their behalf and my own I send to you and your gallant compatriot, Monsieur Maurice Bellonte, our heartiest congratulations. We shall be delighted to honor the heroic compatriots of other brave Frenchmen whose undaunted efforts foreshadowed this triumph. Our people's welcome to you is wholehearted and universal."

Two cabinet members, Secretaries Adams and Lamont, and ranking officers of the army and navy sent their congratulations to the French airmen, while the acting secretary of state, Green H. Hackworth, not only dispatched a personal cablegram to Coste, but also instructed Ambassador Edge in Paris to extend to the minister of foreign affairs the congratulations of the United States government on the "magnificent flight."

Moffett Speaks for Navy.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, U. S. N., chief of the bureau of aeronautics, termed the first east to west flight across the Atlantic as "a milestone in aviation." It proves, he said, that the work is progressing in the comparatively new art of the air.

Gen. John J. Pershing asked that his heartiest congratulations be extended to the "plucky Frenchmen."

"Think what the flight means to aviation," he said. "America will rejoice with France over Coste's great success."

NEW YORK GANGSTER PUZZLES GERMANS; SCENT DEEP PLOT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 2.—The most unwanted man in the world tonight is Jack "Legs" Diamond, New York's "gentleman bootlegger," who is languishing in the Aachen jail, anxious to get out and "take the cure" at some fashionable watering place.

Twice in 24 hours he has been greeted by the police as a big catch. The first time he was held in Antwerp, Belgium, yesterday for eight hours before the cops there found they couldn't use him because there were no charges against him. Then they pushed him across the German border. And tonight, after a feverish day of taking his finger prints, the German police don't want Diamond either, because they found that orders to hold him for murder and kindred crimes in America were not forthcoming from the American embassy. The New York police said they did not want "Legs."

The elegance of the New Yorker with his flock of swanky pigskin grips, two wardrobe trunks, and 15,000 marks cash (about $3,500) which he intended to spend in Germany is dazzling the Germans. Some police officials even thought they saw the sinister intrigues of Chicago's gang chief, Al Capone, against a rival "gentleman bootlegger whom he wanted persecuted by European police." The German foreign office declared that unless further instructions arrive from New York, Diamond will be taken to whichever border station he wants to go to.

Pampinella Is Fined for Stealing Gas from Autos

John Pampinella, 25 years old, 1122 Larabee street, was fined $200 yesterday by Judge William R. Fetzer for stealing gasoline from automobiles parked in the lower level of Wacker drive. He was arrested on Sunday morning with two companions while they were siphoning gasoline from the cars. The other defendants were similarly fined. Pampinella, who was a Deneen precinct worker in the 42d ward, was acquitted some time ago of the murder of a colored preacher, who was slain on the registration day preceding the last primary.

THREATENS BANK; 'BOMB' PROVES TO BE AN EMPTY BOX

A soft-spoken man dropped into a chair beside the desk of L. B. Johnson, real estate bond salesman for the First Trust and Savings bank, 38 South Dearborn street, yesterday morning. In his hands he held a small package covered with white paper.

"I'm desperate," said the man, "and this package is full of nitroglycerin. If you don't hand me $10,000 without a fuss, I'll smash it on the floor and we'll all go up in smoke. Quick, now!"

The bank floor was crowded. As calmly as he could Johnson said: "I wouldn't do that. Think of all the people who would be killed."

"I know," the man replied, "but I've got to have the money."

Johnson went to Louis Bock, bank policeman, and led him back to the desk. "This man wants $10,000," he explained to the officer, "and he says he has nitroglycerin in that package."

"That's right," said the man, rising, whereupon Bock seized the package and Johnson pinioned his arms. At the detective bureau the man gave his name as Walter French, 31 years old, 920 Wilson avenue. The package proved to be an empty cigaret box.

BALCHEN MUST WAIT 10 MONTHS FOR CITIZENSHIP

New York, Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Bernt Balchen, flyer and one of Rear Admiral Byrd's most trusted subordinates in arctic and antarctic explorations and in Byrd's trans-Atlantic flight, found himself in a new difficulty with the naturalization laws today and must wait another ten months before he can become an American citizen.

Balchen is a native born Norwegian. Naturalization Examiner Harold Wortenduke in Newark found the latest barrier to Balchen's Americanization today when he discovered a mistake in the first papers of Balchen, which gave the flyer credit for ten months more time in this country that he actually spent here.

ENDS LIFE IN RIVER.

John Bur, 1222 North Artesian avenue, 55 years old, jumped into the river at Chicago avenue and Halsted street last evening and was drowned.

U. S. Balloon Wins

Cleveland, O., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Officials of the nineteenth annual Gordon Bennett international balloon race believed tonight that the United States had won the event when they received an Associated Press report that Ward T. Van Orman of Akron had landed the Goodyear VIII near Canton, Mass., at 9:15 p. m. eastern standard time, based on map measurements giving his distance from Cleveland unofficially as 550 miles. Six balloons started the race here yesterday.

Capt. Ernest Demuyter, pilot of the Belgian entry, the Belgica, landed near Adams, Mass., calculated to be 435 miles from the starting point.

The City of Detroit, one of the three entries from the United States, traveled 400 miles to a brick yard at Coeymans, 12 miles south of Albany, N. Y.

The City of Cleveland landed in a tree near Copenhagen, N. Y., about 350 miles from Cleveland.

SEAPLANE HITS DIVING BOARD; THREE ARE KILLED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Sept. 2.—A military seaplane, attempting to take off at Loosdrecht lake in north Holland, crashed into a springboard in a nearby swimming pool today. The pilot, an observer, and a boy, standing on the springboard, were killed.

PEACE OR WAR! INDIA'S FUTURE UP TO 'HOLY MAN'

British Submit Final Terms to Gandhi.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOMBAY, Sept. 2.—Upon the shoulders of India's "holy man," sitting behind prison bars working away at his spinning wheel, now rests the responsibility of peace or a continuance of revolution in India.

The two peace makers, Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and M. Jayakar, moderate leaders, arrived in Bombay this morning and proceeded to Poona tonight. Tomorrow they will present the government's final proposals to Mahatma Gandhi at the Yeravda jail, and by tomorrow night, or Thursday, the world will know whether the first nonviolent revolution in history will be called off or continued.

"Peace with Honor."

Breaking the silence he has maintained since the peace parleys began, M. Jayakar in an exclusive interview outlined the negotiations this afternoon. He revealed that the British are now willing to grant "peace with honor," which has been the Nationalist war cry.

"Everything is now up to Mr. Gandhi," said Jayakar. "It is his to say whether there will be peace or war. With such responsibility he will, I hope, choose peace.

"The terms we are bringing him are not those which a conqueror could expect to receive. They are not all the Nationalist congress asked for. But they are a fair compromise, and, as an Indian patriot, I think they represent 'peace with honor.' The government has never been prepared to go so far to meet the Nationalists' demands as now, and unless they are accepted I am afraid we will never get more favorable terms unless we emerge from the struggle as clear conquerors. I am going to plead with Mr. Gandhi to accept them."

Dislikes Gandhi's Method.

Jayakar himself is a leader in the Nationalist party, as opposed to Mr. Gandhi's Swaraj or independence party in the legislative assembly. He led the Simon commission boycott and stands for independence under dominion status. But he disagrees with Gandhi's method of attaining it.

"If Mr. Gandhi turns down these peace terms tomorrow I'm afraid that the next four months will see a great wave of revolution and repression in India," he said. "So far the movement has been non-violent, but that is because the people of Bombay province, and Gandhi's own immediate followers, have been trained and disciplined by him, and are by nature nonviolent.

Fears Warlike Races.

"But in the distant provinces there are more warlike peoples, the Sikhs, Pathans, and Bengalis who, though acknowledging Gandhi's leadership, will be unable to remain nonviolent, when provoked by the police and military. When they are stirred they start striking back, and then the revolution may pass to a violent stage and out of Gandhi's control.

According to information the government's proposals demand, first, the immediate end of the civil disobedience campaign; second, halting the boycott on British goods, and third, participation of the congress in the London conference.

The government in return pledges to accept as a basis for the round table discussions the "substance of independence."

Twenty Hurt in Riot.

Yrigoyen Ill as Leaders of Argentina Demand He Quit

BY HAROLD TATAM.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 2.—THE TRIBUNE understands from reliable sources that President Yrigoyen is seriously ill. He is reported to have a very high temperature and was unable to attend cabinet sessions.

A party of prominent Yrigoyenist radicals, headed by Vice President Enrique Martinez, was reported to have gone to the president's house late tonight to request his immediate resignation, which they hoped would be obtained by midnight, in view of the weight of radical opinion represented by the delegation.

While so far it has been impossible to obtain confirmation only of the resignation of Gen. Luis Delleplane, there are indications that other cabinet members have or will quit. Rumors say the entire cabinet presented resignations prior to intimating to the president the necessity for him to resign outright or temporarily retire from the scene to recuperate his shattered health. A radical senator, long one of Yrigoyen's supporters, according to the report, was charged with the job of breaking the news to him.

Marines Are Landed.

Meanwhile the government is increasing its precautionary measures.

Government agents visited the "Popular University" (the People's university) to learn if arms had been secreted on the premises. A suspicious looking box was found, but it contained books.

One hundred marines disembarked this afternoon from the coast guard boat Garibaldi. They were posted along the docks to await orders.

Two more destroyers anchored in the harbor. Eleven warships are now there.

The city remained quiet and business went on undisturbed.

Claim Army Balked Yrigoyen.

An explanation of the government's recent spectacular precautions which appears plausible has been given to THE TRIBUNE by usually well informed quarters.

According to this version, when the president recently decided on federal intervention in the province of Entre Rios it was deemed advisable to sound out military opinion on such action. It was then found that military officials were adverse to taking part in a forcible subjection of Entre Rios, where it was currently believed that preparations were being made to resist intervention by force of arms.

The opinions of the army officers were expressed in such forcible terms that all idea of intervention was momentarily dropped and an investigation was instituted to learn how far the disapproval of the government policy existed in national services.

Peru Debates Yank's Fate.

LIMA, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Lieutenant Commander Harold B. Grow, an American, who commanded the Peruvian flying forces under the deposed President Leguia, is still held in prison at Arequipa while he has been threatened with a court martial on charges of violating the military code. It is understood the case is complicated by his American citizenship and the fact he is a reserve officer of the United States navy.

Communications have been passing between the American embassy and the Peruvian foreign office on Grow's case.

Meanwhile a junta official visited Grow's quarters at the aviation ministry, taking possession of the official papers and delivering those of a personal nature to Mrs. Grow.

The government is also reticent regarding what ultimately will be done with Charles W. Sutton, an American engineer, under charges of mishandling funds on an irrigation project. He is held in the national penitentiary here.

START GRAFT INQUIRY

BY C. N. GRIFFIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA, Peru, Sept. 2.—While the international aspects of the overthrow of the Leguia administration have not been overlooked either by the responsible officials or by political observers, there has so far been no indication of any difficulties arising from this quarter. Virtually all the foreign legations harbor political refugees, and the status of such refugees is now being debated in diplomatic and Peruvian legal circles.

A decree by President Sanchez Cerro revolutionary junta today created a national tribunal of accounts which will investigate all charges of graft made against former government employés and of those having business transactions with the government.

Cut Off Parliamentary Salaries.

Three hundred motor cars belonging to former government employés have been seized and will be sold at public auction. Other sweeping economies being made in government services include the suspension of all congressional and legislative costs including salaries of senators and deputies.

All licensed gambling was suppressed by the Junta government today.

Uncover Santo Domingo Plot.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, Sept. 2.—(AP)—J. R. Cordero-Infante, a prominent lawyer, was arrested today on charges of plotting against the life of President Rafel L. Trujillo. The police said Heriberto de Los Santos, Jose Maria Veloz and Centeno Burgos also were implicated in the plot which was foiled.

WETMORE'S WILL PUTS ESTATE IN TRUST FOR WIDOW

The will of Frank O. Wetmore, chairman of the First National bank of Chicago and the First Union Trust and Savings bank, was filed for probate yesterday in the Du Page county court at Wheaton. The bulk of the estate, which has been estimated at $1,000,000, is left in trust to the widow, Mrs. Marie Louise Wetmore.

In the document filed in court the estate was valued at only $250,000. This is only a conservative estimate, according to Emmerson R. Lewis, trust officer of the Union Trust and Savings bank, who said the actual value might be several times that amount. The total will not be known, he said, until Mr. Wetmore's safety deposit boxes are opened.

A bequest of $50,000 is left his son, Horace O. Wetmore. A trust fund of $50,000 is provided for a grandson, Orville Chase Wetmore, whose father, bearing the same name, died while in service as an ensign in the United States navy. The remainder of the estate is left in trust to Mrs. Wetmore. Mr. Wetmore died suddenly of a heart attack on Aug. 25.

FATHER FINDS HIS SOLDIER SON, "DEAD" 13 YEARS

Chance Street Meeting Brings Reunion.

For nearly thirteen years Robert J. Fisher, a bookkeeper at the Beach View club, 1725 East 53d street, had been seeking news of his only son, who sailed in 1917 for the war in France.

After the armistice the father had appealed to the war department, written personally to Gen. John J. Pershing and inserted messages in veterans' magazines, without success. Neither the enlistment, death nor discharge of Oliver Fisher was on record and the father was gradually becoming reconciled to the thought that his boy lay in some unmarked grave.

Yesterday he was at work when an old neighbor, Dr. Gustave Gottwald, 3050 North Sawyer avenue, telephoned. They had not met for several years.

Hears Familiar Voice.

"How's your heart, Bob?" the physician asked with professional caution. Fisher assured him the organ was as sound as a man of 55 years could expect and asked why the question.

"Hello, dad."

"Is that you, Ollie?" the father's voice faltered. It was.

Then came explanations. The son, then 21 years old, had enlisted with an ambulance unit at Charlotte, Mich., using an assumed name lest the government transfer him to the navy, in which he had previously served.

The armistice was near when young Fisher was gassed. He was sent to a base hospital and discharged, partially blind. The war was over and Fisher was mustered out at Camp Custer, Mich., under his assumed name.

Hunts Family in Vain.

He drifted east, a victim of amnesia, and for five years had only a hazy recollection of pre-war days. In 1925, seeking trace of his family, he returned to Chicago and inquired at the Fair store, where his father had been a bookkeeper. The father was no longer employed there.

The son wrote letters to every Fisher listed in the city directory and vainly endeavored to trace his two sisters. Unknown to him, they had married. He met a Gary girl, married her and returned to New York.

Granted a vacation a week ago by the Greyhound Bus company, of whose New Jersey lines he is superintendent, Fisher brought his wife back to visit her family in Gary.

The faint hope that his own family might still be in Chicago led him to revisit the north side neighborhood of his youth. He was gazing at the house of his birth when Dr. Gottwald chanced to pass and recognized him.

The reunion that followed was saddened by the absence of Fisher's mother. She has been dead for a number of years.

CHICAGO WARTIME FRIEND TELLS ABOUT YANK HELD IN PERU

Adventure seldom has beckoned in vain to Lieutenant Commander Harold B. Grow, now threatened with court martial in Peru, a wartime pal of the American officer declared last night. Otis Duncan, dealer in railway supplies, recalled at his home, 1955 West 101st street, how monotonous Grow found service aboard the cruiser Des Moines during the world war.

"We made sixteen trips to Europe as escort to trans-Atlantic convoys," he related. "I think Bing, as we called him, was too active a man to be content with that service, which wasn't really fighting. In May of 1918, he joined the naval aviation service as a student flyer. After that I lost track of him until about 1923, when he looked me up here in Chicago.

"At a meeting of the Adventurers' club after his return from Peru, I learned from John McCutcheon, THE TRIBUNE cartoonist, that he had been entertained by Lieutenant Commander and Mrs. Grow at their home in Lima. Mr. McCutcheon told me Bing had a baby jaguar and a native cub bear. He isn't the type of man to be guilty of intending to bomb a town, as the Peru junta forces charge."

SUES TO PREVENT PAYMENT ON LANE SCHOOLCONTRACT

Charging that the members of the board of education failed to award a contract for work on the new Lane Technical High school, under construction at Addison street and Western avenue, to the low bidder, George E. Mathis, a ventilating contractor at 5658 South Western avenue, yesterday filed suit for an injunction to enjoin the payment of public funds on the contract. The petition, filed in Superior court, also asks that the court void the contract.

Mathis alleges that his bid for $340,500 for the installation of a ventilating system in the new building was $12,419 lower than the bid of the Bloomer Heating and Ventilating company, which was given the work on Aug. 29. The latter company is made a defendant in the suit along with the school trustees and City Controller Schmidt.

Lewis E. Myers, president of the board, said last night that the Mathis bid of $340,500 was for a different type of blower system than that selected by the board.

MORGAN YACHT AGROUND; LOW TIDE HAS PERIL

$3,000,000 Craft Fast on Maine Ledge.

Dark Harbor, Me., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—The $3,000,000 steam yacht Corsair, which was completed for J. P. Morgan only last spring, ran aground late this afternoon on a rock ledge in Gilkey's harbor, Penobscot bay.

As there is an eleven foot tide in the channel and the palatial craft ran aground at high tide, fears were felt that she might break in two at low tide about 2 a. m.

Late tonight the yacht lay with the normal waterline along her bow extending almost six feet above the surface of the waves. At the first shock of the crash, when the huge craft ran almost half her length onto the ledge, the bow was thrust four feet upward and as the tide began to run out she began to list to port.

Young Morgan and Wife Aboard.

Junius Morgan, son of the financier, and his wife were aboard at the time of the grounding. Although, in response to a radio appeal for help, the Corsair was quickly surrounded by small craft, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan decided to spend the night aboard the yacht and declined offers to take them ashore.

The Corsair was proceeding into the harbor here when, it is believed, the helmsman mistook a buoy marking the port side of the channel, which is narrow and dangerous, for one on the starboard side. She struck sharply on the ledge, which extends from the north end of Minot's island, on which Frederick R. Kellogg of New York has a summer residence.

Difficult to Dislodge.

When the full power of her own engines was unable to wrest the 353 foot yacht from the ledge, word was sent to Rockland for assistance. The ocean going yacht Wyoming responded, but the combined efforts of the tug and the yacht's engine served only to part a ten inch hawser without budging the Corsair.

The attempt to haul her off finally had to be abandoned for fear that the yacht's hull would be seriously damaged by being scraped along the rocks. The Wyoming and five other tugs were standing by tonight, but it was said that they would not try to get the Corsair off until the morning full tide.

LIMA, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Lieutenant Commander Harold B. Grow, an American, who commanded the Peruvian flying forces under the deposed President Leguia, is still held in prison at Arequipa while he has been threatened with a court martial on charges of violating the military code. It is understood the case is complicated by his American citizenship and the fact he is a reserve officer of the United States navy.

Communications have been passing between the American embassy and the Peruvian foreign office on Grow's case.

Meanwhile a junta official visited Grow's quarters at the aviation ministry, taking possession of the official papers and delivering those of a personal nature to Mrs. Grow.

The government is also reticent regarding what ultimately will be done with Charles W. Sutton, an American engineer, under charges of mishandling funds on an irrigation project. He is held in the national penitentiary here.

START GRAFT INQUIRY

BY C. N. GRIFFIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA, Peru, Sept. 2.—While the international aspects of the overthrow of the Leguia administration have not been overlooked either by the responsible officials or by political observers, there has so far been no indication of any difficulties arising from this quarter. Virtually all the foreign legations harbor political refugees, and the status of such refugees is now being debated in diplomatic and Peruvian legal circles.

A decree by President Sanchez Cerro revolutionary junta today created a national tribunal of accounts which will investigate all charges of graft made against former government employés and of those having business transactions with the government.

Cut Off Parliamentary Salaries.

Three hundred motor cars belonging to former government employés have been seized and will be sold at public auction. Other sweeping economies being made in government services include the suspension of all congressional and legislative costs including salaries of senators and deputies.

All licensed gambling was suppressed by the Junta government today.

Uncover Santo Domingo Plot.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, Sept. 2.—(AP)—J. R. Cordero-Infante, a prominent lawyer, was arrested today on charges of plotting against the life of President Rafel L. Trujillo. The police said Heriberto de Los Santos, Jose Maria Veloz and Centeno Burgos also were implicated in the plot which was foiled.

WETMORE'S WILL PUTS ESTATE IN TRUST FOR WIDOW

The will of Frank O. Wetmore, chairman of the First National bank of Chicago and the First Union Trust and Savings bank, was filed for probate yesterday in the Du Page county court at Wheaton. The bulk of the estate, which has been estimated at $1,000,000, is left in trust to the widow, Mrs. Marie Louise Wetmore.

In the document filed in court the estate was valued at only $250,000. This is only a conservative estimate, according to Emmerson R. Lewis, trust officer of the Union Trust and Savings bank, who said the actual value might be several times that amount. The total will not be known, he said, until Mr. Wetmore's safety deposit boxes are opened.

A bequest of $50,000 is left his son, Horace O. Wetmore. A trust fund of $50,000 is provided for a grandson, Orville Chase Wetmore, whose father, bearing the same name, died while in service as an ensign in the United States navy. The remainder of the estate is left in trust to Mrs. Wetmore. Mr. Wetmore died suddenly of a heart attack on Aug. 25.

FATHER FINDS HIS SOLDIER SON, "DEAD" 13 YEARS

Chance Street Meeting Brings Reunion.

For nearly thirteen years Robert J. Fisher, a bookkeeper at the Beach View club, 1725 East 53d street, had been seeking news of his only son, who sailed in 1917 for the war in France.

After the armistice the father had appealed to the war department, written personally to Gen. John J. Pershing and inserted messages in veterans' magazines, without success. Neither the enlistment, death nor discharge of Oliver Fisher was on record and the father was gradually becoming reconciled to the thought that his boy lay in some unmarked grave.

Yesterday he was at work when an old neighbor, Dr. Gustave Gottwald, 3050 North Sawyer avenue, telephoned. They had not met for several years.

Hears Familiar Voice.

"How's your heart, Bob?" the physician asked with professional caution. Fisher assured him the organ was as sound as a man of 55 years could expect and asked why the question.

"Just a minute; get ready for a shock," warned the doctor. Then came a younger man's voice:

"Hello, dad."

"Is that you, Ollie?" the father's voice faltered. It was.

Then came explanations. The son, then 21 years old, had enlisted with an ambulance unit at Charlotte, Mich., using an assumed name lest the government transfer him to the navy, in which he had previously served.

The armistice was near when young Fisher was gassed. He was sent to a base hospital and discharged, partially blind. The war was over and Fisher was mustered out at Camp Custer, Mich., under his assumed name.

Hunts Family in Vain.

He drifted east, a victim of amnesia, and for five years had only a hazy recollection of pre-war days. In 1925, seeking trace of his family, he returned to Chicago and inquired at the Fair store, where his father had been a bookkeeper. The father was no longer employed there.

The son wrote letters to every Fisher listed in the city directory and vainly endeavored to trace his two sisters. Unknown to him, they had married. He met a Gary girl, married her and returned to New York.

Granted a vacation a week ago by the Greyhound Bus company, of whose New Jersey lines he is superintendent, Fisher brought his wife back to visit her family in Gary.

The faint hope that his own family might still be in Chicago led him to revisit the north side neighborhood of his youth. He was gazing at the house of his birth when Dr. Gottwald chanced to pass and recognized him.

The reunion that followed was saddened by the absence of Fisher's mother. She has been dead for a number of years.

CHICAGO WARTIME FRIEND TELLS ABOUT YANK HELD IN PERU

Adventure seldom has beckoned in vain to Lieutenant Commander Harold B. Grow, now threatened with court martial in Peru, a wartime pal of the American officer declared last night. Otis Duncan, dealer in railway supplies, recalled at his home, 1955 West 101st street, how monotonous Grow found service aboard the cruiser Des Moines during the world war.

"We made sixteen trips to Europe as escort to trans-Atlantic convoys," he related. "I think Bing, as we called him, was too active a man to be content with that service, which wasn't really fighting. In May of 1918, he joined the naval aviation service as a student flyer. After that I lost track of him until about 1923, when he looked me up here in Chicago.

"At a meeting of the Adventurers' club after his return from Peru, I learned from John McCutcheon, THE TRIBUNE cartoonist, that he had been entertained by Lieutenant Commander and Mrs. Grow at their home in Lima. Mr. McCutcheon told me Bing had a baby jaguar and a native cub bear. He isn't the type of man to be guilty of intending to bomb a town, as the Peru junta forces charge."

SUES TO PREVENT PAYMENT ON LANE SCHOOLCONTRACT

Charging that the members of the board of education failed to award a contract for work on the new Lane Technical High school, under construction at Addison street and Western avenue, to the low bidder, George E. Mathis, a ventilating contractor at 5658 South Western avenue, yesterday filed suit for an injunction to enjoin the payment of public funds on the contract. The petition, filed in Superior court, also asks that the court void the contract.

Mathis alleges that his bid for $340,500 for the installation of a ventilating system in the new building was $12,419 lower than the bid of the Bloomer Heating and Ventilating company, which was given the work on Aug. 29. The latter company is made a defendant in the suit along with the school trustees and City Controller Schmidt.

Lewis E. Myers, president of the board, said last night that the Mathis bid of $340,500 was for a different type of blower system than that selected by the board.

MORGAN YACHT AGROUND; LOW TIDE HAS PERIL

$3,000,000 Craft Fast on Maine Ledge.

Dark Harbor, Me., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—The $3,000,000 steam yacht Corsair, which was completed for J. P. Morgan only last spring, ran aground late this afternoon on a rock ledge in Gilkey's harbor, Penobscot bay.

As there is an eleven foot tide in the channel and the palatial craft ran aground at high tide, fears were felt that she might break in two at low tide about 2 a. m.

Late tonight the yacht lay with the normal waterline along her bow extending almost six feet above the surface of the waves. At the first shock of the crash, when the huge craft ran almost half her length onto the ledge, the bow was thrust four feet upward and as the tide began to run out she began to list to port.

Young Morgan and Wife Aboard.

Junius Morgan, son of the financier, and his wife were aboard at the time of the grounding. Although, in response to a radio appeal for help, the Corsair was quickly surrounded by small craft, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan decided to spend the night aboard the yacht and declined offers to take them ashore.

The Corsair was proceeding into the harbor here when, it is believed, the helmsman mistook a buoy marking the port side of the channel, which is narrow and dangerous, for one on the starboard side. She struck sharply on the ledge, which extends from the north end of Minot's island, on which Frederick R. Kellogg of New York has a summer residence.

Difficult to Dislodge.

When the full power of her own engines was unable to wrest the 353 foot yacht from the ledge, word was sent to Rockland for assistance. The ocean going yacht Wyoming responded, but the combined efforts of the tug and the yacht's engine served only to part a ten inch hawser without budging the Corsair.

The attempt to haul her off finally had to be abandoned for fear that the yacht's hull would be seriously damaged by being scraped along the rocks. The Wyoming and five other tugs were standing by tonight, but it was said that they would not try to get the Corsair off until the morning full tide.

LYLE FREES 56; TELLS CAPTAIN TO HUNT CROOKS

Paints Contrast in Race Betting Here.

Half a hundred drunkards, floaters, and vagrants were discharged by Judge John H. Lyle yesterday after the judge had lectured Capt. Michael Delaney of the East Chicago police on the subject of arresting real crooks and had delivered an additional dictum on the ethics of locking up patrons of racing handbooks.

A little later, the station commander had five raids on "the livliest handbooks in the district," but four were found closed, while the fifth yielded eight men. They were taken to the bureau of identification.

This latest chapter in the campaign Judge Lyle has been waging to have gangsters brought before him, a campaign which has gone off on a race bet slant the last few days, occurred near the end of the daily court call. The drunkards and vagrants had been locked in the cages all day until more important cases had been cleared from the docket. Finally their turn came.

As the derelicts filed into the courtroom, the judge directed that they be lined up in front of the bench. Then he sent for Capt. Delaney.

"One Criminal in 30 Days."

"Captain," he said, "before us here we have something like 56 men charged with being drunk and disorderly. I suppose that most of them have been picked up within the last three days. I wonder if you have ever figured what the cost would be to make these arrests and how much time and energy have been expended. I have thought for along time and I believe the police department knows who are the real criminals in Chicago and can drive them out if they want to within 30 days.

"I have been in this district 30 days and only one real criminal has been brought in—Emmet Davis—and he was fined and sent to jail for a year. You have been very busy, and your predecessor [Capt. Albert C. Christiansen] was very busy, in arresting drunks, park sleepers, and disorderly people and men who have been charged with gambling—petty gambling. I would like to see you and your men for members of the Capone, Moran, and Aiello gangs.

Contrasts Arlington Patrons.

"In reference to the petty offenders, I want to say something about the little gamblers who have been thrown in jail for betting a dollar or two on the horses. It is hard for these men to understand no doubt, why they are locked up and not booked when they read in the papers that Gov. Emmerson, the lieutenant governor, police captains and any number of policemen are at the race track at Arlington watching horses run and betting.

"They cannot understand why it is a violation to put a dollar on a horse at the corner of Clark street and Chicago avenue and why it is no offense to bet $500 on a horse at Lincoln Fields. I understand those poor fellows who owned and operated Arlington only made a million dollars the last thirty day meet. Of course, I realize these little bookmakers in town are making it hard for those fellows out there, otherwise they would make a great deal more. I once heard a minister say that you could no more expect to stamp out gambling than you could expect a hound dog with wax legs to catch an asbestos cat in Hades.

"If I was down on the south side I think I would call in the captain and suggest to him to surround a certain hotel and scuttle the place from top to bottom and take out Mr. Capone's cohorts and killers who are reputed to occupy an entire floor there with their leader."

His lecture over Judge Lyle discharged the drunks and Capt. Delaney went out to raid the handooks. At 547 Rush street, the only place found open, Harry Curtis, 5015 Sheridan road, was taken as keeper with seven men.

Of the $25,000 reward offered by The Tribune $10,000 will be paid to any person who will give confidential information identifying the slayer of Lingle. All information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in room 503 Temple building, 77 West Washington street. Telephone State 3729

The September grand jury, which was impaneled yesterday by Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court, was instructed to further and aid the investigation now being conducted by the state's attorney's office into the murder of Alfred Lingle. The general crime situation was called to the attention of the new jury by the judge.

Other than the brief instruction to "further and aid" the investigation, the jurors were given no specific program. State's Attorney Swanson said that when Special Assistant State's Attorney Charles Rathbun and Chief Investigator Patrick Roche complete their investigations he will take the evidence gathered before the grand jury. He could not tell, however, whether he would be prepared to do that before the present jury or some future grand jury.

Evanston Man Is Foreman.

G. F. Slaughter, 1408 Ridge avenue, Evanston, vice president of the American Steel foundry, 410 North Michigan boulevard, was chosen foreman of the new jury.

"Your attention is particularly directed to the menace of organized crime in Cook county," was the instruction of the judge. "Strongly intrenched, fortified by money and sinister influences, lawless groups have for many years engaged in racketeering and murder, ruthless and wantonly cruel.

"The failure, in most instances, to apprehend those who are thus defiantly flaunting the law, is evidence of a serious want of efficiency in the matter of detection and apprehension of the criminal. It represents a situation of gravest public concern.

Swift Punishment Urged.

"Perhaps the most dramatic and cynical defiance of the law by organized crime was the killing of Alfred Lingle on June 9. It is your duty, representing the majesty of the people of this community to further and aid the investigation thereof now in progress by the state's attorney and his assistants.

"To the wrongdoer, swift and certain punishment is a most powerful deterrent."

The judge also put stress on the routine instruction to the effect that the grand jury is prohibited from holding communication with any one except the court and state's attorney and "that it is improper for any one else to send communications to the jurors or you jurors to receive them."

Court attachés said that the judge had in mind a communication which for the last few months has been mailed to every grand juror by the Better Government association, of which E. J. Davis, formerly of the Anti-Saloon league, is superintendent.

The document gives the jurors a supposed outline of their duties and powers and suggests calling in policemen in groups, civic leaders, and others on what court officials term a "fishing expedition."

DENMAN, HUNTED FOR GUN INQUIRY, TRACED TO COAST

Rum Indictment of Gang Suspect Recalled.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Joseph Robinson, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

The search for Harold A. Denman, former Chicago police sergeant, now charged with having supplied pistols, rifles, and machine guns to Chicago gangsters, shifted to the west yesterday upon information received by Coroner Bundeson that Denman had been in Nevada and California in recent weeks.

Denman is wanted by the coroner to be questioned concerning the identity of the gangsters to whom he is alleged to have sold the weapons. The coroner's ballistics investigation traced one weapon which was found upon a Capone gangster, and another used by gangsters who attempted to kill Jack Zuta in State stret on July 1, from the Colt factory to Denman, who is said to have operated under the name "Gary Mail Order House," and "H. A. Darling."

Indicted by U. S. in 1927.

Denman, in addition to having been involved in several beer traffic scandals, in 1923 and 1925, was indicted by a federal grand jury in 1927 on a charge of conspiracy to transport liquor.

It was charged that Denman, then a county highway policeman, had joined with two prohibition agents and five hoodlums, in the seizure of 100 cases of Carling's ale, which was being run from Milwaukee to Chicago, instead of delivering the liquor to their superiors, the agents and Denman, were charged with having taken it to the Burnham inn, at Burnham.

All the defendants, with the exception of Denman, were also indicted for extortion.

Charges Are Dismissed.

The two agents were convicted on the extortion charge, but were given a new trial, and before the case could be brought to trial again, it was decided by the federal authorities that the evidence at hand was insufficient, and all the charges, including those against Denman, were dismissed.

Israel Alderman, one of the several henchmen of the Zuta-Aiello-Moran gang who deserted their mates and joined the forces of Scarface Al Capone, will be questioned this morning by Pat Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney Swanson. Mr. Roche said he had no information connecting Alderman with the slaying of Alfred Lingle, but he desired to question the hoodlum concerning his gang activities.

A writ of habeas corpus was presented in Alderman's behalf by Attorney Benjamin Feldman, and Chief Justice McGoorty permitted the gangster to be held for investigation until this afternoon.

AUGUST AIRPORT TRAFFIC SHOWS 50% INCREASE

8,741 Passengers Clear Port in Month.

Air traffic at the municipal airport during August increased virtually 50 per cent over the same month in 1929, according to a statement yesterday by Walter Wright, superintendent of aviation for the city. During last month 246,000 pounds of mail and 8,741 passengers cleared the port.

Mr. Wright, describing this as a normal growth, said traffic probably would be doubled again after the city and the board of education agree on their airport lease and clear the way for the city to proceed with its improvement and expansion program for its landing field. He said the enlarged and improved airport should become self-supporting from an operations standpoint. It now shows a deficit.

Returned by Ettelson.

The airport lease, by which the city takes over school property, already has been approved by both the city council and the board of education, but was referred to the school board again by Corporation Counsel Ettelson with recommendations that a few alterations be made before Mayor Thompson affixed his signature.

Lewis E. Myers, president of the school board, passed the recommendations on to the committee on buildings and grounds, whose chairman is Carter Blatchford. Mr. Myers said he hoped favorable action would be taken at the committee's meeting next Tuesday.

Says Flying Concerns Wait.

In discussing the need for prompt improvement and expansion of the airport, Mr. Wright said numerous air transport concerns were waiting for the increased facilities before establishing terminals here and increasing their traffic in Chicago. The improvements will provide more hangar space, larger runways, and a better field.

Comparing the growth in municipal airport traffic, despite the competition from other airports, Mr. Wright said the air mail volume in August of 1929 was only 180,300 pounds, as against 246,000 last month. The total of 8,741 passengers carried in and out of the airport last month made an average of nearly 300 daily. Only 6,600 passengers were carried in August, 1929. While 6,173 airplane landings were made in August, 1929, against 3,768 last month, Mr. Wright said the great majority in 1929 were student landings.

B. F. HOWARD'S TINY HOMEMADE AIRPLANE EARNS COST AT RACES

In the propeller wash of the national air meet fragments of the $100,000 fund of cash prizes were being whirled away to every corner of the country yesterday as the pilots took the air lanes homeward.

For his gameness, skill, and perseverance no one would dispute that the palm as the event's most popular winner was merited by B. F. Howard of St. Louis. Others carried off larger sums in money and trophies than the builder, owner, and pilot of the tiny white monoplane that was entered so consistently and won so persistently in the numerous races. But Howard carried with him also the admiration of the crowds.

His biggest purse was the $2,000 he won for third place position in the main event of the meet—the free for all Thompson trophy. That placing won his seventh prize, of which five were firsts. Altogether he netted $6,150 in cash, more than sufficient to pay the cost of his plane, built in his own back yard.

Wiley Post, winner of the nonstop Derby from the west coast, was awarded $7,500 in cash, the largest single purse. The Thompson race money was $5,000, exclusive of the trophy itself, made of marble, gold and silver and probably almost equaling the purse in value. Charles W. [Speed] Holman captured that prize.

Jimmie Haizlip of St. Louis received $3,000 for his second place in the Thompson competition, to which he added $450 for first place in the air transport event. Jimmie's wife, Mae, proved herself a real helpmeet by boosting that sum $1,250 more, $750 of which was earned by her second place in the Mrs. Robert R. McCormick trophy race, and $500 for first place in the women's open cockpit event.

Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell of Long Beach, Cal., was far and away the best repaid of any of the women entrants. She started out well by winning the women's Pacific Coast Derby and $3,500; kept it up by a $750 win for first place in the women's open cockpit race for larger planes, added to the record with $300 more for third place in the women's cabin plane contest, and wound up with a flourish by carrying home the McCormick trophy and the purse of $1,250 in the women's free-for-all. Her three trophies represent more than $5,000 additional in value.

AIR EXPERTS SEE PARACHUTE LAND PLANE IN SAFETY

Pilot Is Unshaken by 2,500 Foot Drop.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—The first public demonstration of an airplane parachute recently developed by James M. Russell, commercial parachute builder, was staged today at the Grosse Isle airport.

Representatives from leading air transport operators, veteran pilots from various sections, visiting newspaper men, and leaders of the industry in Detroit were among the spectators. They all enjoyed a thrilling moment when Vance Breese, Detroit Aircraft corporation pilot, shut off his motor and put his plane into a spin at 2,500 feet, and then released his parachute.

Pilot Lands Unshaken.

Although the chute opened instantly when released from the tail of the plane, the biplane, weighing about 1,800 pounds, acted like a monkey performing various gyrations, as it descended to the airport.

It was expected that the fall would damage the plane to a certain extent, but the damage was lighter than the veteran observers believed possible. A gust of wind pushed the plane a few feet across the field sidewise. Both lower wings were damaged and the landing gear supports crushed.

Otherwise, the plane was not damaged and Breese stepped from the sockpit as unshaken as if he had made a normal landing.

Airmen Pleased.

"It certainly acted splendidly," E. P. Lott, operations manager for National Air Transport, one of the largest operators in the world, said. Lott came here, like others, especially to witness the demonstration.

"I see where it will become standard equipment on planes, more quickly on mail planes," Lott said. "There are many old mail pilots who would be alive today if all planes had been equipped with such a device in the past."

The department of commerce displayed keen interest in the test. Harold R. Neely, engineering inspector, witnessed the demonstration.

Operation of Parachute.

The parachute is contained in a tube about six feet long and then fitted into the small end of the fuselage. A metal cap covers the protruding end of the tube, inside of which is the pilot chute, about ten times the size of a pilot chute on conventional parachutes.

From the tube to the upper center section two quarter inch cables run over the vertical fin. They are clasped by soft metal hasps which release easily when the release trigger is pulled.

A small lead is fastened to the pilot chute, so that when it has pulled the main chute from the tube it is automatically detached and floats away.

In case the engine recovers after quitting, the pilot can release the four cable connections on top of the wing, allowing the main chute to disengage from the fastenings.

CAT LEAPS ON DRIVER, AUTO STRIKES TREE; WOMAN IS KILLED

Benton Harbor, Mich., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—The family pet cat indirectly caused the death of Mrs. J. E. Ricker Sr., 73, of 113 Sherman avenue, Joliet, Ill., as the Ricker family was returning from northern Michigan to their home late Monday night.

Mrs. Ricker was instantly killed when she and her son, J. E. Ricker Jr., and his wife were driving on M-12 south of here, and the cat suddenly jumped in the lap of Ricker, who was driving. Attempting to push the animal off, Ricker drove into a tree. He suffered a fractured jaw. His mother had a fractured skull.

EXPERTS SEEKING CAUSE OF FATAL AIR RACE CRASH

Crackup of Capt. Page Baffles Flyers.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

What caused Capt. Arthur H. Page to lose control of his plane and fall to his death at Curtiss airport Monday was still a mystery yesterday to flyers and physicians who were inquiring into the death of the famous marine corps pilot. Page's plane crashed as he was winning the final sweepstakes speed event of the 1930 national air races.

In the opinion of Maj. R. W. Schroeder, contest director of the races, and Lieut. James C. Doolittle, noted test pilot, any one of a variety of causes might have brought on the fatal crash. After an inspection of the wreckage of the big Curtiss Hawk yesterday the two pilots expressed the opinion that motor failure or physical weakening of the pilot might have caused the plane to fall.

Schroeder Doubts Gas Theory.

Schroeder acknowledged that the pilot may have been overcome by motor gases but he was inclined to give little weight to this theory, pointing out that the exhaust pipes of the huge 800 horsepower motor emptied on the side and to the rear of the cockpit. The fact that Charles [Speed] Holman, winner of the race, was affected by motor fumes was attributed to a different type of motor in which two cylinders in the radial engine empty their exhaust directly in front of the cockpit.

Dr. William D. McNally, health department toxicologist, after examining samples of blood taken from Page yesterday, stated that he had discovered the presence of carbon monoxide in the blood. In his report he stated that gases "must be given consideration in accounting for his loss of control over the machine."

"The result of the analysis showed that 100 cc. of the sample contained 4.47 cc. of carbon monoxide," the report stated. "No gasoline vapors were found."

Enough Gas to Cause Dizziness.

Later Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, health commissioner, amplified Dr. McNally's report with the statement that sufficient gases were found in the blood to cause dizziness and weakness.

Maj. Schroeder stated that Page's motor may have become overheated because of the tremendous speed and that, forced to land, he experienced difficulty in bringing his heavy plane safely to the ground. It was pointed out that the plane's wing had an extremely small area for the weight of the ship.

"He was handling his plane expertly up to the time it crashed," Maj. Schroeder said. "One thing that will always be remembered about Page is that he pulled away from the crowd and out of the path of his fellow racers before he attempted to land."

Funeral services for Capt. Page will be held Thursday in Arlington National cemetery. Page's brother officers in the marine corps will be honorary pallbearers. An inquest into his death was opened yesterday in Evanston but was continued until this morning because of the absence of witnesses.

Many Ships Still at Field.

Curtiss field was being put in shape again yesterday following the ten day race meet. Many planes, especially those from distant points, were held to the ground by bad weather. The army bombing squadron, the marine corp planes, and the 5th fighting squadron from the aircraft carrier Lexington were still at the field last night waiting for clear weather, although the 1st pursuit group was able to make the short flight home to Selfridge field, Mich.

The four German flyers, led by Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau, got away from Great Lakes Naval Training station harbor before noon in the Dornier seaplane that carried them here from Germany. They headed directly east over the lake toward Cleveland, where they were to stop for the night. They expect to reach New York on Wednesday and remain there for the remainder of the week before sailing for home.

RACKETEER BAIT HOOKS BUSINESS, EMPLOYERS TOLD

Warned Against Dealing with Hoodlums.

Some business men tolerate and even encourage racketeering for their own profit, according to a statement yesterday of Gordon L. Hostetter, secretary of the Employers' association. He and Attorney Walter G. Walker of the association were discussing the efforts of Al Capone and Red Barker to seize control of labor unions and trade associations.

Hostetter and Walker said that certain kinds of business must clean house unless the owners are willing to submit to the rule of guns, bombs, and threats of violence. Business men who have dealings with the Capone-Barker agents were warned that they must expect to take orders from hoodlums.

A "Short Sighted" Policy.

"There are certain types of employers who conspire with equally unscrupulous union agents to gain an advantage over a competitor," Mr. Hostetter said. "As long as short sighted employers are unable to see the outcome of such tactics, so long will racketeers be able to prey on the public.

"Each industry would do well to work within its own ranks to weed out those who deal with the enemy. This association can only continue to do as it has been doing, protect its own members."

Attorney Walker said that in a certain industry contractors are "assessed" 2 per cent of the amount of the contract to prevent labor trouble.

The Employers' association has 3,000 members, and was organized in 1904 to oppose intolerable conditions then existing in labor union dealings, Mr. Hostetter explained.

"Secret Six" Is Active.

Col. Robert Isham Randolph, chairman of the Chicago Association of Commerce and head of its "secret six" committee, formed to combat crime, said that the investigations of the "secret six" are still in progress. Some of the six, he stated, have been assigned to look after the prosecution of racketeers. The commerce association has employed an attorney, Marshall Solberg, whom State's Attorney Swanson has appointed as an assistant prosecutor, and Attorney Solberg is accumulating evidence, Col. Randolph said.

Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission, said his office has issued numerous warnings against the 26 surviving "public enemies," in which class the commission puts Capone and Barker, and he has other plans for the future.

BLACKMER, FROM PARIS REFUGE, SUES TO VOID $60,000 TEAPOT FINE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Counsel for Harry M. Blackmer today attacked the validity of the Walsh act, under which he has been fined $60,000 for failure to obey summons to testify in the oil scandal trials. Blackmer, now in France, repeatedly has refused to return to testify.

The District of Columbia Supreme court held the Walsh act valid, although counsel for Blackmer asserted the measure had been passed to give the court extra-territorial jurisdiction for a particular case.

In the brief, filed with the Court of Appeals because the Supreme court declined to let the case be transferred to its jurisdiction, Blackmer's attorneys asserted the act violated constitutional amendments by authorizing the service of a witness subpoena outside the jurisdiction of the United States.

Blackmer's counsel contended the act permits unreasonable search and seizure. A United States marshal holds $100,000 worth of bonds belonging to Blackmer to pay the fine, should it be upheld on appeal.

PARTY OF 5 FALLS OFF CLIFF; 2 DIE, OTHERS INJURED

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Tragedy ended a gay week-end party at Rosarita beach, about 150 miles below Tia Juana, Lower California, two persons being killed, one perhaps fatally injured, and two seriously hurt in falls over a 50 foot cliff.

The dead are Earl Williams of Los Angeles and an unidentified man. Mrs. Williams was brought here today, perhaps fatally injured. Edmund Walberg and his wife of Manhattan Beach were injured.

After the party had pitched their tent Saturday night near the beach Mrs. Williams said she was going to look at the beach. Shortly afterward screams were heard. Williams and others rushed to her aid. They failed to observe the cliff and plunged to the bottom, the same as Mrs. Williams had done.

BUILDING GAINS IN EARLY FALL SEEN FOR CITY

Contractors Cite Reasons for Acting Now.

Chicago builders have adopted a "Build Now" slogan based upon the stabilized cost of building materials and the surplus of building trades mechanics and laborers, according to E. M. Craig, the executive secretary of the Building Construction Employers' association of Chicago.

Mr. Craig said local building contractors believe the construction depression has reached its depth and that early fall will bring a gradual upgrade. He said building contracts awarded for the first eight months of the year lags behind the corresponding period of 1929. He reported, however, that while July was the best permit month for building permits this year the total for August is not far below it.

"Many captains of industry see the green lights of business ahead with the advent of the fall season," said Mr. Craig.

Cites I. C. Station Work.

The Illinois Central railroad has awarded the contract for the new Randolph street station caisson work and crews are expected to begin digging within the next 10 days.

"Completion of the foundation will mark the commencement of construction on the station, which is expected to cost approximately $1,800,000.

"During August, five large building operations were awarded to contract. These include the Y. M. C. A. building at Chicago avenue and Dearborn street, costing approximately $2,500,000; the Balaban and Katz theater at Devon and Western avenues, costing $2,500,000; the Illinois Steel company mill at 8345 Mackinaw avenue, costing $1,500,000; a new apartment building at 1260 Astor street, costing $850,000; and a $400,000 addition to the Northwestern elevated car plant at Niles."

Discusses Other Projects.

Mr. Craig said ground will be broken this year for twelve World's Fair buildings instead of three as originally planned. He stated the Baltimore & Ohio railroad is spending $6,500,000 in connection with its river straightening program, which includes track elevations, grade separations and viaducts in the Chicago area.

"The Chicago Rapid Transit company has began enlarging its platforms and 150 of these extensions will be made. The work will be handled by building tradesmen," Mr. Craig said.

FRANCE EXPLAINS WHY W. R. HEARST WAS DEPORTED

Cites Publication of Secret Treaty as Reason.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 2.—William Randolph Hearst, the well known publisher, was expelled from France under a two hours' notice yesterday afternoon. This was revealed today when the ministry of foreign affairs and the prefecture of police confirmed the fact.

Mr. Hearst, who was staying at the Dillon, received an order from the prefecture at 2 o'clock to depart immediately, and he caught the 4 o'clock London train, leaving considerable baggage, which he did not have time to pack. He embarked for England via the channel on a steamship at Cherbourg.

Claim Hearst Is Anti-French.

In official circles it is stated that Mr. Hearst's anti-French attitude was responsible for his deportation, pointing out the pro-German sympathy of the Hearst press during wartime and the theft and publication of the ill fated Franco-British naval compromise by Harold Horan two years ago. It is recalled that at the time an investigation revealed that Horan bribed foreign office clerks to obtain a copy of the treaty.

Mr. Hearst's recent interview in a Frankfort newspaper, while he was taking the cure at Bad Nauheim, is also recalled. In it the publisher asserted that America's sympathies were with Germany while foreign troops occupied the soil of the fatherland and as long as large slices of German territory were arbitrarily placed under other flags by the Versailles treaty. Mr. Hearst also supported the German demand for retrocession of the Polish corridor to the German reich.

Hearst correspondents here declined to make any comment on the matter. This was Mr. Hearst's first visit to France since the Horan case of two years ago.

France Explains Order.

Late this afternoon the ministry of the interior gave out the following statement:

"William Randolph Hearst, proprietor of numerous American newspapers, has been expelled from French territory. This measure, taken upon order of the president of the council, minister of the interior, had as origin the rôle played by Hearst in the obtention and publication of a secret document relative to the Franco-English naval negotiations."

The order of expulsion was conveyed to Mr. Hearst by the surete generale, which said the action was taken because of Mr. Hearst's generally "hostile" attitude toward France. The police said: "Mr. Hearst is a Franco-phobe and we prefer he should do his criticizing outside of France. The Horan affair of 1928 was one of the reasons why Mr. Hearst was asked to leave."

Goes to His Welsh Castle.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 2.—William Randolph Hearst, who was expelled from France, arrived here today. He is headed for his castle in Wales where he expects to remain for some time before returning to America.

HEARST CABLES STATEMENT.

The Associated Press yesterday afternoon carried from New York a statement from Mr. Hearst, which he had cabled over from London. In the course of that statement Mr. Hearst said:

"'I have no complaint to make. The officials were extremely polite. They said I was an enemy of France and a danger in their midst. They made me feel quite important.

"'They said I could stay in France a little while longer if I desired, that they would take a chance on nothing disastrous happening to the republic

"Saves France by Leaving."

"'But I told them that I did not want to take the responsibility of endangering the great French nation; that America had saved it once during the war, and I would save it again by leaving.

"'Furthermore, I was like the man who was told that he was going blind, and who said he did not mind, as he had seen everything anyhow.

"'Similarly I had seen everything in France, including some very interesting governmental performances.

"'Then I asked Mr. Tardieu's emissary to express to Mr. Tardieu my immense admiration at his amazing alertness in protecting France from the peril of invasion, and we parted with quite elaborate politeness.

"'It was a little bit foolish, but extremely French.

"'The reason for the strained relations—to use a proper diplomatic term—was the publication of the secret Anglo-French treaty two years ago by the Hearst newspapers, which upset some international "applecarts," but informed the American people, and, of course, that being the reason, the French government was entirely right in leveling its attack at me, and quite wrong in its action toward Mr. Horan, who was only my agent.'"

WINTON, 70, VETERAN OF AUTO INDUSTRY, TO WED FOURTH TIME

New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Alexander Winton, 70 year old Cleveland automobile magnate, and Mrs. Mary E. Avery, 47, a concert singer, also of Cleveland, were married today at the Marble Collegiate church. It was Winton's fourth marriage and his bride's third. Her address in Cleveland was given in the marriage license application as 7350 Euclid avenue and his as 18102 Clifton road.

TANKS ROAR UP ALPS TO "TAKE" FRENCH TOWN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MODANE, France, Sept. 2.—The tanks sprang a great surprise in the French army maneuvers today at daybreak when a group of six traveled down an icy precipice of the Alps 1,500 feet deep, climbing up the other side, and, winding around gigantic rocks, encircled the village of Aussois. The village is the key to Modane's defense as well as the strategically important railroad center at the entrance to the Simplon tunnel into Italy.

The operation demonstrated the possibility of a hostile attack, seizing the French end of the tunnel and establishing direct communications into France in case of a sudden invasion.

Capt. Jamin asserted that the tanks became red hot from the terrific grinding of the engines working in low gear to negotiate the high crags, and members of the crew, despite their padded clothing, were black and blue from being tumbled around inside the steel cages.

The Blue army, representing invaders, also conducted an offensive against the White defensive army. Streaming to the south and west from occupied positions on the Tarentaise plateau, the invading forces swept in a great turning movement against the "enemy" entrenched along the crest of the Maruienne plateau.

The operations covered Alpine peaks rearing 10,000 feet above sea level. While the tanks rumbled and rattled crazily over the jagged terrain, the Sixth Moroccan Tirailleurs leaped to the attack.

Scout and observation airplanes cruised back and forth over the zone, but the pilots experienced considerable difficulty in operating them efficiently, the rarified atmosphere causing the planes to buck and dive like broncos.

Guns roared agross valleys and machine guns rattled staccato bursts as the "hostile" armies went into action with all branches of service, even cavalry, in action.

SEE INDUSTRIES AS FOES OF STATE TAX AMENDMENT

List Income Levy Results in Other States.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The Illinois Manufacturers' association is apparently preparing to oppose the proposed state tax amendment which will go to a referendum of the voters Nov. 4. This organization has had its attorneys collecting data on the operation of the income tax system in various states.

Much of this information has been correlated by David R. Clarke of the law firm of Fyffe & Clarke. His general view is that an income tax in Illinois will be just another tax added to those now imposed. Mr. Clarke thinks an income tax will not relieve the tax now placed upon real estate, because it will be too small. But if it is made large, it will drive industries out of the state. From his inquiries, he believes that the income tax, if adopted, will fall mostly upon corporations and a relatively few individuals.

"Never Relieved Property Tax."

"In every state where there is an income tax," reads Mr. Clarke's statement, "it is only an addition or supplement to the state and local tax system. In no state has the income tax taken the place of the general property tax. The returns from an income tax are inherently so variable from year to year that no state and no local governments can ever expect to depend upon an income tax as a major source of revenue with which to operate the government.

"There are 15 states that have had an income tax for eight years or more."

Of these Mr. Clarke says that Wisconsin collects the largest proportion of its state and local taxes from the income tax system. In 1927 he reports that 12 per cent of the Wisconsin state and local revenue was derived from income taxes.

"Retards Industrial Growth."

"It is generally admitted that the tax legislation in Wisconsin has materially retarded the industrial development of that state," he adds.

Switching to other states, Mr. Clarke continues:

"In 1927 Delaware collected 11½ per cent of its state and local revenue from income taxes. About 96 per cent of these income taxes was collected in Newcastle county—the industrial center of the state.

"Massachusetts has had an income tax system for 13 years and it has not relieved the burden on real estate. Approximately 8/1-10th per cent of the state and local income is obtained from income taxes. On Jan. 1 last the legislative tax commission of Massachusetts reported that real estate is now carrying a very heavy proportionate share of the tax burden; that real estate conditions are regarded as very serious for investors, and suggested an income tax increase.

Reports on New York.

Relative to New York, where Mr. Clarke reports that 5 1-5 per cent of the state and local government revenues were obtained in 1927 from income taxes, he makes this comment:

"On May 5 last Donald R. Spratt, deputy state tax commissioner, in addressing the tax officials of Geneseo county in New York said: 'Real estate is not the only thing that is overtaxed. Industries are bearing too large a share of the tax load and the result is that there is 1,500 less industries in New York state today than there were five years ago. The situation is more serious when it is seen that many industries are expanding by building plants in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and other nearby states.'

Reports on Other States.

"In the other eleven states, having an income tax system for more than eight years, the average percentage of state and local tax income received from income taxes is below 3 3-10. If Illinois is to have an income tax which will obtain this average result of the eleven states, it is apparent that income taxes will not relieve the burden on real estate. If it is made higher, as in New York, Massachusetts, and Wisconsin, industries will be driven out, and in proportion as industrial property is removed from the state that burden will be placed back upon real estate."

The Illinois Manufacturs' association claims to embrace more than 90 per cent of the manufacturing industry of the state. These industries, it is estimated, provide employment for more than 700,000 persons.

DEMOCRATS TO KEEP UP HOOVER ATTACKS, RASKOB DECLARES

New York, Sept. 2.—[Special.]—John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, replied yesterday to the charge of Republican congressional campaign leaders that he was engaged in a conspiracy through the committee's recently established press bureau at Washington to discredit President Hoover.

The charge was made here Monday by Representative John Q. Tilson, Republican floor leader of the house and eastern director of the Republican congressional campaign committee, and previously by Representative Will R. Wood, chairman of the congressional campaign committee.

Mr. Raskob declared that the Democratic criticism of the President had been mild compared with Republican criticism of him in congress. He said the Democrats had attacked the Republican national administration on the tariff and farm relief and intended to continue the criticism.

FORGER TRIES TO ESCAPE PRISON BY BOGUS WRIT

Knife and Imitation Pistol Found on Van Gorder.

Leavenworth, Kas., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Hayes Van Gorder, forger extraordinary, who once escaped from the federal penitentiary here by means of forged documents, attempted to gain his freedom again today by having a bogus court writ demanding his presence in Duluth, Minn., delivered to Warden T. B. White. Van Gorder is serving a term of 40 years for forging money orders.

The warden said the purported writ bore the forged signature of Judge William A. Cant of the Minnesota federal district court. White became suspicious and telegraphed the court clerk, who replied that the writ was spurious.

Intended to Blind Guard.

Prison officials then searched Van Gorder, and found on him two long knives, two handcuff keys, an imitation pistol made of wood with a metal pipe for a barrel, pepper, and finely ground tobacco, a razor blade, and 50 cents in change.

It is believed the prisoner intended to use the pepper and tobacco to blind the guard who would have accompanied him on the trip to Duluth, had not the plot been discovered.

Van Gorder escaped from the penitentiary on March 2, 1929, on a forged writ of habeas corpus and three court orders purported to have been from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Topeka.

The documents were mailed to the prison and officials released Van Gorder and C. Von Esch, whose liberation also was planned by Van Gorder.

Arrested By Postal Inspectors.

Seventeen days later Van Gorder was arrested by postoffice inspectors at Milan, Mo., for forging money orders, but his identity was not established until he was recognized by postoffice authorities at Kansas City, who had not known of his release from prison.

JAIL INDIAN HEALER ON STATE MEDICAL PRACTICE CHARGE

John J. Normand, Indian healer, who says he is a member of the "Kenno tribe of Quebec," was in a cell at the detective bureau last night charged with practicing medicine without a license. Normand is 53 years old and resides at 5185 South Maplewood avenue, where he also interviews his patients.

Agents of the state department of registration and education placed the charge after it is alleged, Normand signed a death certificate following the death of Mrs. Frances Wilczewska, 1629 Brigham street, a patient. Normand admitted, police said, that he had diagnosed the woman's trouble as "dropsy" and had prescribed a salve of his own concoction.

Normand, tall and haughty, was inclined to be belligerent when Sergts. John McVeigh and Felix Kosinski appeared.

"You can't arrest me," he said. "I'm a seventh son of a seventh son. And so was my father and my grandfather. And traditional in my tribe is the right of a seventh son of a seventh son to be a healer. There's magic in my hands."

SEIZE SUSPECT IN SOUTH BEND GIRL'S MURDER

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Police seized a new suspect tonight in the murder of 10 year old Marverine Appel. The prisoner, who is 31 years old, married, and the father of a 5 year old daughter, moved last Thursday night from an address in the vicinity of the child's home to the rooming house in which he was arrested. Marverine's ravished body was discovered Thursday night in an alley near her home.

The arrest was brought about by neighbors of the suspect, who informed police they saw him pacing the floor of his room, moaning about a face that haunted him. Under questioning he became hysterical, and the officers were undecided whether he knew something of the murder or was a psychopathic case.

FINANCIAL PLAN FOR TRANSIT DUE WITHIN A WEEK

The financial plan for the consolidation of the surface and elevated lines will be in the hands of the advisory committee within a week for criticism and modification, according to a forecast made yesterday. After this committee finishes with it, the scheme will be placed in the hands of the protective committees for the various security holders.

The advisory committee is composed of Arthur Reynolds, Albert H. Harris and Melvin A. Taylor, the last named taking the place of the late Frank O. Wetmore.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., consolidation managers, have much of the text written as well as tentative figures. Part of the plan has been printed in proof form.

HURLEY'S SHIP PULLS BARGES OFF SANDBAR

Experts See Necessity of Channel Deepening.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aboard U. S. Gen. Allen, near La Crosse, Wis., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—A chapter of life on the Mississippi, 1930, was lived today by Secretary of War Hurley and his party of engineers as this government steamer participated in the rescue from a sandbar of a string of barges and a convoying stern wheeler.

A mighty belching of smoke from tall stacks, a fierce churning of paddle wheels, ringing of bells and blowing of whistles, shouts, noise and confusion brought to these experts who had been dabbling in theories at Washington a realization of the stern problems confronting river navigation.

Chugging down the placid river, the Gen. Allen rounded a bend to view a desolate scene. The C. C. Webber, a steamer of the Inland Waterways corporation, was close to the Minnesota shore. Firmly embedded in sand in the middle of the river were one 1,000 ton and two 500 ton barges with merchandise destined for St. Paul and Minneapolis, which the Webber had been towing.

The towboat had been attempting to push the barges back off the sandbar without success. The pilot was surveying the situation, not disparingly, but with a quiet resignation.

A Picture for Mark Twain.

If old Samuel Clemens, who loved this river so much that he took his pen name from it, might have witnessed the ensuing spectacle his chuckle would probably have been long and appreciative. More than eighty years have passed since Mark Twain piloted a wheeler up this stream, but rivermen and customs have apparently not changed.

Without consulting Secretary Hurley's wishes nor with a thought for the exact schedule planned by the engineers, our pilot, a Capt. Henning, a little man with a seamed, red face like a winter apple, who had spent a mere 40 years on the Mississippi, prepared to lend assistance. It was done with the same readiness and unconcern that a city dweller might pick up a lady's handkerchief.

The government boat was brought alongside the largest barge and lashed to it. The towboat came up and rested its nose against the stern of the barge. A bell rang and the two stern wheelers exerted themselves. While great volumes of inky smoke poured from the two stacks up front on each of the steamers the great battle wheels whipped the muddy water to a yellow foam.

Rescuing Sandbar Victim.

Soundings had revealed a vivid picture of the present condition of the upper Mississippi. The river here was half a mile wide, a water highway of imposing appearance, yet, in the very middle, a bare five feet in depth, and the barges and steamers with their draft of approximately four feet nosed their way forward with caution.

The rescue took two hours. The two pilots seemed to feel their way forward by instinct. Their great wheels spun as they picked a zigzag course. The watching engineers, wonder in their eyes, looked on as the boats swung away from a seemingly half course and headed directly for the shore only to edge out again into the middle channel as a certain mark was passed.

Finally, the readings became reassuring. A safe depth of six feet was reached. The government steamer swung away from the barges and with a shrill blast of farewell, turned and forged ahead at a ten knot speed.

MONTREAL AS DOG IN THE MANGER.

Sixty-five lake ships are tied up at Montreal, waiting to unload cargoes of grain for export. The congestion in the port has been increasing steadily ever since the wheat harvest began. Now, with 12,500,000 bushels already in storage, half as much more is lying in ships' holds.

The St. Lawrence ports cannot handle the quantity of grain which flows to them, but Canada will do all in its power to prevent any of the grain from taking the alternative water route of the Mississippi to the sea. Canada, in alliance with the lake states, will seek by every means to prevent an adequate diversion of water from Lake Michigan to the Mississippi in order to maintain a monopoly of the water borne grain trade. The result is injury to lake shipping, farmers, and grain dealers, for they share in greater or less degree the cost of ships lying idle in the St. Lawrence while grain is accumulating at the head of the lake. Some of those ships might now be employed in taking grain to Chicago for transfer to barges, without loss to Canadian interests and with profit to ship owners and farmers.

The congestion in the port of Montreal, incidentally, throws light on the allegation that the diversion at Chicago has worked injury to the lake carrying trade. The Canadians who complained may well ask themselves if low water in the lakes ever caused as much loss to shipping as has been caused by congestion in Montreal; and they may ask themselves further if there has been a season in the last 30 years during which diversion has been continuous when the level of the great lakes was more suitable for navigation. The fact that the port facilities of Montreal have proved to be far from adequate to meet the demands upon them from lake shippers is an evidence of the sincerity of the claim that Chicago has been destroying lake commerce.

MAKING RADIO WAVES BEHAVE.

In a few weeks the federal radio commission will start its hearings on the petitions of thirty stations throughout the country for the right to increase their power to 50 kilowatts. The commission has already determined that there may be only twenty such stations in the country, four in each of the five zones into which the country has been divided for purposes of radio regulation. Nine 50 kilowatt stations are already in operation. If the commission adheres to its original program only eleven can be added to the list, and thirty have applied.

The commission will be subjected to a barrage of claims and counter claims which may be confusing to the commissioners themselves, to say nothing of the public. In these circumstances it would be well to keep a few fundamental facts in mind.

The first is that many of the difficulties under which the commission labors in this and other matters of radio regulation were imposed by congress. There can be no real progress in radio regulation until congress has repealed the Davis amendment, which became law in March, 1928. The amendment was intended to promote equality in radio facilities for all sections of the country, an end with which there can be no quarrel. It is the means adopted for achieving that end which have caused much of the trouble.

The five radio zones are of unequal areas and populations. The smallest in area extends in a narrow strip along the Atlantic from Maine to the District of Columbia. It comprises only 130,000 square miles. The largest embraces the western two-fifths of the United States, an area of 1,200,000 square miles, as well as all of Alaska. The populations of the first four zones are substantially equal, but the fifth contains less than half as many inhabitants as each of the other four. The Davis amendment provides in effect that the broadcasting facilities of the nation be apportioned equally among the five zones. If the law were strictly applied it would mean that there could be no more stations in the huge area of the fifth zone than in the limited area of the first, although one state in the fifth zone, Montana, has an area approximately that of the entire first zone. The amendment provides also that within each zone broadcasting facilities must be divided among the states in proportion to population. Because of the inequality in populations between the zones a fifth zone state is entitled to a disproportionate share of stations.

Attention should also be focused upon the so-called cleared channels. A cleared channel is a wave length assigned to the exclusive use during the evenings of one station of substantial power. There are ninety wave lengths for program broadcasting in the United States, and though engineering opinion has held for a number of years that at least fifty of these channels should be cleared, the commission has limited the number of cleared channels to forty. In addition it has said arbitrarily that only twenty of those channels may be operated at the maximum power of 50 kilowatts, although once a channel has been cleared there is every reason to justify increasing its power to permit a maximum audience and no reason for not doing so. The increase in power on a given frequency does not cause interference with stations of other frequencies.

For the listener, particularly in the regions beyond a radius of 50 miles from a given station, the advantages of high power and cleared channels will be great. Reception will be better. The whistling noises caused by two stations operating on the same wave length, though separated by many hundreds of miles, will be removed. And most important of all, the listener will be enabled to receive the expensive programs which few if any stations outside the big cities can afford to put on even if the talent is available. The most desirable radio talent is to be found in a few large centers of population. The radio has been a boon to the family in the small towns and the country by bringing to it some of the best in entertainment and education that the big cities afford. The effect of the Davis amendment and the commission's policy with respect to cleared channels and high power is to restrict the audience for the concerts of the best symphony orchestras, though that audience might be extended without the slightest injury to other stations and listeners desiring other programs.

Unfortunately for the commission, it has been obliged by statute to defy the laws of nature and of economic organization. That misfortune does not excuse the commission if it pursues the same policy of absurdity in matters which are under its own control.

SPEED.

Mrs. Anna Smith of Long Island, aged 85, took her first ride in a plane the other day. Her first transport was an oxcart. It made about two miles an hour. The plane probably reached a hundred or more.

Visitors at the air races saw planes traveling at more than twice the latter rate, and against a significant background. In the offing railroad trains came up at thirty miles or so and automobiles at forty to sixty. Three great epochs in human movement were within that frame. Few of us have ridden in an oxcart. Many of us remember when a mile a minute on the rails was the ne plus ultra of speed, the "lightning express." Then came the automobile, and we all bowl along at forty to sixty as a normal experience of locomotion. The age when the railroad was the highest expression of man's passion for getting over the ground has gone. The age when the automobile succeeded to its honors has gone. We are over the threshold of a new age, with the airplane and the dirigible opening rapidly new experiences. Under the swift pressure of science ages are telescoped in our day, and not only the individual catapults through space but the ages move on wings.

Man, the scientists tell us now, has been 150 million years on earth. But the perspective of his long journey has shortened in the span of one journey, so far as his command over nature is concerned; in years so few that men who have not yet reached even middle age have seen changes which thousands of years did not bring to the generations preceding the rise of natural science. The telephone, wonder of yesterday, is now as much a part of the average life in America as the hat. And soon it will be replaced by radio. The radio is reaching out to new efficiencies, and television is already here. Virtually instantaneous communication is becoming world-wide. Time and space are transformed, not only in our conception of their nature but in the sphere of practical utility. Physical science applied to the mastery of the forces of nature is pouring out upon mankind today a torrent of new powers and appliances which are changing the daily living of men at a rate that is dizzying, or would be if we stopped to think of them. We are going so fast we haven't time for that.

Fortunately, probably, there is a cushion of mental inertia which receives the shock of such novelties, and we take them for what use we can make of them. Thinking is not yet, in man's slower intellectual development, an easy or pleasant activity, and, though we are not disposed to pursue such implications as this rapid accomplishment may have, they are doubtless important. But we shall not bother about them until we collide with them. Our nervous system, compelled to adjust itself, or at any rate to submit to a new tempo of living, is undergoing a strain which the neurologist observes. The social student speculates upon the changes of human need and opportunity which the process creates and upon its inevitable influence upon social life and social institutions. But most of us are too busy living to expend any energy upon consequences or causes. Yet that a new man and a new woman are in process of evolution we can hardly doubt.

WHY GANGS RULE CITIES.

[Lansing (Mich.) State Journal.]

The revelations of the alliance between crime and politics, as disclosed from the safety deposit box of the murdered Chicago gangster, Zuta, are not more worthy of comment than the marked way in which papers in Michigan and over the country almost with one voice have exclaimed, "We suspected as much!"

The citizens of Chicago, be they humble or exalted in position, do not desire the situation which now oppresses them in their city. The popular attitude in time of political uprising and in time of apparent political slothfulness is not materially different. The vast majority of people are persistent in their desire for good government. The trouble is that the form of government which obtains in great cities, and even in smaller ones, does not serve the ends of good government. Popular government in the great cities, and even in the secondary cities, has broken down and become of no effect because, as the plan of the city government is set up, it is impossible for democracy, in any true sense of the word, to function. In nine elections out of ten the voter does not have sufficient information to be of any help whatsoever in his voting. As a result many do not vote and those who do vote do so blindly.

People, pretty much everywhere, are loath to give up a scheme which calls for numerous elective offices. There is a notion that freedom lies that way—but it doesn't. Multiplicity of offices and divided responsibility are a scheme that lends itself beautifully to bad politics and schemes of alliance between bad politics and gangsters.

CURING OF SHINGLES.

It is possible there is a short cut in the cure of shingles. Dr. D. M. Sidlick reports success in treating fifty-four cases of this painful disorder with the ordinary pituitary extract such as the drug stores sell to physicians to be used in obstetrics. It is injected into the muscle once a day in a dose varying from seven to fifteen minims. One dose relieves some cases; two relieve a large number; a few require three or more.

First, the physician who uses this preparation should understand which preparation was used. The pituitary gland contains at least two and possibly more principles, and these have different effects. They are marketed separately. The preparation used for this purpose is the old one, and it contains the different preparations as they come mixed in the extract.

In the next place it must be understood that the result of treatment is a cure in a restricted sense. Dr. Sidlick reports that the pain stops as the result of one to several injections. The sores are still there, but they go ahead and heal with no particular pain and no more soreness than is present in any other superficial sore. Any person who has had shingles will know how desirable it is to get rid of the pain.

Like fever blisters, mouth cankers, and hives, the irritation and pain of shingles has a tempo all its own. The local ulcer or what not is not large enough or deep enough to account for the misery that is in evidence. When the thing is going good not much is gained by telling the sufferer his life is not in danger. There are times in some cases when the sufferer wishes the portals would open and let him out. If pituitary extract will end the pain the man with shingles would be willing to wrestle with the disease.

Dr. Sidlick says the records of Jefferson hospital show that in the last six years one-fiftieth of all the patients treated have had shingles. The prevalence of it makes the disease of importance. It is held to be a neuritis or neuralgia of certain nerves due to infection of nerve roots by a virus or a coccus. We are beginning to appreciate the importance of virus nerve infections.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

W. T. T. writes:

1. What is Bright's disease?
2. What is the cause?
3. What is the best remedy and treatment therefor?
4. Is it curable?

REPLY.

1. The term was originally applied to a slowly progressive form of chronic inflammation of the kidney. It is now rather loosely applied to several kinds of inflammation of the kidney.
2. Among the many causes of the different varieties are infections such as pneumonia and scarlet fever, arteriosclerosis, heart disease, chronic alcoholism, lead poisoning, wrong eating habits.
3. The proper treatment depends on the variety, and on other factors.
4. Many cases are.

LEMONADE AND CUCUMBERS.

V. B. writes: 1. I served lemonade and cucumbers sliced in vinegar at the same meal. I was criticized. Is this a dietetic error?

2. Can I get in published form the formulas for baby feeding that you have been giving over the radio?

REPLY.

1. No. There is no scientific basis for the vagaries of the food faddists.
2. Yes. Write to your local health department, your state health department, and to the United States children's bureau, Washington, D. C., for free booklets on infant feeding. The essentials of what I gave are shortly to be issued as booklets by the Illinois state health department.

HAVE EYES EXAMINED.

A reader writes:

What causes the pupil of one eye suddenly to become enlarged and remain that way? The pupil of one of my eyes has done so and has remained that way for about a month.

What can I do about this? Or will nature take care of this condition in time?

REPLY.

Have the eyes examined to find the cause.

INCOME FOR LIFE.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am a widow owning a piece of property valued at $25,000. Do the trust companies ever take property while one is living and pay interest and part of the principal, and they to have the balance in case of death?

SIDEWALK BLOCKED.

Chicago, Aug. 6. — [Friend of the People.]—A store located at 63d street and Kimbark avenue, which is open all day and early into the morning, piles boxes and crates and other commodities on the walk to such an extent that it is difficult at times to pass without leaving the walk and also affords hazard to clothing of the passerby. Cannot the police do something to remove this nuisance?

J. F. M.

Report is made that notices have been served on manager of fruit store complained of not to obstruct sidewalk both by the bureau of streets and the police department and will be kept under observation to see that notices are complied with.

NO JUDGMENT AGAINST WIFE.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. If a husband and wife have no property save a very modest joint bank account, and the husband is sued because of an auto accident and a judgment is rendered against him, how would it affect the bank account?

2. If the car was bought in his name, and the wife was riding in the car at the time of the accident, can she be brought into the suit in any way?

3. If the accident occurred in another state, would the one sued have to travel to that state to appear in the case?

H. M.

1. The husband's interest would be subject to judgment.
2. Yes, but not with prospect of getting judgment against her.
3. Unless they can reach assets or secure personal service of process there, they would have to bring the suit here.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

CUBS' POLICY.

In business policy, officials of the Chicago Cubs differ from a majority of clubs in the National league on two important features. The Cubs have "Ladies' day" once a week when 17,500 free tickets are distributed to women. They also permit their games to be broadcast by radio so that thousands of others receive free information of the team's progress.

There were some who thought this liberality was a mistake, that it would materially hurt attendance. Instead, it has had just the opposite effect. The Cubs are the most prosperous club, financially, in their league. The players have attained a popularity not known since the days of the old Cub machine under Frank Chance. Among their most devoted admirers are women fans and radio listeners.

We know not whether Cub officials in these two efforts to please fans were actuated altogether by altruistic motives. But, whether or not they figured it was constructive education, we give them credit both for sportsmanship and far-sightedness. The Cubs now have a regular clientele of women fans who go not only on "Ladies' day" but at other times during the week. Those listening by radio are not satisfied with that alone when they have time to visit the ball yard.

These facts were brought to our personal attention in a family where the father, a fan, had tried for several years to induce his wife and daughter to accompany him to a view of his favorite pastime. They were interested in football, racing, tennis, track, ice hockey, but not baseball. One day last week the mother suggested she would like to see a ball game because so many of her friends were talking about the Cubs. The daughter, a radio fan, had heard broadcasts until she was ready to accept the gage. They could afford to buy box seats. They did not wait for "Ladies' day." They went that very afternoon. They were convinced. They are going again. There must be many other similar examples.

If you have something with merit to sell, the first thing is to command public confidence. The second thing is to acquaint the public with your article. The Cubs have done that. Whatever else it was, it was good business policy.

WHILE WE ARE giving all attention to the Cubs' pennant fight, may we remind you that Big Ten official football practice opens one week from next Monday for a season boasting more important intersectional contests than ever before?

THEN DURING the football season we have to vote on what we'd rather have if we didn't have prohibition, and whether we want to authorize the Springfield lawmakers to saddle another tax on the taxes already with us. We mention taxes here because we don't want this Line to be entirely a sporting Line during R. H. ## FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 3, 1914.

LONDON.—Brief messages indicate the German army in the north of France is fighting its way step by step toward Paris. An official dispatch from Paris says the German cavalry advancing on the forest of Compiegne was defeated by English troops. The same dispatch admits that other German cavalry has pushed as far as the Soissons-Anizy-Le Cateau line. The great fortresses of Belfort have been attacked, according to a dispatch to the Standard from Geneva, and after three days of the most desperate onslaughts the fortresses were still holding out.

PARIS.—The seat of the French government has been moved from Paris to Bordeaux. The government issued at midnight, through the ministry of the interior, a proclamation bringing this to the knowledge of the people. The significance is that Paris is soon to become a sort of pivot in the army maneuvers between the allies and the Germans. Bordeaux is 359 miles southwest of Paris.

ROME.—A telegram from Nish says the Serbians are preparing to attack and invade Austria, as the Austrian forces for days have failed to confront the Serbians. The Giornale di Italia says a squadron of British and French warships has bombarded the entrance to the port of Cattaro, Austria.

PETROGRAD.—After a seven day battle the Russian forces have seized the fortifications near Lemberg, capital of Galicia, and routed a strong force of Austrians.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 3, 1900.

LONDON.—Russia's last communication is no more satisfactory to England than the previous ones. But one construction is placed upon it by the London press—that the czar's apparent magnanimity is only a ruse to get the other powers out of the way in China. With the field thus cleared, Russia, while posing as a friend of China, will pursue her objects in Manchuria.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Thirteen persons were killed and thirty more injured in a collision between an excursion train and a milk train on the Bethlehem branch of the Philadelphia and Reading railway at Hatfield, 27 miles north of this city.

CHICAGO.—James A. Castle, one of the first to popularize vaudeville in Chicago, and the father of George Castle, theatrical agent, died in a cab while being driven to his residence. James Mix, brother-in-law of Mrs. John B. Drake, intimate friend of Stephen A. Douglas and associate of many prominent men, died at the age of 80.

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 3, 1865.

WASHINGTON.—Gen. Pope has received very favorable accounts from the plains concerning the Indian troubles. From Gen. Sully, commanding in the northwest, to Gen. Sanborn of the southwest, accounts are received that the Indians are more peaceable and treating for permanent peace.

WASHINGTON.—The total number of freedmen in the District of Columbia in charge of the Freedmen's bureau is nearly 26,000, of whom 519 are receiving rations from the government without rendering any equivalent.

WASHINGTON.—A great portion of the audience at today's hearing of the trial of Capt. Wirz were ladies, old and young. One witness, O. S. Belcher, testified he had served in the 16th Illinois cavalry and was a prisoner at Andersonville. He said prisoners were kept in the sun all day and were not allowed to procure water. There were 45,000 prisoners there at one time. He had heard Wirz say he was killing more Yankees than those who were serving at the front. He had seen 20 to 30 men shot over the dead line and others fired into who were not over the dead line.

NEW YORK.—The Times' Washington special says a message has been received at the Freedmen's bureau from Gen. Clinton B. Fisk saying he has broken up all contraband camps in east Tennessee. At this date not 100 colored people eastward from Chattanooga are drawing rations from the government. In this region he found fifty whites to one black person subsisting off the government.

A CAMBRIDGE LECTURE.

LAMANCHA, Peeblesshire, Scotland, Aug. 22.—I never was more surprised than to find the remarks of the humblest of Cambridge lecturers, delivered to perhaps three hundred students at the summer school of that university, forming the subject of an editorial in one of the most influential journals of the earth. I certainly have no cause to complain of the spirit in which you write, but I think your remarks would have been greatly modified had the full text of my poor address been before you.

My subject was the new aims and aspirations of the nations since the beginning of the present century, and naturally the most important facts in that connection are the rise to world power of America and Japan. I never had the slightest idea of saying anything anti-American, and my observations were not so understood (so far as I could judge by a number of private conversations afterward in the lobby) by the large proportion of Americans present.

I insisted strongly upon the fact that the United States is breaking with the whole tradition of rising nations since the days of ancient Egypt in eschewing, since the very early years of the present century, any efforts at political aggrandizement. She has not encroached upon Mexico; she has declined as a gift one of the greatest cities of the old world. I pointed out that her financial and commercial predominance, without any concurrent acquisition of empire, is an entirely new factor in the story of mankind, and that Britain is discovering that though trade does indeed follow her flag, it is by no means necessarily British trade. But I never dreamed of criticizing any nation whatever. In my own humble opinion Britain can gain enormously from the extension of American enterprise. Henry Ford is doing very, very much more for her present overshadowing problem of unemployment than the whole cabinet of Ramsay MacDonald.

May I add in personal explanation that I still have a house in the United States, that I am constantly in the lecturers in the extension department of the Chicago university? I should hate any word of mine, in however slight degree, to interfere with that good understanding between the United States and the British empire upon which the good of the world so largely depends.

IAN C. HANNAH.

A HELPFUL POLICEMAN.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—We often hear of the mean things that the police officers of Chicago do, but we very seldom hear of the good things that they do, and I am therefore relating an actual incident which the writer saw on Monday, Aug. 25, on East Adams street. A boy of 18 or 20 years, who was dirty and very poorly dressed, fainted, and as the crowd gathered it attracted the attention of Officer No. 6172, who is stationed at the corner of Adams and State streets. He immediately took the boy in hand and when he was feeling better the officer asked him what was the trouble. The boy, being too weak to answer, motioned to his stomach, and the officer took the boy to a restaurant, asked the manager to please feed him and that he would pay the bill.

PLAN FOR A SOUTH SIDE TERMINAL.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—The city of Chicago on account of its railroad activities is the greatest railroad center in the world, but possesses the worst in railroad terminals. Such a city can require only the best thought and consideration in the construction of a gigantic railroad terminal for passenger traffic. All the railroads on the south of the loop should be located on one street, preferably 10th or 11th street. The intervening part between 10th and 11th streets from Michigan boulevard to the river should be constructed into a beautiful rose blooming parkway. Such a vista greeting a transcontinental traveler upon his arrival will increase his desire to stay, and also return. Modern times demand urgent consideration and passenger travel by railroad will not decrease but increase as soon as the railroads realize that they must give the best in terminals and deal with mass passenger traffic and reduce the cost of their passenger schedules from the center of the country in all directions all year around, as well as in small circles for only a short period of the year. The present unemployment situation could be greatly assisted by the construction of long delayed terminals.

R. DARON.

CONTROLLING PROSPERITY.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—It seems to me that any good Republican, no matter how stupid, should be willing to admit now that the grand old party does not control the processes of prosperity. Certainly it must be clear to every one capable of thought that if such control did exist the great humanitarians now in charge of both the party and the country would have released abundant prosperity long before this.

In view of the discrepancy between the campaign promises of 1928 and present conditions, it will be interesting to observe, during the next presidential campaign, the treatment of the prosperity theme by the Republican newspapers and the Republican politicians. Undoubtedly it will be employed in some manner with the usual audacity, but however it may be presented, let us earnestly hope that we will not witness the customary sad spectacle of large numbers of moronic voters responding to it.

W. R. O.

UNEMPLOYMENT IN RUSSIA.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Will you please explain just why Mr. McCutcheon used Soviet Russia in his cartoon a couple of days ago as having unemployment when just about a month ago your paper carried an article about the investigation just completed by the Federal Council of Churches committee that was sent to Russia for the investigation reported that they were surprised to find no unemployment in Russia?

R. A. THOMAS.

WEATHER PROPHECY.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—I cannot understand why the weather man does not let the public know that the seasons are changing. We are still later this year and I do not expect any snow and cold until away after Christmas. It would save the country in general millions of dollars if they knew it would be warm and summer-like until the end of the year, and that is saying very little.

SPREAD OF NEW DROUGHT IN WEST FEARED BY HYDE

Calls State Committee Relief Parley Sept. 10.

Elizabethtown, Ill., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The drought situation in this vicinity was greatly relieved by an inch of rain this afternoon, which was accompanied by a severe electrical storm. The rain was general in Hardin and Pope counties.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Apprehension over the spread of the drought area northward over northern Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Michigan was expressed today by Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, chairman of President Hoover's federal relief committee.

After studying reports from county agents and that of the United States weather bureau Secretary Hyde declared that nearly all of the western part of the great lakes area is suffering from lack of rainfall during the last thirty days with serious damage to a few growing crops.

"The drought is not over yet," said Mr. Hyde. "It seems that a new drought may be starting in the area north of the belt so hard hit in July and the first part of August. Fortunately, a large part of the production of wheat and small grains is harvested."

Rising Prices of Corn.

The rising prices of corn, live stock, and other commodities due to the drought partly has compensated farmers in the central states for their losses, Mr. Hyde said.

Secretary Hyde had before him a weather bureau report showing that none of the states in the new drought area had more than half the normal rainfall during August. During the month Illinois had only 49 per cent of the normal precipitation, Indiana 34 per cent, Iowa 50 per cent, Michigan 35 per cent, and Wisconsin 25 per cent. The secretary compared these percentages with those of August, 1901, the year of the worst drought heretofore, showing them to be lower for all the states except Iowa.

County Relief Committees.

"The weather bureau tells me the 1930 drought from the standpoint of the area affected and the amounts of rainfall is the worst on record," the secretary commented.

Organization of state and county relief committees and credit corporations under the program outlined by President Hoover is progressing, Secretary Hyde said. The next Washington conference will be that of the state committee chairmen, who according to the secretary, will be called to meet here on or after Sept. 10.

LAUNCH RELIEF TODAY

Relief work among the farmers affected by severe drought in 30 counties in the southern half of Illinois is to start today under a general program drafted yesterday at a meeting in Chicago of Gov. Emmerson's committee. The group of executives decided that a committee of seven members should be named for each of the stricken counties. Each of the thirty committees shall make a survey of its county and turn in a report on which the release of funds will be based.

Melvin A. Traylor, named chairman of the state committee by the governor and who attended the relief conference in Washington last week, presented his report and then resigned.

The recent death of Frank O. Wetmore, co-chairman of the First National bank board, of which Mr. Traylor is president, was given as the reason for the resignation, although Mr. Traylor will continue as a member of the committee.

The governor named as chairman John M. Krebs, banker and farmer of Carmi. Mr. Krebs is active in the Illinois Red Cross and he will help select downstate Red Cross workers to serve on county survey committees.

Fix Group Membership.

As outlined by the committee yesterday at the Stevens hotel, each county will be reported on by a group including two farmers, a banker, a member of the Red Cross, a railroad agent, a county farm adviser, and a labor man. Earl Smith as president of the Illinois Agricultural association will nominate the farmers; Mr. Traylor will provide names of bankers; the railroad men will be selected by L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central Railroad company, and V. C. Olander will present the names of labor representatives.

Homer J. Tice, Greenview, executive secretary of the committee, will establish headquarters at Springfield and receive the preliminary reports.

Ohio Democrats Optimistic Over Chances for Victory

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Optimism regarding prospects in Ohio was evident among Democratic campaign managers today following a visit from former Representative Robert J. Bulkley who is their party's senatorial nominee against Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch, Republican.

Mr. Bulkley, who won the nomination as an advocate of the repeal of the 18th amendment, stated that he intended to continue to talk against prohibition in the election campaign. A party platform to be framed by Ohio Democrats this month is likely to remain silent on the prohibition issue, Mr. Bulkley said, but this will not deter him from agitating the question. George White, the Democratic nominee for governor, is a dry and the Democrats hence are not in a position to incorporate a wet declaration in their platform. Senator McCulloch is a dry as is Gov. Myers Y. Cooper, Republican nominee for reelection.

Prohibition an Issue.

Discussing conditions in Ohio with Senator Millard Tydings [Dem., Md.], chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee, and Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.] Mr. Bulkley said he believes he has a real chance of election despite the heavy Republican majorities in recent years. He said that unemployment has caused dissatisfaction with the Republican administration and that the prohibition issue should win him many votes.

Wyoming Situation Discussed.

Harry H. Schwartz, Democratic senatorial nominee in Wyoming, also conferred with Senators Tydings and Harrison. Mr. Schwartz thought he had a chance to win against Robert D. Carey, Republican nominee, for the former Warren seat now held by Senator Pat Sullivan [Rep.]. Senator J. B. Kendrick [Dem.] holds the other Wyoming seat.

Senator P. L. Goldsborough [Rep., Md.] in a statement issued through the Republican National committee assailed last night's radio speech of Senator Tom Connally [Dem., Tex.].

"Neither in the radio address of Mr. Shouse, official spokesman of the Democratic organization, or that of Senator Connally was there any pretense upon their part either as individuals or spokesmen for their party to offer to the American people any contemplated legislative program in the event they carry the next congress," said Senator Goldsborough.

VETS AND HOOVER FIND BALTIMORE IN JOVIAL MOOD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Fifteen thousand veterans of foreign wars swung in colorful review past President Hoover and Maryland notables today.

Blaring bugles, rolling drums and the music of many bands resounded through the narrow streets of Maryland's first city as the members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and affiliated groups saluted the nation's commander-in-chief while staging their annual show, the climax of their 31st annual encampment.

The twin attractions of a presidential visit and the annual parade of the veterans' organization jammed the streets with a crowd variously estimated at between 75,000 and 100,000 persons.

Women and children predominated in the crowds lining the streets along which the President rode. While there were no big demonstrations, White House officials on their return to the capital in the evening expressed themselves as greatly pleased with the friendliness and interest of the crowd that had turned out on the occasion of the President's first appearance in a large city outside Washington since the beginning of the business depression.

Lunches with Rivals.

The President arrived at about 1 o'clock from Washington, motoring from the national capital. He went directly to the reviewing stand from the club, where he had lunched with the Republican mayor and the Democratic governor, both of whom will be candidates for the Maryland governorship in the fall elections.

That both the crowd and the marching veterans were in a jubilant mood was exhibited time and again before the two hour procession of fighting units had passed the President and Maryland officials. On one occasion a man in the crowd provoked a laugh from the President and Gov. Ritchie by shouting out "Hurrah for Ritchie, we're all wet." One of the marching units brought forth cheers by hauling along a small wagon loaded with a still and ginger ale bottles. Other marchers carried hip flasks which they waved jovially.

Youthful and Gray in Line.

Men who fought at Tientsin and Peking during the Boxer rebellion of 1900 marched shoulder to shoulder with comrades who faced the Spanish troops at San Juan and in the Philippines. Beside the gray haired survivors of earlier foreign engagements marched the livelier and younger veterans of the world war and auxiliary groups.

Preceding the veterans marched soldiers, sailors, marines, and coast guardsmen from camps near Baltimore and from warships. Their blue, white, and olive drab uniforms contrasted with the brilliant garb of the veterans' organizations, the colorful capes of the women's auxiliaries, and the bizarre costumes displayed by some of the marching units.

Hezekiah N. Duff, commander in chief of the veterans, led the parade which took two hours to pass the reviewing stand. Brig. Gen. James B. Gowen, U. S. A., was grand marshal.

Just as the last units were passing a shower started, scattering the crowd.

Names Alleged Employe of Nye Committee.

the stand, where later service was had upon him.

Dannenberg testified that he had been retained by Mrs. McCormick, that the retainer was $1,500 paid to him in cash at his request, and that he would submit an additional bill when his work is completed. He said he sent C. Clark Albers to Fargo to gather "biographical" information about Senator Nye, that he had caused the senator to be shadowed in Glacier park, and that he had investigated the chief employés of the committee.

For the first time during the committee's hearings in Chicago its chief investigator, William Hunter Baldwin, former chief of the secret service of the Ku Klux Klan, sat at the committee table with his associate, E. M. Daniel. The names of both came frequently into Dannenberg's story.

Orders Open Investigation.

Dannenberg said he had told Albers to operate openly in Fargo, using the Dannenberg agency cards wherever he went. Senator Dale said that seemed to have been the method of operation, but asked the witness why an investigation of Senator Nye had been thought necessary.

"It was the result of several incidents," said Dannenberg. "There was the breaking into Mrs. McCormick's farm office and the taking of books and papers. There was apparent interference with her telephones. There was a strange woman hidden in the closet of her room at the Drake after a hearing here. There was the shadowing and the calling on the telephone."

"Does she attribute that to this committee?" asked Senator Dale.

"To some one acting for this committee," was the answer.

"That's a pretty serious charge," said Senator Dale, "and if it is based on fact it is deplorable."

Says His Wife Also Is Victim.

"They're using the same tactics on Mrs. Dannenberg now," said the investigator, "and have been for two or three weeks, stopping her on the street, crowding her car to the curb, calling on the phone and leaving all sorts—all sorts of messages."

In answer to further questions by Senator Dale, Dannenberg said his inquiry had been for the purpose of determining whether the sort of tactics he recited could be expected from anybody connected with the committee. He said he had not completed his investigation in this respect.

"These revelations as to the conclusions you and Mrs. McCormick have drawn are all new to me," said Senator Dale. "I hadn't heard them in North Dakota."

Groh Named by Witness.

"Mrs. McCormick," said Dannenberg a moment later, "felt she had to do something to protect herself because of things she had heard about the type and character of agents employed by the committee.

"One of them is Dave Groh. He spends a great deal of time with Baldwin and Daniel, has been in their rooms frequently and is very active. He has gone to as great an extent as he could go to get into my office, to get a key, to get a night pass to the building and to get information about my papers. He said he was doing it for Mr. Baldwin.

"There are two other men, George Kohel and a man named Traylor, who have been very active as shadows."

"What makes you suppose that employés of the committee broke into Mrs. McCormick's office?" asked Senator Dale.

"The nature of the articles they took and the obvious fact that the purpose was not robbery."

Dale Makes Statement.

Senator Dale stated at some length that members of the committee knew Mrs. McCormick and never heard any suggestions that could be considered as reflections upon her.

"But she," he continued, "apparently thinks we are first class contemptible crooks—I'd like to use stronger language—since she says we employ crooks, robbers, and women who conceal themselves in closets. I'd say we are if we were doing that."

"Maybe the members of the committee don't know what their employés are doing," said Dannenberg. "I don't believe they do."

"Do you think," asked Senator Nye, "that we have so many employés that we can't keep track of them?"

"I don't think that the committee knew Dave Groh was using United States senate money to bribe people with."

This subject was dropped temporarily when Senator Nye said he could account for all the committee employés the night Mrs. McCormick's office was ransacked, but Dannenberg returned to it later.

That occurred after Senator Nye asked how much money Dannenberg had received. In answering Dannenberg included the payments he said had been made by Groh to one of his operatives.

"Groh came to Kenneth Wilson," Dannenberg said, "and wanted Wilson to double cross me. He gave Wilson $25 then and since then he has been meeting him daily, sometimes two or three times a day. He wanted a list of all the phone numbers I called and I expect the committee has some of those now that I told Wilson to give Groh.

"We followed Groh back to the Palmer house, where he joined Baldwin and Daniel, and then he went back to ask more information. As late as last night he offered Wilson a large sum for certain records of mine he wanted. He's been paying Wilson $42 a week now for three weeks."

Holds Out Bills to Nye.

Here, having drawn from his pocket a series of operative's reports to each of which was attached a small bunch of bills, Dannenberg separated the currency, held it out in the direction of Chairman Nye and made his implied offer to turn it over to the committee.

Several times during his examination Dannenberg said his purpose had not been to "get anything on Chairman Nye." He denied that he had been instructed to obtain information reflecting on the North Dakota senator. He said he was trying to get the "whole picture" and fix the responsibility for the actions of the committee sleuths.

With the committee's adjournment, Chairman Nye said that he might this morning issue a statement in reply to the one from Mrs. McCormick.

REPEAL OF DRY LAW URGED IN REPORT TO CONNECTICUT LABOR

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Repeal of the 18th amendment was advocated today by President Charles J. Moore in his report made to the 45th annual convention of the Connecticut Federation of Labor.

"Prohibition," he said, "has fai'ed in every Christian civilized country in which it has been tried. It certainly has failed in the United States. Each year we find one million people or more convicted of drunkenness. Temperance among the young has disappeared, and the government loses annually in revenue hundreds of millions of dollars. Graft and corruption are rampant among enforcement officers. Crime seems to flourish, and disrespect for all law appears to be growing."

THE JOY OF HEALTH AND STRENGTH

WHAT a grand and glorious feeling good health adds to every occasion. At work or play it is the force that carries us on to greater achievement. Whether we realize it or not, good health is our most priceless possession, and every precaution should be taken for its protection.

In considering protective measures, it is well to remember that actual physical pain does not always come as a warning of beginning disease. For there are diseases which cause so little pain at the start that the afflicted person is likely to disregard it until serious damage has been done. This is particularly true of Syphilis. The first symptom, an ulcer, usually appears three weeks or more after infection and is often so slight or so concealed as to escape notice. That is why health authorities urgently advise any person who has reason to suspect himself infected, or exposed to infection, to seek reliable medical advice immediately. If the disease is discovered early and proper treatment given, there is greater assurance of cure.

The second stage occurs from one to six weeks after the first. Its symptoms are often like those of some other diseases—headaches, pains in the lower extremities and back (especially at night), sometimes slight fever and sore throat—followed, usually, by other signs such as a general skin rash and patches in the mouth and throat.

Syphilis is widely prevalent and highly infectious. Recent health surveys in the United States indicate that annually more than 423,000 new cases of Syphilis seek treatment during the first year of the disease. On this basis, Chicago has more than 10,000 new cases seeking treatment every year. Cases which do not come under treatment early enough to be cured can at least be saved from disastrous later complications by continuing under medical care. But those who attempt self-treatment or go untreated are endangering their own health and that of the public.

Syphilis often exists without apparent symptoms and because of the difficulty of determining its presence physicians use a blood test to aid them in their diagnosis. The best known blood tests are called the Wassermann and Kahn tests—after the scientists who discovered them.

The discovery and treatment of Syphilis in its early stages will prevent such disabling afflictions as locomotor ataxia, paresis, and other complications commonly resulting from delay. Good medical treatment for the care of Syphilis and Gonorrhea can be secured within your means from an experienced family physician or from the Public Health Institute. Treatment is available also through the Institute and many free clinics for those without funds.

The Public Health Institute has been combating "social" diseases (Syphilis and Gonorrhea) in Chicago for more than ten years. Physicians comprising its medical staff are experienced and are registered by the State. All treatments are given by these men and women physicians. The fees are within the reach of all. Treatment is available to those without immediate funds. No one is turned away because of inability to pay.

Announcement . . . This advertisement has been submitted to and been approved by the Medical Advisory Board which has been formed at the invitation of the Trustees. It is published by a health agency established for public service to inform the public of the dangers of "social diseases," of the importance of securing good medical care, and the facilities whereby this can be obtained.

SEN. NYE AND HIS ACTIVITIES STIR UP STATE G. O. P.

Tour Speakers Call Him Pseudonyms.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Harrisburg, Ill., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota and his methods as head of senate investigating committee formed the burning theme today as the Republican party opened its organization work for the fall campaign. Party luminaries told two audiences of party workers in Egypt that the Nye inquiry has developed into a "ludicrous farce," and said the senate might well "work a recall on Senator Nye."

They pictured it as having evolved into a sort of "the house that Jack built" affair, with Nye detectives now detecting on Ruth Hanna McCormick's detectives who detected on the Nye detectives.

Calls Him "Assistant Democrat."

Cornelius J. [Tip] Doyle, state chairman and former secretary of state; Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom, Frank L. Smith, candidate for congressman at large, and others maintained that the Nye committee has thrown overboard its original purpose of looking into campaign expenditures, and is seeking to "usurp the right of the states to elect their own representatives."

Chairman Doyle spoke of Senator Nye as an "assistant Democrat" who is seeking to destroy the Republican party in the northern states. Attorney General Carlstrom spoke of him as "a whippersnapper from North Dakota." Senator Otis F. Glenn, without mentioning Mr. Nye, spoke of "assistant Democrats" in the senate who have "obstructed and hindered" the administration.

Mrs. McCormick Sets Pace.

Mrs. McCormick, who followed the other speakers, reiterated her statement of Monday solving Senator Nye's mystery of who had put private agents on his trail with the information that she did it.

"Senator Nye, what are you going to do about it?" she asked.

"You tell him, Ruth," echoed from the listeners. And that was the parting note of the meetings. They were held in Carbondale, in the 25th district, and here in Harrisburg in the 24th district. Both drew large crowds despite a heavy rainstorm which fell in Carbondale, leading to rousing cheers from the drought regions.

As the party leaders began to assemble this morning, the subject all talked of was the billet Mrs. McCormick sent Senator Nye saying that after her offices were broken into and her wires tapped, she put agents on the trail of the Nye investigators "in self-defense." State Chairman Doyle plunged into the Nye affair almost in his opening sentence at the Carbondale Teachers auditorium.

"The longitude of Illinois is wonderful," said Mr. Doyle. "The state is so long that while you have a beautiful rain in Egypt, up in Chicago the Nye committee has a frost. The character of Republican Egyptians has always been a great inspiration. I have great respect for Democrats, too.

"But I submit to you, my friends, I can understand a Democrat, but I can't an assistant Democrat. The character of a man who uses the Republican party and invokes its name and prestige to help himself and then turns and assists to tear down the party has no place in the confidence of Republicans. This Nye inquisition has now developed into an investigation to investigate an investigator who was an investigator for somebody else.

"Time was when you and I had great respect for the United States senate, but I submit if the senate is to reclaim its high standing it must have more conscientious committees than those who merely try to destroy the Republican party in the northern states."

Glenn Continues Attack.

Senator Otis Glenn, who comes from Jackson county, addressed the Egyptians on "Assistant Democrats."

"Republicans of Egypt, for we are Egyptians," he said, "let me say that we need in Washington a Republican congress. We have had a Republican house, but the senate has been controlled by an assistant Democrat coalition. Democrats and their allies are in control, and they have done all they can do to obstruct and hinder the Republican administration."

Gen. Milton J. Foreman said the time is ripe for the Republicans to quit the defensive and lam into the opposition.

"It's a time for offensive and counter offensives so that prosperity may return and survive," he said. "As a Republican, I'm here because I want to keep what little I've got. Can you imagine what would happen with the Democrats running the government?"

Carlstrom to the Assault.

The strongest denunciation of the Nye activities came from Attorney General Carlstrom. "It isn't Mrs. McCormick that is the issue," he said. "It is the state of Illinois. If we let a lot of whippersnappers say who may or not sit in the senate we lose our right of representation."

"Mrs. McCormick's statement is one of the finest things I ever saw done. 'I did it; what are you going to do about it, Senator Nye?' Thank God, there are men and women in Illinois with that kind of courage. I want them to represent me. May God help her to put a new sense of responsibility in the United States senate and get it to realize it is only an instrumentality under the constitution, that the people have a right to select their own representatives."

Frank L. Smith and Mr. Carlstrom dwelt upon the senate's denial of a seat to Mr. Smith four years ago and outlined some of the constitutional arguments involved.

After all these speeches, Mrs. McCormick, who had declared her intention of not referring to the Nye affair in her addresses today, was impelled to talk about the Nye committee also.

Talks of Nye's Committee.

"To clarify exactly what the situation is," said Mrs. McCormick, "the Nye committee—I do not say the senate committee—was appointed by resolution of Senator Norris, a noted so-called Republican, I might say a notorious so-called Republican, for the purpose of investigating primary expenditures in order that the senate might use the information in deciding whether they can or shall legislate with reference to campaign expenditures in primaries. This is a fundamental issue. I propose to carry it to the United States Supreme court, if necessary, to settle it.

"There's been more bunk on the floor of the senate in regard to campaign expenditures than on any other subject. The Supreme court said in the Newberry case that a primary is not part of the election and that the senate has no jurisdiction."

Mrs. McCormick said she had examined the reports of expenses filed by other candidates and that, whereas it was customary for the reports to cover 60 to 90 days of campaigning, she "reported every cent of expenditures from the time I told myself I was going to be a candidate, or ten months before the primary election."

The candidate said she had put down every postage stamp and even a prorated charge for electric light in her office, the object being to let the public know "what it costs to be nominated."

Mrs. McCormick said the inquiry so far has been a "personal hearing by Senator Nye."

"While I was attending the inquiry," she added, "I found my apartment had been rifled, my telephone wires were tapped, spies have been entering my office in Byron, and had gone through all my letter files, and I had been shadowed incessantly.

"The fact finding committee had turned into a personal prosecution committee against me.

"I wanted to find out who was shadowing and robbing. I made up my mind to investigate openly and aboveboard the character of the investigators. I read Mr. Nye was indignant as a senator, and I, as a congressman at large, am indignant."

Among the party leaders present were Lieut. Gov. Fred Sterling, State Senator Harry G. Wright, Justus Johnson, Speaker David Shanahan, Congressman E. E. Denison, Warden James A. White, Joseph F. McGuire, and Col. T. B. F. Smith.

TRIPLE BALLOT TO BE USED AT NOVEMBER ELECTION IN ILLINOIS

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Voters will be handed three ballots at the booths at the Nov. 4 election, it was announced here today at the office of Secretary of State William J. Stratton. Decision as to the number of separate ballots came after an opinion had been received from Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom.

The general ballot bearing the names of candidates for office also will carry the proposed amendment to the revenue section of the constitution.

A separate ballot will be printed for the vote on the proposal to issue $14,000,000 in bonds for conservation purposes.

The third ballot will carry the following: Proposed amendment to the banking law; the two bills having to do with women's service on juries, and the propositions embodied in the wet and dry referendum.

Robinson Spent $9,268 to Wins Arkansas Senate Race

Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 2.—(AP)—It cost U. S. Senator Joe T. Robinson $9,268 to be renominated in the August primary, his expense account, filed here today with the secretary of state, disclosed. The greater part of the expenditure, $6,141, was listed for printing and postage.

THIRD TAMMANY MAN QUITS UNDER JOB SCANDAL FIRE

Tammany Still Silent on Ewald Case.

New York, Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Still with a seal upon his tongue for fear he might "incriminate and degrade" himself in the Ewald-Healy case, Thomas T. Tommaney resigned today as chief clerk of Sheriff Farley's office. His letter of resignation informed the sheriff that he did so "to relieve you of any further embarrassment."

Tommaney was the go-between on the occasion in the spring of 1927, when Mrs. Bertha Ewald, the wife of former Magistrate George F. Ewald, made a "loan" of $10,000 to Martin J. Healy, Tammany district leader, a few days before her husband received his appointment to the bench.

Three Forced Out of Office.

The three chief figures in the Ewald case now have left public office. Ewald resigned the magistracy under fire. Healy stepped out of his $7,500 a year job as deputy commissioner of plant and structures after the charge had become too insistent that he had been selling judicial office, and now Tommaney has been forced to resign.

Sheriff Thomas M. Farley said several days ago that his chief clerk must "quit or be fired." Tommaney had persisted in refusing to tell federal grand jury about his part in the $10,000 transaction.

Shortly after Tommaney had given up his job, Attorney General Hamilton Ward, after a conference with leaders of the New York bar, announced that he would confine his inquiry to the Ewald case, instead of extending it to cover the entire question of job buying, and that he was selecting special counsel to act for him.

May Exhume Justice's Body.

Meanwhile Dr. Charles Norris, chief medical examiner, awaited evidence of sufficient weight to justify an application to the Supreme court for permission to exhume the body of Magistrate Andrew Macrery in an effort to determine whether the magistrate was beaten to death.

The state attorney general is investigating a charge that Magistrate Macrery was beaten because he refused to pay the final installment on the price of reappointment to the bench.

REGRETS CITY'S EXPENSE FOR ART ON RESOLUTIONS

Douglas Sutherland, executive secretary of the Civic Federation of Chicago, reproached the city council yesterday for spending the city's money on embossed resolutions. Mr. Sutherland recently received an engraved copy of a resolution adopted by the council, in which the aldermen mentioned their appreciation for the work he had done in framing the financial relief legislation passed at the special session of the general assembly.

The cost of the work of art was $100. Mr. Sutherland mentioned his gratitude for the council's kind words but regretted that they had spent so much money.

Silas H. Strawn, head of the citizens' rescue committee and also an object of the council's thanks, in acknowledging a resolution sent to him, said that the city's credit is now very good. He noted that the Cook County Taxpayers' Warrant Trust had been able to sell all the city warrants it held.

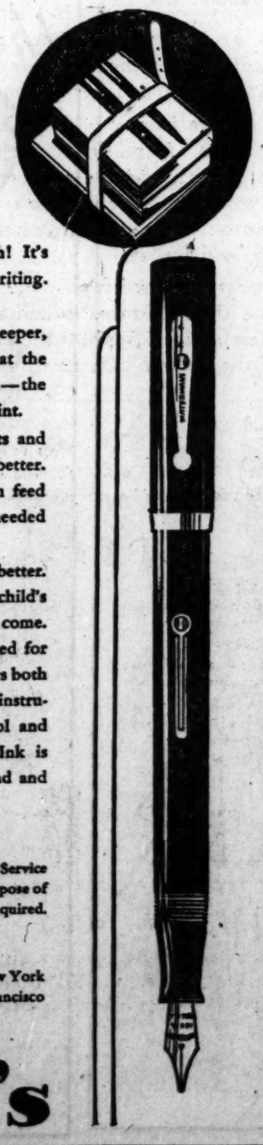
Why should a school child have a Waterman's?



Any writing teacher will tell you quickly enough! It's just this—the better the pen, the better the handwriting. Don't handicap your child—give him the best.

Waterman's pens write better. Ask any bookkeeper, or other steady users of pens. He'll tell you that the way a fountain pen writes depends on two things—the pen point itself, and how the ink flows to the point.

Waterman's make their own gold pen points and have done so for 47 years—no wonder they are better. Then, every Waterman's has the patented spoon feed which brings the ink to the pen point just as it is needed—no skimping, no blotting.

Every Waterman's has these features—writes better. Select the one that suits your purse and your child's hand. It will amply repay both of you for years to come. There is a wide choice of Waterman's pens suited for school use. Those illustrated are $4 and $5. Others both higher and lower in price. All are fine writing instruments. Always use Waterman's Inks—for school and general correspondence Waterman's new Blue Ink is especially good—a clear, bright blue, easy to read and easy on the eyes.

Every Waterman's is guaranteed forever against defects. Service Stations are maintained at the addresses below for the purpose of making good our guarantee and for servicing our pens as required.

You Can Save 20% on Your Automobile Insurance

Last year this return amounted to $711,332.11. Many members save enough to pay their annual tire bills. The Inter-Insurance Exchange always has returned 20% of the amount paid the "exchange" for insurance coverage.

In addition to the cash saving to subscribers, other features will appeal to you. For example, most insurance policies exclude coverage on tires and accessories; yet it is far more likely that a thief will steal your spare tire than that your car will be stolen. The "exchange" does cover accessories and at no additional cost.

The "valued form" policy is still another feature that accounts for the growth of the "exchange." In the event of total loss, you are paid the face value of your policy, the amount upon which you have paid insurance.

The "exchange" settles claims quickly and satisfactorily. Claims are not referred to a distant "higher up." Home office service, and other features explain why insurance sales in 1929 amounted to approximately four million dollars.

A few of the services available to members are:

Free mechanical first aid and towing service at any hour of the day or night.

Travel service, which provides you with maps, logs and the most complete and up to the minute advice on road conditions.

Bail bond service, which guarantees your appearance in traffic violation cases, where a bond not in excess of $100 is demanded.

Accident prevention work, which seeks to cut accidents, especially among school children, by means of safety posters and by fostering school boy patrols.

Home district service, which attends to special conditions around your home, such as seeing to it that refuse is promptly removed.

BE GALAHADS; LOVE YOUR WORK, DRY AGENTS TOLD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Politeness, "honesty of spirit and soul," and love of his work were described as the attributes of an ideal dry agent today by Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock in the opening lecture at his school for enforcement officers.

Seated behind desks like schoolboys and industricusly writing in notebooks, later to be graded, thirty-four agents listened to the lecture and to several others which followed during the course of the first day's instruction. The term will last one month after which the agents, two from each district, will return to become teachers of their colleagues at local schools.

Director Woodcock declared that the old days of the "disorderly rough and tough prohibition agent" are gone forever and that the new agents must be worthy of the respect accorded gentlemen. Further, he said, they must be efficient, well versed in the rights of citizens, and be infused with "faith and belief" in their work and pride in the service.

"We don't want agents to interfere with the rights of innocent persons," declared Director Woodcock. "We don't want them to go beyond the law. We want them to do their work in a professional way. We want them to exercise an honesty that is not outward, out of the spirit and soul. We want them to be agents who get pleasure and delight of being honest."

As detectives, the director continued, the agents should emulate Sherlock Holmes and Philo Vance, who he referred to by name, while in personal appearance they should also be faultless. He stressed the value of "soap, water, razors, and shoe polish."

"If we cannot win this campaign by improving the type of agents, it cannot be won at all," he added.

The Chicago school will start Oct. 6 and last two weeks. Another school will be held at the Chicago headquarters March 2 to March 14.

All the agents will be compelled to attend. They will receive full pay during the period as if they were on duty.

TWO DRYS FIRE INTO AUTO, KILL WOMAN; JAILED FOR MURDER

Mobile, Ala., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Thelma Wooten, 24, died here today of bullet wounds and Deputy Sheriffs T. H. Sullivan and C. C. Lane, who fired into a passing automobile in which she was a passenger several nights ago, were served with warrants charging murder.

The officers were imprisoned without bail soon after the shooting. They said they suspected the automobile was transporting liquor.

Others in the automobile told authorities two men, who later were identified as Sullivan and Lane, appeared at the side of the road and shot into the car without warning.

Denial was made that the car contained any liquor.

MICHIGAN HOME BREW 97 PINTS TO EACH PERSON

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Analysis of Michigan's revenue from the first year of the malt tax law's operation, revealed by the secretary of state today, shows sales of supplies sufficient to have provided every man, woman and child in the state with 97 3-5 pint bottles of beer.

The law became effective Aug. 28, 1929, after it had been passed by the 1929 legislature over the strenuous protests of the Michigan Anti-Saloon League, whose superintendent, the Rev. R. N. Holsaple, argued that the measure was putting the state in partnership with the home brewer. During the full year of its operation, ending last week, the state collected a tax total of $1,181,707.05, the state department's figures show.

The law places a tax of 5 cents a pound on malt extract and it specifies a levy of 25 cents a gallon on wort. The latter provision of the act has been ignored by state officials, however, as it was held to be incompatible with the 5 cent levy on extract. Wort, or diluted malt, has therefore been taxed on the basis of its solid content, amounting to about 6 cents a gallon. As five gallons of beer can be made from a two pound can of malt, the tax figures indicate that malt sufficient to make 59,085,352 gallons of beer was sold in the state during the year. Dividing this figure by the 1930 population of the state, 4,482,280, gives a per capita of 97 3-5 pints.

This Hunter Shoots at Lindbergh Beacon Beam

John Miller, 45 years old, 921 West Madison street, took a libation of canned heat last night, then shinned up a telephone pole in front of his home and tried to shoot holes in the Lindbergh light beam with a .38 caliber revolver. He is resting up at the Des Plaines street station.

COP'S VACATION JOYS TURN OUT BUNCH OF WOES

All the joy has gone out of vacation for Policeman William Sass, 24 years old, of the East Side station. Sass, in civilian clothes, was changing a flat tire on his flivver last night at 124th street and Torrence avenue when three men in a large sedan drew alongside.

"Need any help, buddy?" one of them asked. "No, thanks," Sass replied. "I'm about through."

He straightened up, dusting his hands, and looked into the muzzles of two pistols.

"Let's see what's in your pockets," one of the robbers suggested. He found and took Sass' pistol and star and a roll of bills totaling $105.

"That's my vacation money," the policeman protested. "I went on furlough Monday."

PLANE AS HEARSE FLIES 250 MILES TO SIERRA PARK

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—A tri-motored plane, hurriedly chartered by relatives of James M. FitzHugh, southern California manager for a steel corporation, today flew to Lone Pine, in the high Sierra mountains, and flew back, 250 miles, as aerial hearse for FitzHugh and ambulance for his wife and two sons.

The family was involved in an automobile accident which yesterday resulted in the steel man's death and a broken hip for his wife.

GANG TERRORIZES 168 IN DAIRY AND GETS $12,000 LOOT

Six bandits yesterday afternoon invaded the Wieland Dairy company plant at 3014 North Tripp avenue, rounded up 168 employés, and made them lie on the floor while they scooped $12,000 in bills and currency into a paper shopping bag and then made their escape in an automobile.

Two bank messengers who boarded a Chicago and North Western suburban train yesterday at Elmhurst en route to the Continental-Illinois Bank and Trust company downtown were held up and robbed of $27,000 in checks, $2,021 in bonds and coupons and $500 cash as the train reduced its speed in the yards at Bellwood.

The messengers, Leonard Luetger of the First National bank of Elmhurst and Julius Graue of the Elmhurst State bank, were sitting in the rear of a coach when the robbers covered them with guns. Luetger was slugged.

BOYS! HERE IS CHANCE TO SEE BIG GRID GAME

Contest Winners to Get Tickets.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[ENTRY BLANK ON PAGE 19.]

Who are the most accurate forward passers and the best dropkickers in the army of Chicago boys now starting football practice? THE TRIBUNE proposes to determine the champions.

Winners will have their choice of watching the Navy play Notre Dame at South Bend, Oct. 11, or the Illinois game with Northwestern at Champaign, Oct. 18. All expenses will be paid by THE TRIBUNE.

The contests are open to all boys of grammar school and high school ages. There will be two divisions. One includes lads 14 and under. The other is for boys 15 to 19 years of age, inclusive.

Hundreds of boys will play on organized teams this fall. There are many more who will spend hours passing and kicking on vacant lots and in the parks. THE TRIBUNE'S contests are open to all. Membership on a team is unnecessary. Perhaps you can pass more accurately and drop kick better than boys who will play on school and club elevens.

Preliminaries Sept. 20.

You may enter either the drop kicking or the passing contests or you may enter both. There will be a champion passer and a champion kicker in each of the two age groups.

Preliminary contests will be held Saturday morning, Sept. 20, in seven sections of Chicago. The winners, or those tied for the sectional championships, will meet a week later.

The rules for competition follow:

BOYS 14 AND UNDER.

Drop kicking—Five attempts 20 yards from the goal posts.

BOYS 15 TO 19 INCLUSIVE.

Drop kicking—Five attempts 30 yards from the goal posts.

Forward passing—Five attempts at a stationary target. Distance, 20 yards.

The preliminary sectional contests will be held at Bessemer park, 89th street and Muskegon; Washington park, 53d street and South Park way; Douglas park, 19th street and California avenue; Mills stadium, 4700 West Lake street; Kelvyn park, Wrightwood and Kostner; De Paul university field, and Loyola university field.

Entries Close Sept. 15.

If you wish to enter the championships, clip the blank printed daily in THE TRIBUNE and mail it immediately to the Football Contest Editor. Entries will close Monday, Sept. 15.

Most boys in practice try to see who can kick or pass the farthest. Coaches will tell you that accuracy counts more than distance. The boy who can drop kick the winning points when his team is held for downs on the goal line is more valuable than one who makes a long distance attempt which seldom is successful.

And all coaches desire an accurate passer rather than the player who can throw 50 yards but cannot locate the receiver. If a passer is accurate, a longer range can be developed.

More than two weeks remain for practice. Start drilling now and perhaps you may be the lucky boy, a champion passer or drop kicker, who will watch Notre Dame play the Navy or Northwestern when it faces the Illini.

AL ESPINOSA SPANISH; HIS GOLF'S SCOTCH

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Al Espinosa's name has been appearing in golf stories for a good many years, but there are still a few followers of the game who don't know him as well as they might.

AL ESPINOSA.

Like so many of the top notch pros, he began as a caddie, and when just a kid of about twelve he closed a big business deal with John D. Rockefeller. Al landed the contract for carrying John D.'s bag one day and at the end of the round he collected 35 cents.

That happened at the Del Monte course, right near Al's home at Monterey, Cal. Here four generations of the Espinosas have lived since a member of the family came from Spain in the 18th century with an expedition led by a Franciscan friar named Junipero Serra. Al's aunt, who died recently, held one of the largest of the original Spanish land grants.

While he was still just a boy, Al decided that golf was the only business he cared for and his game improved at so rapid a rate that it soon became apparent his choice of occupations was a wise one.

Then, too, it ran in the family, for his four brothers all have become professionals. Two of them are in Chicago—Abe, who is professional at the Medinah Country club, and Ray, who directs the indoor golf school at the Medinah Athletic club. Romie and Henry are following along similar lines in San Francisco.

Next to playing golf there's nothing Al likes to do so well as to go hunting. Every winter he returns to Monterey, where his father and mother are still living, and takes a shooting trip into the mountains. Then he starts out on the circuit of the

WEALTH AWAITS CHICAGO WINNER OF RACE LOTTERY

Wealth awaits Harry Lewis, 123 South Marion street, Oak Park, upon his return from a hunting trip, but last night he was not aware of it.

Three days ago Lewis, a bachelor, left on a hunting expedition. He said he expected to return in about a week, but left no forwarding address.

In Oak Park little was known of him except that he came from Cleveland last week and took a room at the Marion street address. He is between 40 and 50 years old.

The lottery in which Lewis won a fortune was conducted by a Chicago concern for the use of whose name the Canadian labor organization paid $18,462.35.

Some time ago the lottery promoters were stopped from selling tickets in Ontario, but the sale in the United States was continued, to the financial benefit of Lewis and two other Americans who also won prizes.

According to an Associated Press dispatch Mrs. E. P. Hoag of Orlando, Fla., won second award of $36,924.70, and J. C. Adams, Atlanta, Ga., held the third prize ticket entitling him to $18,462.35.

Ticket sales totaled $369,247.

YALE BACK HURT WHEN BROTHER KICKS SHOTGUN

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Tom Taylor, Yale university full back, was rushed to a hospital here today aboard the yacht Romance from the north shore of Lake Superior, where he was accidentally shot when his younger brother kicked over a loaded 12 gauge shotgun. Taylor will be confined to the hospital for 10 days.

Taylor, whose home is at St. Joseph, Mo., his brother, and Joe Uihleim trying for a berth on the Yale squad this year, have been camping on the north shore near Gargantua, getting in condition for the football season. The charge struck him in his chest, arms and legs.

N. U.-STANFORD FOOTBALL SERIES PENDING, REPORT

San Francisco, Calif., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Negotiations are virtually completed between Stanford and Northwestern University for a series of intersectional football games, the first of which will be played in 1931. Alfred Masters, graduate manager of Stanford, said an official announcement would be made in the near future.

The 1931 game, it is reported, will be played in November, at Palo Alto with Stanford going to Northwestern for the return engagement the following season.

N. U. WELCOMES SERIES.

Kenneth L. Wilson, Northwestern athletic director, last night said his school had been negotiating with Stanford for two years. "No dates have been set," Wilson said, "but we are ready to open the series in 1931. We already have five conference games and Notre Dame.

"The first game, if arrangements are completed for the series, will be played at Palo Alto, Cal., and the second game at Evanston."

IF PRIMO'S SUCH A BUM WHY WON'T THEY FIGHT HIM?

Fight Decisions

At Congress Arcade—Ray Tramblio, Rockford, Ill., knocked out Max Kramer, Germany [5]. Bert Quinn, Honolulu, knocked out Chester Bush, New Orleans [1].

At Boston, Mass.—Babe Hunt, Oklahoma, beat Ernie Schaaf, Boston [10].

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 2.—It is almost immoral to say so, but I am beginning to look upon Primo Carnera, that vast, mysterious outlander with all the sinister associates, as the heavyweight champion of the world, elevated to this post of influence and honor by the default of all those other heavyweights whose right and duty it is to discredit and rebuke him.

Like recreant constables diving under the pool tables at the approach of Jesse James, the defenders of the right in pugilism and of the sanctity of the Muldoon-Tunney tombstone have fled before Primo's advance, pleading various excuses and leaving this rowdy stranger to leer in the face of law and order. He fights setups, and he flouts the dignity of the New York prize fight commissioners, a very serious offense.

It's a Public Duty.

It seems a plain public duty of those fatted celebrities who have prospered so well by public patronage, the Sharkeys, the Schmelings, and the Striblings, to interpose themselves and check this alarming progress somewhere short of desecration, but unless they do more than they have done so far the day will come when Primo Carnera will break into the temple of the Garden corporation and chisel his name deep in the shaft of the tombstone as champion of the world and next successor to the donor, Gene Tunney.

Not by his own hand, perhaps, with so many expert chiselers in his train, but per representative, which would be just as bad.

It begins to strike me as a bit odd that, if Primo Carnera is the egregious bum that his disdainful colleagues of racket would have him, none of them can be induced to subdue him even at a guaranteed minimum price of $100,000. Mr. Sharkey half consented, but then suddenly re-

White Sox Diagnosis Shows Old Ills Are Still Rampant

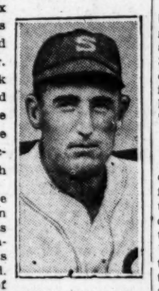
BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Donie Bush, whose hopes were high when he assumed active management of the White Sox last winter, has been on a tread mill all summer. He's about back where he started and the Sox are in the same depths they occupied when Bush took them over.



PAT CARAWAY.

Recruits were brought forth in quantities. Trades were consummated. Bad boys were banished. Only a bit of good has been done. The search for talent will have to continue.

Only one player out of last spring's crop of rookies has measured up to expectations. He is Cecil Pat Caraway, left-handed pitcher purchased for a nominal sum from a Western league club. Pat came up unheralded for about $4,000. He'd have been a bargain at three times the price.

Just Another Coast Leaguer.

The large Mr. Jolley from the Coast league also is still present. Taken over at a reported sum of $50,000 and preceded by announcements from the far west that he would tear the hearts out of American league pitchers, Jolley has proved just another Coast leaguer. He has hit fairly well, but not enough to balance his poor fielding and lack of speed.

Chief among Bush's crop at San Antonio last spring were infielders. They came from here and there. They went back to the sticks, most of them to the obscure leagues whence they came. Today the best infield Bush can put on the diamond is Watwood at first, Kerr at second, Cissell at short and Kamm at third. All these men were present last season. That is evidence of the failure of the club to discover anybody worth while.

Option Men May Improve.

The one bright spot in the infield problem is that men now out under option may come back greatly developed. The best of these is Jeffries, who has had two trials with the Sox. He's at Toledo. Another prospect the club figured might come along was Buddy Ryan from Holy Cross. He played in the Sox lineup for about a week and was farmed to Indianapolis. The Hoosier club returned him. He was too young.

The club made a sincere effort to bolster the infield in midseason by going shopping in Toledo for Shortstop Mulleavy. The price was about $20,000 and the services of a couple of players. Mulleavy has failed to impress Manager Bush. The lad is a long way from a finished product. That's why Cissell is back at short.

Reynolds Getting Better.

The lone stalwart among the outfielders is Carl Reynolds. A good hitter, fast on his feet, and improving all the time in his fielding, he represents the only recent newcomer developed by the Sox. It took two years to do that. Watwood still has an outside chance to make good if confined to one position. Barnes, obtained from Washington for Harris, has done nothing to indicate he is a big leaguer. Fothergill, taken from Detroit on waivers, isn't the man he was.

Shipping the famous Arthur Shires to the Senators was an error, because there was no first baseman to take his place. The club has an abiding faith in Clancy, but Bud isn't robust enough for big time. The trading of Shires, however, had its compensating feature. It brought Braxton and Tate, and the latter, out now with a broken finger, has been a life saver behind the bat. Braxton, too, might have been helpful if illness hadn't overtaken him.

Need Infielder, Outfielder.

Bush is aware of his needs, but his attitude indicates a lack of optimism. He knows he must have a first sacker, another infielder for second, short, or third, and a good outfielder. He also knows, although he is silent on the point, that certain men can be dispensed with. Berg, Walsh, Henry and Clancy have been of little use to the team and probably will go.

The club already has rounded up five new men, but none from the class AA leagues. Appling of Atlanta is one. He is touted the best shortstop prospect the Southern association has seen in years. He is only 21 years old. Jim Moore, a pitcher, already is on hand. He was purchased from Little Rock. The Dallas club is going to send up an infielder named Willingham. The two others are Outfielder Finlator and First Sacker Radcliffe of the Selma, Ala., team.

Some of these and some of the others who are to be purchased may produce next summer. Meanwhile, Bush can console himself over the fact that he at least has a pitching staff that would hold its own if supported by a team of average hitters.

CHAMPIONS ACT LIKE OLD SELVES AFIELD, AT BAT

Taylor's Triple Gets Scoring Under Way.

The Cubs yesterday maintained their four game margin over the Giants. The Cardinals trail Chicago by five games and the Robins are six games behind.

If the Cubs win 12 and lose 11 games, the Giants must take 18 out of 25 to finish first, the Cardinals must win 18 of 23, and the Robins 18 of 21.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 2.—Charley Root took the bandages off his ailing pitching arm this afternoon and put a stop to the funny business the Cincinnati Reds have been perpetrating against our Cubs all season. The popular invalid pitched a three hit game, his 16th victory of the season, and the Cubs won the final of the year on the heartily despised Redland acres, 8 to 2.

Not a Redleg got to first base until two were out in the fifth inning. Then Crawford broke the ice with a bunt to Bell, but he advanced no farther. Bell's error, a double, and a sacrifice produced the Reds' first run in the sixth, and they got another on Cuccinello's homer in the seventh.

Hartnett Hits 29th Homer.

The Cubs' offensive was in marked contrast with other performances in this Jonah's community. Danny Taylor's triple with two on and a subsequent error gave the Chicagoans a three run start in the first inning. Singles by Bell, Blair, and Cuyler added a run in the second. Wilson's single and Hartnett's No. 29 homer hung up two more in the fifth. An error, two walks, and a single by Cuyler produced two runs and rounded out the Cub total in the ninth.

The victory halted a chain of seven straight victories the Reds had accomplished against the Cubs on Redland field since July 5. The Reds, however, continue to enjoy a big edge over the champs in the season endeavors, having won 11 while losing 7.

Tonight the Cubs left for Pittsburgh, where tomorrow they proceed against the Pirates in the first of a four game series at Forbes field, followed by a Sunday loner at Wrigley field in Chicago. Teachout is scheduled to perform against Brame in the Pirate opener.

Taylor's Triple Helps.

The Cubs smashed a lot of Cincinnati precedents by grabbing three runs in the first inning of today's contest. Blair opened the game with a fly to Swanson, but English walked. Hellmann was given an error when Cuyler's drive got away from him, English stopping at third and Ki pulling up at second. Wilson ran the count to three balls and two strikes, then was called out on strikes, howling vociferously. D. Taylor tripled to the right field corner, scoring English and Cuyler, and came home when Ford made a wide throw after capturing Kelly's grounder to deep short. Hartnett ended the inning with a fly to Swanson.

After having made three runs on one hit in the first inning, the Cubs came back in the second inning and used three hits to score one run. Bell pushed off with a single to left, but was forced by Root. Blair singled to right, Root stopping at second. English forced Blair and Root stopped

AND THEY SAY WOMAN'S PLACE IS IN THE HOME

Frances Lambert, who heads the girls' track team of the Pennsylvania railroad's Chicago general office, is one of the many American girls who have decided that track competion is not limited to the male. She will run Saturday in the system's western meet at Indianapolis.

And now take tennis as an example. The girls play just as hard at it as the men do, and Miss Betty Nuthall of England, who won the American women's championship recently, could make men players exert themselves in a test of skill and stamina.

On a Friday when the Cubs are playing at Wrigley field thousands of women spend the afternoon cheering their baseball favorites. There was a time when a simple baseball problem would be too complex for the feminine rooter, but "them days are gone forever."

A national rifle shoot at Camp Perry, O., would not be complete without the presence of feminine competitors. Meet Miss Phyl Sargent of Hartford, Conn., whose deadly aim played havoc with the targets.

BY FRENCH LANE.

That horse Suitor, which races in the purple and white jacket of Edward J. Lehmann, surely is a congenial sort of fellow and quickly adapts himself to all sorts of company.

One day he runs in a claiming race. The next he is associated with the handicap performers. But usually he's right up there looking the judges in the eye when the finish of a turf battle comes.

He was in the Roby purse with six of the best mud running handicap performers in the west at Lincoln Fields yesterday. He had his favorite jockey, F. Halbert, in the saddle. And when the struggle ended he got the decision in one of the most thrilling finishes of the season.

Three Bunched at Finish.

His margin of victory was just about three-quarters of an inch. Many of those in the crowd thought Galahad had headed him in the last desperate rally. And Uncommon Gold was so close up he could have been given the decision without much of a protest.

So the official decision read Suitor first by a nose, Galahad second by a head, Blackwood, Mole Hill, and Fleche D'Argent trailed the three leaders home.

Suitor has been a busy horse this year and began his campaign in the early spring. He was making his 16th start of the season in the Roby and he has been a very consistent performer, having won five races, finished second twice and third three times. He has been out of the money only on six occasions, and most of those races were run early in the year when Suitor was getting into condition.

You Couldn't Claim Him Now.

Suitor is a 4 year old son of Tryster Love Story and has run to be claimed for $5,000 in some races this year. Yet he has won more than $10,000 in purse money, and he probably has put himself in so solid with his owner that he could not be bought for love or money.

Suitor trailed Uncommon Gold in the early stages of the Roby, but moved up at the head of the stretch and took the lead. Galahad came from far back to race upon even terms with him, and while apparently conquered, Uncommon Gold hung on like a bull dog and the three leaders came down to the finish with only inches separating them. Galahad was on the extreme outside and there was no doubt but that he was going fastest of all when the verdict was returned.

In the betting Suitor paid $7.92. He ran the mile and a sixteenth over the muddy track in 1:47. Suitor has won in every kind of going this season, although in his younger days he was noted as a muddy track performer.

Winner Almost Disqualified.

When Cayuga, the 1 to 2 favorite, was beaten in the Chicago Beach handicap at six furlongs there came near being a disqualification. Cayuga led into the stretch, but half way home Club House bore in slightly after he had headed Cayuga and bumped the latter back, throwing him out of stride. As a result Club House went on to win by two lengths from Ellice, with Cayuga holding on long enough to be third.

The judges made an investigation of the race before the numbers were hung out. Jockey Paul Neal, on Cayuga, testified it was unavoidable interference and the original finish was allowed to stand. Club House ran a good race all the way and his time for the six furlongs was 1:14 2-5.

JONES TO GIVE BEARS 1ST GRID WORKOUT TODAY

The Chicago Bears, north side professional football eleven, will begin practice tomorrow under Ralph Jones, former coach at Lake Forest academy. Ten new players have been obtained, including Lawrence Steinbach, tackle from St. Thomas college; M. E. Frump, guard on last year's Ohio Wesleyan eleven, and Bronko Nagurski of Minnesota. Red Grange also has signed a contract for this season.

Californian Wins Civilian Rifle Shoot; Chicagoan 3d

Camp Perry, O., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Competing in a field of 421 civilians, Gairle M. Upshaw of Pasadena, Cal., won the individual Civilian club members' match at the national rifle and pistol matches here today on a 200 yard range with a .30 caliber rifle. His score was 96 out of a possible 100. In close competition with him was Louis Bernard of Payson, Utah, and John G. Freitag of Chicago, who finished second and third respectively, with scores of 94 each.

Giants Pound Phil Pitchers for 18 to 5 Win

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The Giants made it two out of three from the Phillies and pulled away from the Cardinals by winning today's game, 18 to 5. The teams came within one of the National league record for doubles made in a nine inning game when they accounted for thirteen, the Giants and Dodgers having made fourteen in one game in 1912.

ROOT ALLOWS 3 HITS; CUBS WHIP CINCINNATI, 8-2

Wastes 2 Hits in Fourth.

After going out in order in the third, the Cubs wasted two hits in the fourth. Bell filed to Swanson and Crawford threw out Root. Then Blair got his second single and went to third on English's hit to right. Then Ford threw out Cuyler.

Wilson opened the fifth with his first hit of the series, a single to right. Hack paused on first while D. Taylor and Kelly filed to Heilmann, then came home ahead of Hartnett when Gabby knocked that No. 29 over the left field fence which is 339 feet from the home plate and 35 feet high. The ball came down on the roof of a laundry across the street from the ball park.

The first hit off Root came with two out in the fifth. Cuccinello fanned for the second time and Heilmann flied to Wilson. Then Crawford beat out a bunt to Bell and was the first Redleg to reach first base. Pat died on first because English went into left field and made a fine catch of Ford's fly.

Root Out Stretching Hit.

Ford got around the bases in the sixth. After reaching first on Bell's error, Horace went to third on Pinch Batter Lucas' double to left and scored on Walker's sacrifice fly to Cuyler.

The Reds got their second run because Cuccinello led off the seventh with a homer. Heilmann and Crawford followed with flies to Cuyler and Bell threw out Sukeforth.

Sy Johnson started pitching in the seventh and for two innings kept the Cubs away from first base. In the ninth he wasn't so fortunate. Root led off the final inning with a single to right, but was out trying to stretch it to a double. Blair was safe on an error and English walked. Blair scored and English reached third on Cuyler's single. Wilson walked, filling the bases. English scored while Stripp was making a good play to retire D. Taylor. Kelly flied to left.

Cheering, Isn't It? No Cubs on Hospital List

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 2.—The Cubs' hospital list, which was so distressing five days ago, has been dissolved. Root, reported out for two weeks, showed this bulletin to be greatly exaggerated by pitching a three hit game today against the annoying Cincinnati Reds.

Sheriff Blake this morning talked just as loud as Root in assuring Manager McCarthy that he no longer is an invalid. And you know how Hack Wilson, reported "out for a week" came back after a day's rest and knocked his 45th and 48th homers in Saturday's game against the Cardinals at Wrigley field.

Rogers Hornsby today set up a terrific howl at published reports that he "had played his last game," and announced he was ready to play second base whenever McCarthy wants him to.

Hartnett's thumb, which kept him out of three games and troubled him some in the one game he worked yesterday, didn't bother him today, and he knocked his 29th homer to celebrate his complete recovery.

So all in all, the Pirates will meet a healthy mob when the Cubs get to Pittsburgh tomorrow.

GOLFERS PLAY 1,000 MATCHES IN TRIBUNE GOLF

Fifth Round of Tourney Is Completed.

The last of the fifth round results in THE TRIBUNE'S public links golf tournament are announced today and new pairings will appear tomorrow. Every contestant who has turned in a card will be assigned a new opponent regardless of whether he won or lost his fifth round match.

As the tournament draws toward its end, hundreds of golfers throughout the Chicago district continue to compete. This has become the biggest meet in the history of the game, more than 1,000 matches having been played so far, and there are more coming.

These 1,000 contests have been run off with no inconvenience to any one. No player has been called upon to do anything out of his regular routine and each has played his match whenever it suited him, on any course he chose.

Those who are still in this unique tournament have only a short time more to compete and then prizes will be awarded to those who have played the greatest number of matches and those who have the greatest number of victories to their credit.

Fifth round results:

Moody Damron, 7612 Rogers avenue, beat I. E. Krohn, 4606 North Hermitage avenue, 3 strokes.

4 NIGHT GAMES SCHEDULED FOR LOYOLA ELEVEN

four at least four major football games at night, according to an announcement yesterday by the Rev. George Kiley, S. J., director of athletics.

The games with Carroll college, Georgetown, Duquesne, and Coe are to be played on Friday nights instead of the usual Saturday afternoons. University officials have not definitely scheduled the Boston college game on Nov. 15 for night because of the difficulties involved due to the weather and condition of the ground.

35 REPORT FOR FIRST FOOTBALL DRILL AT DE PAUL

Coach Eddie Anderson, former Notre Dame star, took charge of the drill in fundamentals. Anderson will be assisted this year by Ben Connor, coach at St. Ignatius High school last year. Connor is a former St. Viator star.

RAY TRAMBLIE STOPS KRAMER IN 5TH ROUND

If Carnera's a Bum Why Can't He Get Fight?

membered a forgotten obligation to toy with Vittorio Campolo, the Garden corporation's house guest, and therefore asked to be excused.

Schmeling Needed at Home.

Herr Schmeling, upon winning his negative victory over Sharkey, discovered urgent business in the fatherland and has not raised a glove since then.

Stribling met Carnera twice in Europe in an even exchange of fouls, but while he was very brash toward Fainting Phil Scott he has been most demure toward Primo this season. Offered the same terms that Sharkey had declined for a bout in Chicago, his father, the keeper of William's book, also spurned the employment and defaulted any patriotic obligations which may be involved in the situation on the ground that he was not on pleasant terms with the promoter, Mique Malloy.

It's a Lot of Money.

These three handsome youths may all be quite sincere about their various reasons why Primo Carnera cannot be fought by them until further notice, but $100,000 has suddenly come to represent a large amount of funds in the prize fighting business and this is the first time I have ever found the leading prize fighters so glib with reasons why they could not knock off a bum for a lot of money.

Certainly the Stribling boy cannot be holding back because he thinks Carnera no match for his tricks and wiles, because William is the only man in the heavyweight class who has nudged over more tramps than Primo has. In fact, William's record of knockouts compiled out along the omnibus routes includes some hulks and roadside vagrants so pitiful that even Primo's managers had not the effrontery to prop them up for him in the course of their hilarious tour from ocean to ocean and back. William put them all in the vat during his travels as a tin can tourist and he came by his name of the Dry Tank Barracuda honestly if without much dignity.

Sharkey has lured the Garden corporation into a cheerless bit of business which will make the stockholders little money and well may cost them some, but the other boys seem to be definitely unemployed for an indefinite time.

Demand Grows Greater.

In the meantime, I see, Primo has leaned upon Ricardo Bartazolla and mashed him to the rug and promoters around about the U. S. A. are soliciting his presence in many places to do the same to further victims, some of them even going so far as to offer themselves as opponents for this awful man, to save the hire of the customary derelict.

Certainly Primo's list of victims, of itself, will not identify him as heavyweight champion of the world, but if the bums can't stand up against him and the so-called stars refuse to, Primo must advance to the title for lack of opposition. How well he can fight nobody yet has any way of knowing, but he is so nimble and skittish, like the get of an elephant bred to a sparrow, and he thumps his bums into such picturesque tangles along the ropes that the customers in little time will be forced to accept him as the man that no other man can lick.

Schmeling, certainly, cannot claim to have done as much as Primo with his apologetic record of two major victories in a championship career, and the customer must soon conclude that Primo, alone, is willing to fight anybody on reasonable terms of business.

Park Ridge Net Tourney Enters Quarter-Final Round

Play in the sixth annual Park Ridge Labor day tennis tourney has reached the quarter finals. More than 100 competed yesterday and Monday in the first four rounds. Those who will play in the quarter finals are. W. E. Parkhill, Roland Nord, Edwin Fox, Eugene Quinn and M. E. Dahl. Three other quarter finalists are yet to be decided. Arthur Kaiser will play Gilbert Sheldon; Frank O'Connell will meet John James, and Walter Galland will face John Bauman for the right to remain in the tournament.

Hunt Earns Decision Over Schaaf in 10 Rounds

Boston, Mass., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Babe Hunt, Oklahoma heavyweight, outpointed Ernie Schaaf of Boston tonight in a ten round bout at Fenway Park. Schaaf fought too cautiously and did not hit his usual free swinging stride until late. Hunt weighed 194, four pounds less than the Boston sailor.

HERMAN BOUT POSTPONED.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 2.—(AP)—A scheduled ten round bout tonight between Tommy Herman, Chicago, and Patsy Pollock of Canada, was postponed until tomorrow night because of threatening weather.

Becker Finds Teal and Mallards on Upper Illinois

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Upper Illinois River, Ill., Sept. 2.—There won't be any need of blinds made out of straw and mud erected on exposed mud flats down here at our duck pond. Instead of dusty bottom lands laid bare by the lower water [a situation that we anticipated in view of the drought] we have found that our pond is wet, yes, very wet. The water level is down, of course, but it comes up almost to the weed growth around the pond, leaving just enough mud flat to make it cozy for the shore birds. Therefore the outlook for some shooting here is pretty good.

With Jack, our springer spaniel, ranging ahead of us and panting like a lizard under the warm sun, we plunged into the lowland cornfields and weed patches near the duck pond about 11 o'clock this morning while the lady sought the shade of a thorn-apple tree that was loaded with the scarlet ripe fruit. We wanted to see the level of the water in the pond and also make a census of its bird population. It was a job getting through the cornfield which comes close to the edge of the pond. The corn stands seven and eight feet high and between each planting the weeds are three and four feet high. But we finally emerged from the field and then breaking through a stand of six foot weeds, we looked across the dark dirty stretch of water which is connected with the Illinois river.

Jack's ears went up when a school of carp mucking around in the shallow water not eight feet from us suddenly exposed their dorsal fins and sloshed and splashed as if playing a game. But a counter attraction quickly took his attention and ours, too.

From a bed of pickerel weeds about 175 yards on our left there sounded the startled quack, quack, of wild ducks. Up from the weed bed burst 15 mallards rapidly gaining in altitude as they hurried away. Right behind them we caught the flash of blue on more beating wings. A flock of light blue winged teal was hot footin' it right after the green heads. There are ducks on deck! Happy days are here again!

For several years after Al first became a pro, he and Abe worked together at a club in San Rafael, Cal. When the war broke out Al joined the army and was assigned to drive munition trucks at the front.

After it was all over he married and now his wife is his best fan. She goes to every tournament in which he plays and watches every stroke. For several years after his marriage Al stayed in Seattle. In 1924 he came to Chicago to take a place as professional at the Illinois Golf club.

There he remained until 1928, when plans were made for the Sportsman Golf and Country club. Al was put in charge and his first job was to lay out a course on a tract of land situated in the vicinity of Northbrook. Those who have visited it recently agree that he has what promises to be one of the sportiest links in the Chicago district. The informal opening was held recently, and already the greens are in excellent condition and the fairways are coming along well.

Right now Al is shooting a better game than he has for years. In the closing rounds of the recent western open he shot a 70 and a 67 to come from 15th place and finish second to Gene Sarazen. Last season he tied Bobby Jones for the national open championship, only to lose in the playoff. So it's no wonder that he's one of the prime favorites to bring the professional crown to Chicago.

TO JOIN BEARS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Manitowoc, Wis., Sept. 2.—Paul Schuette, former University of Wisconsin football player, today went to Chicago to join the Chicago Bears in training for the opening of the National Professional league season.

This Fan Gives Joe McCarthy Credit for Cubs' Position at Top of League

Baseball fans who have accepted THE TRIBUNE'S invitation to express their views of the reasons for the success of the Cubs hold widely varied opinions, their letters show. You can express your ideas by writing a letter of not more than 200 words to the sports editor. Here's the way two fans whose communications were received yesterday look at the Cubs' pennant fight:

"Who is responsible for keeping them in front?

"Give every one connected with the team full credit. The regulars are stars and the substitutes are too, and would be regulars anywhere else.

"But I say, Joe McCarthy.

"He has had more disappointments due to illness, death, and players' failure to round in form than any manager in the league, and despite this he has kept his team in front.

"His complete confidence in all his players, the unswerving loyalty of all the team, the absence of jealousy and the high regard for Mr. McCarthy's ability has built up a machine that has stood up through all the troubles. With the same personnel a less capable manager would have failed.

"And he knows the game. His direction of the game on the field is not surpassed by any manager in the game. He is alert, aggressive and cool headed under any condition.

"This does not take one particle of credit from any one else connected with the team. I think they would all agree with these ideas.

"H. WEBBER."

BLAMES OTHER TEAMS.

"The Cubs are a bunch of hired hands who live outside the city and play baseball for a living, thus depriving their home states of hodcarriers, janitors, truck drivers, etc.

"The reason the Cubs are leading their league is that they have no strong teams to play. You will recall that their standing when they played the major league last fall was not a thing to write home about.

"The Cubs are about on a par with the White Sox, which is none too high.

"Let us hope that the major league will have a strong team in Chicago, so that when the women go out and scream it will be for a worthy cause.

"HEZEKIAH O'TOOLE."

U. S., British Polo Fours in Final Matches

New York, Sept. 2.—[Special.]—With the opening contest of the international series only three days away, polo teams of Great Britain and the United States will engage in what may be their last practice tomorrow.

Originally only the British were scheduled for a test match, but rain prevented the Americans from playing their game today.

The British will play a picked team at Cochran field, Meadowbrook. The change in lineup which was made in Sunday's game against Roslyn, and which added much to the scoring punch of the invaders, will be used again. On Sunday the British started with J. B. Balding at No. 1, Gerald Balding at No. 2, Capt. C. T. I. Roark at No. 3, and Lewis Lacey at back. In the sixth period, however, Gerald Balding went to No. 1, Lacey to No. 2, and Lieut. Humphrey Guinness to back.

The new lineup proved effective and in three periods it accounted for nine goals against Roslyn. Tomorrow Gerald Balding, Lacey, Capt. Roark, and Lieut. Guinness, riding in that order, will face a team made up of Stephen Sanford at No. 1; James P. Mills, Old Aiken star, at No. 2; Robert Strawbridge Jr. at No. 3, and J. C. Rathborne, also of Old Aiken, at back.

COMPLETE FIGHT BILL FOR HARMON BENEFIT SEPT. 11

The Chicago Stadium yesterday announced the complete card for the boxing show on Sept. 11, the proceeds from which will be used to establish a trust fund for Patricia Harmon, the 4 year old daughter of the late P. T. Harmon. Simultaneously it was discovered at the Town Hall court that Ernie Peters, who has been matched to meet Harry Fierro on the Stadium card, had begun intensive training.

Peters, it seems, had been training with Dan Chambas, proprietor of a restaurant at 1116 Argyle street. Chambas objected when Peters chose him as a target in his training exercises, one of which was tossing water glasses. A charge of assault and battery brought Peters before Judge John R. Lyle for the second time in three weeks.

The judge levied a $100 fine on the 24 year old fighter and ordered him to work out the fine in the House of Correction. However, he added that he might admit Peters to probation in a few days so he could continue his fighting in a legal manner at the Stadium.

Kid Francis, who boxed Fidel La Barba to a 20 round draw decision in Paris, will meet Harry Forbes in another eight round bout on the Stadium card. Charley Retzlof and Pedro Lopez, heavyweights, are matched for six rounds.

Tony Canzoneri and Billy Petrolle, and King Levinsky and Leo Lomski are the headliners. Each bout is for ten rounds. These fighters will begin work today.

The Illinois athletic commission yesterday approved Jack Gross as an opponent for Primo Carnera on Mique Malloy's card at the Stadium Sept. 17. George Gorfrey and his manager, Jimmy Dougherty, visited the commission office. Godfrey is under suspension by the National Boxing association for fouling Carnera in the fifth round of their recent bout in Philadelphia.

STOCK EXCHANGE DELIVERS WITH FAIRLY GOOD ACT

Chicago Issues Display a Steady Tone.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Judged by ordinary standards 'the stock market's performance yesterday was a fairly creditable one in the eyes of those who favor the long side. Prices did not go forward in leaps and bounds as one might have been led to expect they would if he listened to those optimistic prognosticators who had designated Sept. 2 as the day when the market would start doing things in a bull way.

The character of the market on the stock exchange yesterday was not unlike that of last week. Several of the more favored issues pushed ahead for fair gains and the list as a whole displayed a steady tone. Some of the short sellers had the audacity to renew their activities, despite warnings of the adherents of the new bull market school. However, such selling had little apparent effect on Chicago stocks except that a somewhat easier trend was noticeable at the close. Actual losses were few in number and insignificant in size.

Sales Volume Expands.

Sales volume expanded moderately from last week's average, with the turnover for the day amounting to 168,000 shares. The increase was accounted for largely by the renewal of active dealings in Middle West Utilities, which has been comparatively dull in recent weeks. A total of 27,000 shares of this stock changed hands, while the stock was bid up to 30¼, a fractional net gain over last week's final price. Interest in Majestic Household, which has been the speculative favorite for several weeks, waned somewhat. Sales in the issues fell off to around 8,000 shares and the price showed no change from the previous quotation.

The favorites among the specialties were General Theaters and Electric Household. Each scored good gains on moderately active trading. Theaters was up around 1½ with the issuance of a supplemental half year report explaining that an additional 47c per share was earned on common stock from investments, including Fox Film and Loew's.

A statement by President Harley L. Clarke was appended to the report. Mr. Clarke was quoted as saying that the first six months of the year are always the poorest in the theater equipment business, and the situation was accentuated this year by the reluctance of theater owners to make any commitments but those absolutely necessary.

Electric Household Active

Electric Household continued to enjoy the demand that it was favored with last week, and the price mounted to 46⅛ under active support. Grigsby-Grunow improved a fraction, closing at 14⅝ on sales of 4,300 shares.

While moving in a narrow price range, the utility stocks maintained a firm tone. Insull sold off to 58½, while the rights were quoted at the close at 1¾. Approximately 29,000 of the rights changed hands.

Auburn Automobile was easily the most favored of the motor shares. Aggressively sponsored, the issue shot up 7½ points to finish at 119½ on sales of about 2,000 shares. Bendix and Borg Warner on heavier sales showed little change.

An odd lot transaction involving 30 shares of Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee prior lien stocks was made at 66, as compared with a price of 80 in the last previous sale.

Reliance Mfg. Co.

Please advise me relative to the stock of Reliance Manufacturing company, Massillon, O., manufacturers of lock washers, etc. Do you think their shares at the present time a good investment? What were their net profits for the last six months and for the last twelve months? Miss H. F.

Reliance Manufacturing company [Ohio] was incorporated July 11, 1911, and conducts a business established in 1909. It manufactures lock washers, which are sold under the trade names of "Reliance," "Mansfield," etc. Mansfield Lock Washer company of Detroit is a subsidiary.

Earnings for 1929 set a new high record, but fell off in the first six months of the current year. From 1925 to 1929 the trend in earnings was steadily upward, net income last year being $536,676, or $6.71 per share on 80,000 capital shares, against $424,743 in 1928, $303,479 in 1927, $286,428 in 1926, and $150,488 in 1925.

A 43 per cent drop brought net income for the six months ended June 30, 1930, down to $194,566, equal to $2.43 per share, against $358,444, or $4.48 per share in the first six months of 1929.

As of June 30, 1930, current assets were $928,913, and current liabilities were $128,927. Cash and marketable securities alone totaled $557,179.

The stock is listed on the Cleveland Stock exchange. The present dividend rate is $4 per year. The stock is medium grade and somewhat speculative.

White Sewing Machine.

Having a little money to invest in some good securities, a friend of mine advises me to buy White Sewing Machine stock, which is now quoted at a low price. Before I invest I would like to ask your candid opinion about this company's financial standing. H. L. E.

White Sewing Machine corporation's earnings have steadily declined since 1927, and in the first six months of the current year profits covered only a small fraction of preferred dividend requirements.

The quarterly dividend, due Aug. 1, 1930, on the preferred was passed. The omission was due to poor business conditions and the large amount of repossessions that the corporation has had to absorb in the last few months. Not only has there been a falling off in sales, but collections have been poor. In July, 1930, operations were curtailed and plants were put on a three day week basis.

Net profit for the six months ended June 30, 1930, was $20,595, a little more than one-tenth preferred dividend requirements. The company has outstanding 100,000 shares of $4 preferred and 200,000 no par common shares. Net profit in the first half of 1929 was $161,174, or about $1 per cent of the amount required for preferred dividends.

Net profit for the full year of 1929 was $778,739, equal to $7.79 per share on the preferred and $1.89 per share on the common.

The preferred stock is a speculation and the common is purely speculative.

LABOR DAY PAST, BUSINESS SEEKS UPTURN SIGNS

Developments Point to Improvement.

BY O. A. MATHER.

When does the upturn in business and industry begin? The passing of labor day, that date which traditionally is supposed to mark the transition from summer quietude to autumn activity, emphasizes the query but fails to offer an answer. Most of the month-end reviews express the view that the bottom of the depression has been reached or passed, but their forecasts are largely hopes for improvement rather than data of significance.

It may well be that trade already has turned upward, but so moderately that the improvement has been scarcely perceptible. It may require a few more weeks to prove the theory. In such event it would be almost exactly the reverse of a year ago, when a month or so was required to show that business was really slackening.

However, several developments yesterday might be regarded as straws showing the direction of the wind. A heavier movement of commodities by railroad was reported by the car service division of the American Railway association. Loading of revenue freight for the week ended Aug. 23 totaled 940,549 cars, an increase of 17,726 cars over the preceding week, although falling 197,417 and 140,149 cars, respectively, below the corresponding weeks in 1929 and 1928.

Petroleum Wins Round.

The petroleum industry last week won another round in its battle against overproduction. The daily average gross crude oil production totaled 2,461,350 barrels, a decline of 1,150 barrels a day from the previous week. There were sizeable declines in the California, New Mexico, Michigan, West Texas, and eastern fields, which were only partly offset by increases in the Oklahoma and Panhandle and coastal Texas fields.

Montgomery Ward & Co., the big Chicago mail order and chain store concern, issued its monthly report showing August sales at $20,966,819, a decline of $3,988,494, or 15.98 per cent, from sales of $24,955,313 recorded in August, 1929. At first blush the figures were disappointing, but they improve with analysis.

The dollar volume decrease for August was largely accounted for by substantial reductions in prices made effective in the company's new fall and winter catalog issued late in July. Moreover, sales in August, 1929, were abnormally large, showing an increase of 46.73 per cent over August, 1928. This was largely due to the stimulus of a prepaid freight policy, which was abandoned in July this year.

Ahead of Last Year.

However, Montgomery Ward's business still is ahead of last year, as sales thus far this year have totaled $169,826,545, an increase of $2,349,349, or 1.34 per cent, over the $167,571,196 recorded in the first eight months of 1929.

An indication of a pickup in automobile production during the last quarter of this year was reported by the Republic Steel corporation. It announced that August orders for alloy steel from some large consumers, whose business reflects manufacturing conditions in the automobile industry six to eight weeks ahead, were the largest for any month this year.

The Willys-Overland company reported stepping up operations at its Toledo, O., plants, with 6,500 workers now on a five day week basis, compared with the same number employed four days a week last month. Operations of steel plants in the Youngstown district, except for the usual Labor day shutdown, remain unchanged this week at 35 per cent capacity.

"The tide has turned and business is moving upward; forget the first eight months and start the year at Sept. 1." This statement was broadcast by J. H. Barringer, vice president and general manager of the National Cash Register company, to the company's agencies and 2,000 members of its selling force.

Freight Car Loadings Gain 17,726 for Week

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Revenue car loadings for the week ending Aug. 23 were reported today by the American Railway association to have totaled 940,549 cars. This was an increase of 17,726 cars over the preceding week, but a decrease of 197,417 cars as compared with the same week last year.

Drug Stores' Trade Seems Slump Proof

BY SCRUTATOR.

Prosperity doesn't exist by proclamation, but neither is it completely wiped out by pessimistic sayings. It is more than doubtful if ballyhoo has done anything to alleviate the effects of depression in the last ten months; it is not to be doubted at all that the gloomier side has had its exaggerations.

Those who look at the figures on the production of steel and coal and the indexes of manufacturing employment can find no cheer in the eight months of 1930, compared to 1929. The automobile industry has had its slipback, although its output compares fairly well with any year except the bumper one that preceded it. Railroad car loadings are off.

But all of these industries base their good times or capital expenditure. The showings made by retail trade, while not up to the 1929 level, are still not far off. It is little noted that the volume of trade—purchases for actual living consumption—vary by little from year to year. Department store sales slumped by 10 or 11 per cent in dollars; by less in unit volume.

Drug Store Business Good.

The drug store business seems to be, on a national scale, even more depression proof. The Drug Trade News recently surveyed 1,000 wholesale and manufacturing drug firms on their relative half year's business in 1929 and 1930 and found that of those who replied to questionnaires nearly 64 per cent made larger profits and 48 per cent had larger gross sales this year.

It is possible that the replies were not ample enough to indicate the general state of the trade. But nineteen firms making products that are sold in drug stores mainly have reported to the stock exchanges on their comparative earnings and twelve of them showed up better than in 1929. Makers of razors, toilet articles, soft drinks, medicinal chemicals and bottles were included. The largest drug store chain operating in the Chicago area reported its sales for the first seven months ran ahead of the same period a year ago by five millions, or 20 per cent.

Inventories Are Low.

Another survey of 500 middle western drug stores showed that their gross sales were within 6 per cent of the corresponding six months last year. It was pointed out that much of the decrease could be attributed to the lack of epidemics of flu—a good wind blew ill upon the druggist. Inventories, according to the manufacturers, are at a low point in the retail stores and predict a necessity for replacement of stocks soon.

It is almost anomalous that soft drinks and sweet scented soap and ice cream hold steady along the economic line, while steel and coal and carloadings retreat and advance in production and in prices. Perhaps stabilization under the circumstances could be built on better scheduling of the heavier production over a course of years.

TROUP TELLS OF CHICAGO CURB MART GROWTH

Opens New Home Before Honor Guests.

Members of the Chicago Curb exchange yesterday dedicated their new permanent trading room in the Three-Thirty-Two La Salle Street building. A large portion of La Salle street's financial leaders were present at the ceremonies in the flower filled trading room, which is connected by a bridge with the Board of Trade.

President Clarence Troup of the Curb, in introducing the guests of honor, predicted that if the present rate of growth is continued his will be the fourth largest trading organization in the country within a year.

Promise Coöperation.

The honor guests, who made short talks, included R. Arthur Wood, president of the Chicago Stock exchange; Walter W. Head, president of the Foreman-State National bank, and P. B. Carey, vice president of the Chicago Board of Trade. All promised the coöperation of their respective organizations to the Curb.

Mr. Troup, in recalling the organization of the Curb a little more than a year ago, said, in part:

"Beginning with a daily volume of business which was measured in three figures only, we have grown until transactions totaling more than 175,000 shares have taken place on our trading floor during a single day. Our volume of business of a little more than 596,000 shares for the first six months of our operations reached 6,643,201 shares for the year 1929, and thus far this year, under most unfavorable conditions, our trade has been running at a rate of about 250 per cent over 1929.

City Strides Forward.

"These achievements were not the result of a series of happy accidents. Our Curb exchange came into being in the right place and at the right time. In the last few years Chicago has made tremendous strides in development as a financial center.

"There was a real need for a Curb exchange here which could provide a proper market place in the middle west for securities which were not yet ready for the major exchanges. Measured by the results, the Chicago Curb has ably fulfilled that need."

M'KEESPORT TIN PLATE WILL PAY ANOTHER EXTRA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 2.—The second extra 50 cent dividend this year was announced today by directors of the McKeesport Tin Plate company in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of $1 a share, both payable Oct. 1 to holders of record Sept. 16.

Directors of the New Haven Clock company voted to reduce the quarterly dividend from 37½ cents to 25 cents on the common, placing the stock on a new $1 annual basis against $1.50 heretofore.

Restoration of K. C. Land Bank Is Plan

Kansas City, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Plans for rehabilitation of the Kansas City Joint Stock Land bank, tentatively approved by the federal farm loan board, were announced here tonight.

Reorganization of the bank, which has been in receivership since 1927, would be carried out by A. O. Stewart of San Francisco, whose plan has been favored by the bondholders' protective committee.

The new institution would restore land bank facilities to Kansas, which has not been included in the territory of any joint stock land bank since the one here was wrecked under the presidency of Walter Cravens, who was sentenced June 2, 1928, to six years in the federal penitentiary and fined $25,000 for misappropriating funds and making false entries. The new bank also would operate in Missouri.

Once Rated High.

With bonds totaling approximately 48 million dollars, it was rated at one time as the second largest bank of its kind in the nation.

The reorganization plan provides that Stewart, who is president of the Pacific Coast Joint Stock Land bank at San Francisco and majority owner of the Pacific Coast Joint Stock Land bank at Salt Lake City, and a committee named to assist him shall bid at proposed sales of substantially all of the legally saleable assets of the present bank.

With assets thus acquired they would form two new corporate structures—an active new joint stock land bank, with headquarters at Kansas City, and a liquidation company. The plan is conditional upon the assent of holders of 95 per cent of the bonds, or a smaller number, as Stewart deems satisfactory.

Offer Three Options.

Each participating bondholder is offered three options or combinations of them in disposing of holdings in the present bank: (A) all cash on the basis of $60 for each $100 of principal amount of his bonds, (B) 5 per cent bonds of the new bank on the basis of $85 for each $100 of principal amount of his bonds, and (C) 4½ per cent bonds of the new bank on the basis of $85 for each $100 of principal amount of his bonds, together with a participation in the proceeds of the assets not taken by the new bank, which will go into the liquidation company.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 2.—The big guns of Wall street got back to their knitting today but the event, heretofore regarded as the opening of the autumn business season down here, failed to raise a ripple in the stock market.

Dealings continued at the same old humdrum pace, with pretty much the same old crowd of professionals doing their professional stuff as before the summer-end holiday. Only 1,773,920 shares were bandied back and forth, about the same daily turnover as readers of market pages have been in the habit of yawning over for these many dog days.

Price movements were just about as interesting. Bull forces tried, after a fashion, to make a showing with four or five groups, among them the amusement shares, office and business equipment stocks, and chain and department store issues, but it is not of record that any of them had to mortgage the old homestead to get the wherewithal to carry on their ventures.

Profit Taking a Drag.

Gains of more than 2 points were the exception and many of the "boomed" issues fell back after being given a push in the early trading. Profit taking was a drag on the whole list and the close found most of the leaders lagging. U. S. Steel, American Can, Radio, General Electric, Consolidated Gas and the like being off from a fraction to more than a point. Changes among less important issues, however, were very largely toward the up side.

The day brought little or nothing

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 12,000 cattle, 15,000 hogs, and 22,000 sheep.

Best grades of all classes of live stock held firm yesterday, while the increasing supply of cattle, hogs, and sheep lacking finish ruled weak to unevenly lower. Total arrivals of all kinds were 79,050, a three day supply due to the Monday holiday, as compared with 56,791 the previous Tuesday, but showed a decrease of 20 per cent compared with a year ago.

There was a good clearance of choice grades of hogs at strong to 10c higher prices at the opening, while others had to be peddled on a "catch as catch can" trade later in the day. Stock averaging 160 lbs and lighter finished sharply below the close of last week.

The extreme top gained 10c at $11.35, while the general average remained unchanged at $10.00. Larger houses were fairly good buyers at the reduction later in the day, and about 6,000 remained at the close, the low spot. An advance estimate of only 18,000 for today against 14,327 the previous Wednesday and 20,274 a year ago encouraged some to hold hogs off the late trade.

January Hogs Bring $9.50.

Contracts for January hogs averaging 210@260 lbs sold at $9.50 on the futures market. Trading was comparatively slow, but at firm prices. Mediums for December were bought at $9.05. September light and mediums were bid $10.50@10.60, but the lowest offer at the close was $10.75.

Bids for October lights were at $9.35 and offers at $9.90 at the finish. On the "to arrive" market, lights for today were bid $11.35 and mediums $11.00. Bids for feeding lambs for this month's delivery were steady at $7.00@7.50.

Well finished steers and yearlings showed last week's full price gain. Nearly 100 averaging 949@1,425 lbs, including a few baby beef heifers, reached $12.35, which equals the highest price paid for cattle in recent weeks.

Buyers were in control of the lamb market yesterday and prices were barely steady, plain kinds closing on a 15@25c lower level. Demand centered on ewe and wether natives at $9.00@9.25, while buck lambs sold at $7.75@8.25.

Only One Top Lot.

Only one lot of western range lambs was good enough to bring $9.15, the bulk of "tops" going at $8.85 and below. Aged and yearling sheep sold steady, light ewes bringing up to $4.50 at the close. Feeding lambs were dull and weak to 25c lower.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 12,000 cattle, 15,000 hogs and 22,000 sheep, against 11,077 cattle, 14,327 hogs and 22,130 sheep the previous Wednesday and 16,479 cattle, 20,274 hogs and 27,053 sheep a year ago.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Extremely small buying power was given by one of the leading bears on wheat as the reason for the decline and close at the lowest level of the season. Heavy marketing in the northwest, it was said, 9,500,000 bu delivered by farmers in the western Canadian provinces during the last three days, combined with hedging pressure in Winnipeg and large receipts in the American northwest, scared buyers and brought heavy liquidation. At the close the trade was more bearish than for a long time, and bids for today were bought at the last. Traders said that the market in all had been a great disappointment in its refusal to sympathize to any extent with the strength in corn.

A trader who has been pessimistic for a considerable period expressed the belief at the close that hedging pressure is to be expected in wheat on all hard spots. He believes that within a few weeks the load of hedges will be well placed and the market then should act better. In the meantime better support from abroad would be a big help.

ON FOREIGN BOURSES.

BERLIN, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The Reichsbank statement as of Aug. 30 shows the following changes in reichsmarks: Gold and bullion increased 60,000; reserve in foreign currencies increased 12,976,000; bills of exchange and checks increased 383,265,000; silver and other coins decreased 30,244,000; notes on other banks decreased 18,788,000; advances increased 155,041,000; other assets decreased 30,017,000; notes in circulation increased 857,685,000; other maturing obligations decreased 185,151,000; other liabilities decreased 361,000. Total gold holdings, 2,618,939,000; rate of discount, 4 per cent.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Prices were steadier on the bourse today. Three per cent rentes, 89 francs 20 centimes; 5 per cent loan, 101 francs 25 centimes; exchange on London, 123 francs 77 centimes; the dollar was quoted at 25 francs 42 centimes.

Perhaps the sturdiest business sentiment to be found in this country today is that prevailing in the New England States.

Having faced and conquered many business obstacles throughout the post-war period, New Englanders accept adverse odds as natural hazards—to be overcome, not helplessly deplored.

Commercial Credit awaits with high expectations the day when all sections of our country adopt the same constructive point of view. On a sound operating basis today, and in a state of high efficiency in all departments, this company looks forward to unprecedented growth and new levels of prosperity from the time when grim determination supersedes self-pity universally.

PRESSURE IS PUT ON GRAIN MARKET AND PRICES SLIP

Corn Crop Estimated Under 2 Billion Bushels.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Prospects for a corn crop as large as 2,000,000,000 bu will seemingly have to be abandoned as the result of private estimates given to the trade yesterday, which showed an estimate of 1,948,000,000 bu, a drop of 264,000,000 bu from the government figures of Aug. 1 and of 666,000,000 bu from the final returns of last year. The indicated crop is the smallest since 1901, and the condition of 52.3 against 75.9 as the 10 year average is the lowest ever known.

While the estimated yield of corn was somewhat in excess of the sensational guesses of the trade made last Friday, it was about in line with expectations, and futures advanced ½c early, with September touching $1 and December 95½c. Scattered commission house buying was responsible for the advance, but the weakness in wheat led to local pressure and some profit taking. As a result the market dropped 1⅝@2¼c from the early high and finished 1½@1¾c lower, with September 97⅞@98⅛, December 93¾@93½c, and May 98@98⅛c at the last.

New Buying Lacking.

Houses that bought September corn last week were the best sellers on the early bulge. Pit brokers claimed that the bullish crop reports failed to bring in any new buying of consequence and that the market acted tired. Comments from the leading local statisticians were regarded as indicating final returns might suggest a smaller crop than suggested by the conditional figures, owing to the large number of barren stalks and unfilled ears.

To have corn selling within striking distance of the best prices of the season when wheat is selling at the lowest levels on the crop tends to cause bulls to operate in a rather conservative manner, especially as all deliveries of corn are at a premium over wheat.

Murray estimates farm reserves of old corn at 220,000,000 bu, or 38,000,000 bu less than last year, suggesting a total available supply, including the crop and visible, of around 2,172,000,000 bu for the 1930-'31 season from Sept. 1, compared with 2,877,000,000 bu a year ago. The crop year, however, will not end until Nov. 1.

Finds Late Corn Better.

George M. Le Count, who has been making another trip over Iowa, finds that the rains improved some of the late corn, but the early planted is now safe from frost and the situation as a whole is about the same as he found it on his recent tour.

An increase of 653,000 bu was made in the domestic visible supply during the last week, with the total now 3,940,000 bu, against 5,417,000 bu last year. The spot basis was steady to 1c lower, with country offerings to arrive limited. Argentina cleared 75,000 bu corn to the United States last week and 462,000 bu to Canada.

New Low on Wheat.

Hedging pressure and weakness at Winnipeg carried all deliveries of wheat off to a new low for the season, with September selling down to 83c and December to 88¾c. Scattered liquidation and stop orders were effective in causing the break. Longs in September sold freely and found support lacking, with the finish at net losses of 2@2¼c. September was 83⅛@83¾c, December 88¾@88⅞c to 89c, and May 96@96¼c at the last.

CORN CROP ESTIMATES

The smallest corn crop since 1901, 1,948,000,000 bu was suggested by the average of the private returns given to the trade yesterday. The reports were sensational in the extreme, and Statistician B. W. Snow in his detailed figures said the percentage of empty cob space, when fully known, may easily further reduce crop yields, so that present crop prospects may prove to be maximum possibilities. H. C. Donovan said condition of the crop relative to real ears and make believe ears at this time is such as to make estimates unreliable.

Husking returns may make necessary a much wider revision of the September estimate than usual, according to R. O. Cromwell. A large number of people in the belt seem to expect a nearly normal weight of kernel and they are apt to be very much disappointed not only in weights at husking time, but after shrinkage in the crib.

Condition of corn averages 52.3, the lowest ever reported, and compares with 62.0 a month ago, and a ten year average of 75.9.

Moderate increases over last month were shown in the spring wheat and oats crops. Cromwell estimated the three Canadian provinces at 353,000,000 bu; Murray at 337,000,000 bu, and Donovan 350,000,000 bu, an average of 347,000,000 bu against 379,000,000 bu a month ago, and 282,000,000 bu harvested in 1929. # CASH-GRAIN NEWS

Foreigners were out of the market for North American wheat and no sales of consequence were reported. At the same time local handlers claimed there was a good demand for hard winter from seaboard exporters, and feeders and millers were also after supplies. Deliveries on September contracts aggregated 2,004,000 bu wheat, 407,000 bu corn, and 3,549,000 bu oats.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Was featured by very small declines and lack of a definite trend today. Buyers and sellers were generally far apart and both sides seemed to be awaiting developments. The closing was steady with old contracts 10 points lower to 3 points higher and new contracts 10 points lower to 2 net higher. Sales were only 200 brls of old contract and 150 new. New York docks stocks on Sept. 1 were 2,175 barrels against 3,300 on Aug. 15. Chicago lard stocks decreased 15,887,000 lbs during August. To the Holders of

Chicago Rapid Transit Company

Adjustment Debenture Bonds

At the request of a large number of holders of Adjustment Debenture Bonds, dated July 1, 1923, issued by Chicago Rapid Transit Company, the undersigned have undertaken to act as a Committee to represent the interests of the holders of said Debentures in connection with the consolidation or unification of Chicago Rapid Transit Company, Chicago Railways Company, Chicago City Railway Company, The Southern Street Railway Company, and Calumet and South Chicago Railway Company, to accomplish which consolidation or unification a plan of financial reorganization is being prepared.

The Chicago Rapid Transit Company for many years has been unable to earn an adequate return on its investment due to the excessive cost of financing improvements and extensions and to competition with the Surface Lines for both long and short haul business. In the opinion of the undersigned, the proposed consolidation will provide for a better and more economic division of this business and will enable both the Elevated and the Surface Lines to supply improved service in their respective fields. A concentration of the facilities of the Elevated Lines on long haul and of the Surface Lines on short haul service will undoubtedly be reflected in the earnings of the consolidated Company, and it will, therefore, be placed in a position to compete successfully for new capital on favorable terms.

The Adjustment Debenture Bonds of Chicago Rapid Transit Company were issued in 1923. These bonds by the terms of the Trust Agreement under which they were issued are entitled to cumulative interest at the rate of Four Per Cent per annum only out of net income as and when appropriated for that purpose by the Board of Directors of the Company. However, in only one year since they were issued have surplus earnings available for interest on these bonds amounted to as much as Four Per Cent on the principal amount of bonds outstanding, and during the last three years surplus earnings so available have averaged less than Two Per Cent on the principal amount outstanding. If Chicago Rapid Transit Company must continue to operate its properties as a unit, there is in the opinion of the undersigned Committee small likelihood for any improvement in these earnings. But if there can be worked out an equitable exchange of your Adjustment Debenture Bonds for securities of a new corporation,

LATIN AMERICAN ISSUES ON BOND MARKET LIVELY

General Movement Lacks Vigor of Last Week.

New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Resumption of trading in the bond market today was enlivened by wide movements in the Latin-American issues, strength of the Mexican issues and some of the Argentina loans, contrasted with weakness in some of the Brazilians.

The advance of last week appeared to have lost some of its vigor, but there was again a good demand for high grade domestic rails, telephone, electric power and industrial liens. Today's turnover of $8,078,000, par value, however, was somewhat below the levels reached during the previous week.

A slightly firmer undertone in the money market, in addition to preliminary reports, indicating a considerable volume of new offerings during the next week or two, may have tended to check the flow of funds into the listed fixed income securities. The only notable offering today was an issue of $1,500,000 State of New Hampshire 4s. A new issue of $2,000,000 Province of Saskatchewan 4½s is being placed on the market, and a $40,000,000 Portland Electric issue will appear shortly. Several substantial offerings are expected to appear during the month.

Mexican Issues Gain.

Most of the Mexican government bonds mounted 1 to 3 points to new highs, and National Railways of Mexico 4½s, which fell due four years ago, rose 2⅝ to 16⅜. Speculation in these issues appeared to be based on private advices from Mexico, indicating that the recently negotiated Mexican debt agreement is meeting with approval in Mexico City. The Mexican Congress will convene to consider it shortly.

In the Brazilians, state of Sao Paulo 8s of 1940 sank a point and the 6s of 1968 more than 2 points, to new lows. Rio Grande do Sul 8s, however, rallied a point in a fair turnover, and some of the Brazilian government issues found the 6½s of 1927-57 gaining more than a point. Brazilian Central Railway 7s dropped 2½.

Most of the Argentina governments, however, rallied, closing steady to one point higher. Chileans largely sagged, although the Consolidated Municipals gained 2⅜. European dollar bonds for the most part moved narrowly. New government 5½s were an active feature, closing off ⅜.

Warner Bros. Strong.

In the domestic convertibles, the Warner Bros. debentures were well bought, in sympathy with the stock, and closed up ⅜. American Telephone convertible 4½s of 1939 lost 2½. Northwestern Telephone 4½s rose more than a point to a new high, as Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania 5s C and Cumberland Telephone 5s were among others reaching new high ground. Elsewhere in the utility group, Portland Railway, Light and Power 5s gained 2⅜.

A. B. Leach & Co. to Open New Offices This Morning

A. B. Leach & Co., Inc., will open to the public this morning the new offices of the corporation on the second floor of the Board of Trade building, which in point of design, decoration, and appointment is unique among investment banking establishments. The general effect is cathedral-like, the ceilings comprising a series of vaulted domes.

Two More Tire Companies Cut Salaries 10 Per Cent

New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The Firestone Tire and Rubber company and the Selberling Rubber company have followed the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company in reducing salaries 10 per cent, effective Sept. 1.

FINANCIAL NOTES

Financing to be undertaken shortly will include an offering by G. L. Ohrstorm & Co., Inc., of $2,264,000 first mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds, series A, of New York Water Service corporation, which is controlled by Federal Water Service corporation, a subsidiary of Tri-Utilities corporation.

Wilson & Co. will redeem its entire issue of $2,500,000 five year 6 per cent gold notes on Oct. 1 at par, plus a premium of ½ of 1 per cent and accrued interest. The redemption will be effected through current cash account. Under the trust indenture, dated March 1, 1926, the issue would have fallen due March 1, 1931.

The Harris Trust and Savings bank [Chicago], H. M. Byllesby & Co., the National City company, Halsey, Stuart & Co., Continental Illinois company, West & Co., W. C. Langley & Co., Albert E. Peirce & Co., and J. W. Clark & Co. are offering $40,000,000 Portland General Electric company first and refunding mortgage 4½ per cent gold bonds at 93¾ and interest, yielding 4.90 per cent.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was a little easier today under increased offerings of near-by duty frees and only indifferent demand. Sales reported included 22,000 bags of Philippines in port to a local refiner at 3.18c delivered and 20,000 bags of Cuban for October shipment to an operator at 3.21c. With only a small trade raw sugars moved within a comparatively narrow range and closed at net unchanged to 1 point decline. Approximate sales were only 22,500 tons. Prices follow:

FIND NEW DIARY IN CLOTHING OF DEAD AIR VIKING

Mistake Polar Bear Bones for Andree's Aid.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OSLO, Norway, Sept. 2.—Prof. Gunnar Hendren of the Caroline institute of Sweden late tonight cabled the Swedish government that a new diary had been discovered during an examination of Andree's clothing. He said he would cable the contents of the diary tomorrow. The first diary is said to contain only a page and a half of illegible notations, being the continuation of another book.

TROMSOE, Norway, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Scientists tonight cleared up a point that has been somewhat in doubt since Dr. Gunar Horn in early August found the remains of the Andree arctic expedition on White island where it had been lost for 33 years.

Only two bodies were brought back. Some bones, assumed to be those of the third adventurer, who sought to fly over the north pole in a balloon in 1897, were revealed tonight as those of a polar bear.

When word of discovery of the Andree camp first was flashed to the world it was taken for granted that the bodies of Salomon August Andree, who led the expedition, and of both his companions, Nils Strindberg and Knut Frankel, had been found.

Experts Examine Bones.

Later it appeared that the remains of Andree and one companion were aboard the steamer Bratvaag, while some bones in a boat owned by the party had been assumed to be those of the third.

Tonight experts examined the boat after it had been taken ashore by 12 sailors and pronounced the bones those of a polar bear.

Thus the Horn party has returned with the bodies of Andree and Strindberg, but that of Frankel presumably is still somewhere in the icy north. It is believed that he perished in a long march across the ice, unable to keep up with his companions to the point where they were found.

While some persons have suggested another trip to search for Frankel, experts say that this would hardly be possible this year, as much snow had already fallen.

Relics Carefully Scrutinized.

The other things in the boat, a package of newspapers, a boot, a gun, and a camera lens, are being scrutinized carefully by scientists.

The remains of the two explorers tonight were resting in the little Tromsoe hospital—back in civilization again after their long sleep in the arctic ice of White island.

The were back again in the surroundings which they fought so bravely to reach after disaster overtook the balloon in which they were trying to fly across the hitherto undiscovered north pole, and left them to battle for life amidst the drifting, churning ice and the awful cold of the farthest north.

Spirits of Explorers Alive.

These Vikings of the air failed in their effort to get back home and they are continuing the sleep which began before the memory of today's younger generation, but their spirits are alive in this tiny capital of the Arctic which knew them in the flesh.

There is no mourning in Tromsoe. There is a longing for the handclasp of old friends, but Tromsoe's hardy folk, who wage constant warfare against the dangers of the frozen north, are proud of that indomitable courage which is symbolized by the relics resting in the hospital.

The sealer Bratvaag came steaming slowly into the harbor this forenoon, her flag at halfmast, and bearing on her oaken deck the precious freight which Dr. Gunnar Horn had dug from the ice of White Island early in August.

Tromsoe Holds Head High.

Tromsoe is proud that the explorers have returned. Whispered tributes were paid tonight to Andree and his companions by youngsters, who long for the time when they will be old enough to follow in the footsteps of their seafaring fathers and challenge the polar ice.

And aged men, their faces stamped with the indelible bronze of the arctic, paced the cobbled streets today with heads held high and the gleam of adventure showing in dimming eyes. Many of them knew Andree personally.

As soon as science has done what it can with the bodies, these god-fearing people of Tromsoe will gather in their church for a memorial service to honor the intrepid duo. Then the remains will be carried back to Sweden, there to find a final resting place.

BRITISH LABOR BACKS EMPIRE TRADE ALLIANCE

O. K.'s Beaverbrook's Plan After Row.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 2.—A heated debate which lasted for several hours was concluded at today's session of the trades union congress at Nottingham with the adoption of the economic committee's report urging special trade arrangements among the British commonwealth of nations against the rest of the world.

The idea "empire free trade," a political hoppyhorse which Lord Beaverbrook is riding through his newspapers as Britain's economic Paul Revere, to close a trade alliance within the empire, brought bitter opposition. Enemies charged that its theory is outside the pale of socialism, but the motion to kill the report by referring it back to the committee lost b, a vote of 1,440,000 to 1,878,000, the delegates voting by proxies for all the members of British unions.

Delegates Demand Action.

The question was programed for discussion on Thursday, but the delegates strode over several other reports in order to dispose of one of the most important matters of the conference. It is now solved, so far as labor is concerned, and is ready for presentation to the imperial conference at the end of the month.

"I have never insisted as a Socialist that an inflexible belief in free trade is consistent with socialism," Ernest Bevin, transport workers' leader asserted. "The main object of the report is to insure the Labor government, which is responsible for the imperial conference economic side proposals, that it should advocate economic organization within the empire."

Jobless Cry Brings Adoption.

Opposition arose and the leader of the electrical trade union, who is bitterly opposed to the idea of a British economic bloc, began to speak but was interrupted by other officials of his union, who denied his qualifications to speak for the union.

There was pandemonium until sentiment swung in favor of the report by a loud discussion of the desperate situation of British labor with more than 2,000,000 unemployed and an advocacy of any means, which will bring relief. Ballot reports were demanded by the opposition before its adoption was conceded.

YOUNG DRIVER WHO HIT FAMILY ACCUSED BY COP

John J. Craven, 22 years old, 6500 South May street, who Monday night ran down a family group on a safety island at 72d street and Ashland avenue, killing 6 year old Victor Kelter of 6513 South Damen avenue, was booked on a charge of manslaughter yesterday evening at the Englewood police station.

Earlier in the day he was present at the inquest, and heard Traffic Policeman George E. Peterson estimate this speed at between 40 and 45 miles an hour when he suddenly swerved diagonally across the thoroughfare. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kelter, the dead child's parents, and 7 year old Dorothy, his sister, are still in the hospital.

Four deaths yesterday increased the Cook county motor toll for the year to 682. The victims:

James King, 21 years old, 2455 North Springfield avenue, a candy maker, was killed yesterday when his automobile collided with another driven by Harold Dubbs, 340 West Garfield boulevard, at Addison street and Cicero avenue. Dubbs was held.

Mrs. Carrie Sciss, 60 years old, 7654 South Michigan avenue. Died in the Auburn Park hospital of injuries received on Monday at Wabash avenue and 83d street.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 2. — A finding against the absentee culprit by a special court of arbitration today awarded the Lena Goldfields, Ltd., a judgment for $64,825,000 against the soviet government for violation of the company's concession for the development of vast mining properties in Russia.

The hearing has occupied nearly three weeks and the soviets were not represented throughout the sessions. Moscow served a notice in advance that it would not recognize any decision reached at the hearing and it now seems a certainty that efforts of the company to collect will wind their tedious way into diplomatic channels.

The decision was based on an agreement granting the Lena company the right to develop gold, iron, copper, and zinc deposits in widely separated parts of Russia. The decision finds that most of these terms were violated within the last year although the company operated at a profit for three years before soviet officials interferred. This interference culminated in the theft of large sums of gold, followed by raids on all Lena concessions last December, which made the discharge of the contract impossible.

DOCTOR HURT AS HE FALLS DOWN ELEVATOR SHAFT

Dr. Clark O. Melick, south side physician and surgeon, is in Illinois Central hospital recovering from serious injuries incurred in a fall down the elevator shaft of his office building at 2376 East 71st street.

Dr. Melick's shoulder, hip and several ribs were fractured. He had been called after his evening office hours on Sunday to attend an emergency patient whom he was taking to his offices for an X-ray examination. He unlocked the elevator door on the first floor and stepped in, intending to run the elevator up himself, but the elevator had been left at an upper floor, and the doctor plunged down the open shaft to the basement. Dr. Melick is affiliated with the South Shore and Washington Park hospitals.

STOP CONSTIPATION THIS PLEASANT WAY

ONCE PEOPLE thought pills and drugs were the only way to relieve constipation. But the modern, safer method is to include sufficient roughage in the diet.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, a delicious ready-to-eat cereal, gives you this bulk, and overcomes constipation naturally. Read this enthusiastic letter:

"Mine was an extreme case of constipation. I had almost given up hopes of ever being relieved.

"One day I came across your advertisement, so I thought I would try ALL-BRAN. It relieved me almost immediately and I have had no trouble since, which was almost three months ago." Mrs. F. E. Leslie, 2104 Lyman St., Flint, Michigan.

Delicious when served with milk or cream. Cook into tasty bran muffins, breads, omelets, etc. ALL-BRAN also adds needed iron to the diet. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. The original All-Bran.

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS.

Dr. Clement is the vicar of a country village in England. His attractive wife, Griselda, is nearly twenty years his junior. The vicar's young nephew, Dennis, lives with them.

Col. Protheroe, a pompous parishioner, who makes life miserable for his daughter, Gladys, and his second wife, is expected at the vicarage at 6:15 one evening. At 5:30 the vicar is called to visit a dying parishioner and leaves word for the colonel that he will be late. On returning at 7 the vicar meets Lawrence Redding, an artist, who is living in a studio on the vicarage grounds, coming out of the house in an agitated state. The latter had discovered the artist and Mrs. Protheroe in each other's arms before the vicar had discovered the artist and Mrs. Protheroe in each other's arms after they had confessed to him their love for each other. In his study the vicar finds the colonel sprawled across the desk shot through the head, murdered apparently as no one can be found. Dr. Haydock is sent for and he says Protheroe has been dead half an hour and calls the police. A note which the colonel started to write to the vicar is dated 6:20. A clock overturned when the colonel fell forward stopped at 6:22, but it is always kept a quarter of an hour fast.

Lawrence Redding confesses he murdered Col. Protheroe. Shortly after Mrs. Protheroe told Col. Melchett, the chief constable of the county, that she shot her husband. Melchett and the vicar call on Miss Marple, whose house adjoins the vicarage. She tells them she saw Mrs. Protheroe going to the vicarage about 6:15. From there she went on to the studio. Redding came along shortly after and went to the studio. They came out about twenty minutes later and walked towards the village.

INSTALLMENT XV.

NATURAL CURIOSITY.

"I suppose there's no doubt about what she says, eh?" inquired Col. Melchett.

"If Miss Marple says Mrs. Protheroe had no pistol with her, you can take it for granted that it is so," I said. "If there was the least possibility of such a thing Miss Marple would have been on to it like a knife."

"That's true. We'd better go and have a look at the studio."

The so-called studio was a mere rough shed with a skylight. There were no windows and the door was the only means of entrance or egress. Satisfied on this score, Melchett announced his intention of visiting the vicarage with the inspector.

I nodded.

As I entered through the front door a murmur of voices caught my ear. I opened the drawing room door.

On the sofa beside Griselda, conversing animatedly, sat Miss Gladys Cram. Her legs, which were encased in particularly shiny pink stockings, were crossed, and I had every opportunity of observing that she wore pink ribbed silk knickers.

"Hullo, Len," said Griselda.

"Good morning, Mr. Clement," said Miss Cram. "Isn't the news about the colonel really too awful? Poor old gentleman."

"Miss Cram," said my wife, "very kindly came in to offer to help us with the guides. We asked for helpers last Sunday, you remember."

I did remember, and I was convinced, and so, I knew from her tone, was Griselda, that the idea of enrolling herself among them would never have occurred to Miss Cram but for the exciting incident which had taken place at the vicarage.

"I was only just saying to Mrs. Clement," went on Miss Cram, "you could have struck me all of a heap when I heard the news. A murder? I call it. In this quiet one horse village—for quiet it is, you must admit—not so much as a picture house, and as for talkies! And then when I heard it was Col. Protheroe I simply couldn't believe it."

"And so," said Griselda, "Miss Cram came round to find out all about it."

I feared this plain speaking might offend the lady, but she merely flung

"That's too bad. You're a sharp one, aren't you, Mrs. Clement? But it's only natural, isn't it, to want to hear the ins and outs of a case like this! And I'm sure I'm willing enough to help with the guides in any way you like. Exciting, that's what it is. I've been stagnating for a bit of fun. I have, really, I have. Not that my job isn't a very good one, well paid, and Dr. Stone quite the gentleman in every way. But a girl wants a bit of life out of office hours, and except for you, Mrs. Clement, who is there in this place to talk to except a lot of old cats?"

"There's Lettice Protheroe," I said.

Gladys Cram tossed her head.

"She's too high and mighty for the likes of me. Fancies herself the county, and wouldn't demean herself by noticing a girl who had to work for her living. Not but what I did hear her talking of earning her living myself. And who'd employ her, I should like to know? Why, she'd be fired in less than a week. Unless she went as one of those mannequins, all dressed up and sidling about. She could do that, I expect."

"She'd make a very good mannequin," said Griselda. "She's got such a pretty figure." There's nothing of the cat about Griselda. "When was she thinking of earning her own living?"

Miss Cram seemed momentarily discomfited, but recovered herself with her usual archness.

"That would be telling, wouldn't it?" she said. "But she did say so. Things not very happy at home, I fancy. Catch me living at home with a stepmother. I wouldn't sit down under it for a minute."

"Ah! but you're so high spirited and independent," said Griselda gravely, but I looked at her with suspicion.

Miss Crane was clearly pleased.

"That's right. That's me all over. Can be led, not driven. A palm'st told me that not so very long ago. No, I'm not one to sit down and be bullied. And I've made it clear all along to Dr. Stone that I must have my regular times off. These scientific gentlemen, they think a girl's a kind of machine—half the time they just don't notice her or remember she's there."

"Do you find Dr. Stone pleasant to work with? It must be an interesting job if you are interested in archæology."

"Of course, I don't know much about it," confessed the girl, "it still seems to me that digging up people that are dead and have been dead for hundreds of years isn't—well, it seems a bit nosey, doesn't it? And there's Dr. Stone so wrapped up in it all that half the time he'd forget his meals if it wasn't for me."

"Is he at the barrow this morning?" asked Griselda.

"A bit under the weather this morning," she explained. "Not up to doing any work. That means a holiday for little Gladys."

"I'm sorry," I said.

"Oh it's nothing much. There's not going to be a second death. But do tell me, Mr. Clement, I hear you've been with the police all the morning. What do they think?"

"Well," I said slowly, "There is still a little—uncertainty."

"Ah!" cried Miss Cram. "Then they don't think it is Mr. Lawrence Redding after all. So handsome, isn't he? Just like a movie star. And such a nice smile when he says good morning to you. I really couldn't believe my ears when I heard the police had arrested him. Still, one always knows they're very stupid—the country police."

"You can hardly blame them in this instance," I said. "Mr. Redding came in and gave himself up."

"What?" the girl was clearly dumfounded. "Well—of all the poor fish! If I'd committed the murder I wouldn't go straight off and give myself up. I should have thought Lawrence Redding would have had more sense. Going in like that! What did he kill Protheroe for? Did he say? Was it about a quarrel?"

"It's not absolutely certain that he did kill him," I said.

"But surely—if he says he has—why, really, Mr. Clement, he ought to know."

"He ought to, certainly," I agreed. "But the police are not satisfied with his story."

"But why should he say he'd done it if he hasn't?"

That was a point on which I had no intention of enlightening Miss Cram. Instead, I said rather vaguely:

"I believe that in all prominent murder cases the police receive numerous letters from people accusing themselves of the crime."

Miss Cram's reception of this piece of information was:

"They must be chumps!" in a tone of wonder and scorn.

She added: "I'd never do a thing like that."

"I'm sure you wouldn't," I said.

"Well," she said with a sigh. "I suppose I must be trotting along." She added, "Mr. Redding accusing himself of the murder will be a bit of news for Dr. Stone."

"Is he interested?" asked Griselda.

Miss Cram furrowed her brows perplexedly.

"He's a queer one. You never can tell with him. All wrapped up in his past. He'd a hundred times rather look at a nasty old bronze knife or one of those humps of ground than he would see the knife Crippen put in his wife with supposing he had a chance to."

"Well," I said, "I must confess I agree with him."

Miss Cram's eyes expressed incomprehension and slight contempt. Then, she reiterated good-bys, she took her departure.

"Not such a bad sort, really," said Griselda as the door closed behind her. "Terribly common, of course, but one of those big, bouncing, good natured girls that you can't dislike. I wonder what really brought her here?"

"Curiosity."

"Yes, I suppose so. Now, Len, tell me about it."

I sat down and recited faithfully all the happenings of the morning, interpolating the narrative with little exclamations of surprise and interest.

Future Pastors Berate Present Pulpit Foibles

Blame Laymen for Many of Preachers' Troubles.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Twelve youthful apostles of nearly as many religious faiths from the seminary communities of Chicago's universities sat around a table last night and told each other and the world what they thought of each other, of themselves, and of religious development in America.

For instance, P. R. Horton, a Methodist student at Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston, defended with friendly vigor the challenge that Methodists are meddling in politics, a charge made by H. S. Keiter, Lutheran, of Gettysburg Theological seminary, Gettysburg, Pa., and a summer student at the University of Chicago.

In fact, the greater number of future clergymen at the informal meeting have been students at the summer session of the University of Chicago graduate divinity school. By the agreement of the entire group, the statement of C. D. Wilson, Berkeley Divinity school, New Haven, Conn., was accepted that "we are able to speak tonight with complete freedom, because we are theological students and not clergymen. We are not bound and held in leash by a set of church vows, marital ties, powerful laymen or ecclesiasticism. We can speak our minds."

The youthful clerics did speak. They declared that as yet they had not been forced, through economic pressure, to become eloquent "yes men" for prominent laymen. A list of "disgustingly inefficient methods the churches are using," together with "effeminate piety generally observed among clergy" was drawn by M. A. Vollmer, chairman of the meeting, who comes from General Theological seminary, New York. But that young Episcopal divine, P. E. Van Luven, Chicago Theological seminary, who declared the ministry now is on the defensive and only will justify itself as a profession by a new approach to religious needs.

It was agreed by the group that the religious life in America is reaping the harvest of the "incompetency of the ministry of the immediate past." It was pointed out that the new leadership, if the churches are to survive, will require the most carefully trained ministry yet known. The range of that training, according to the entire group, must include psychiatry, economics, science, sociology, philosophy and many other subjects, in addition to those conventionally taught.

Two debates took place during the session. The first was the relationship of the churches to politics, and the second, was on the question of how religious unity may be obtained.

That churches should stand by the people in matters of political action was the declaration of J. S. Thaddeus of the United Church of South India. This statement, though related to India's fight for political freedom, was supported by P. R. Horton, Methodist, of Evanston. He asked that the principle should include prohibition equally with national independence. The Methodist's contention was quickly condemned by Lutheran, Episcopal, Congregational, and Unitarian students.

"You are given certain privileges as teachers of morals," answered W. Anderson of the Meadville Theological school, "and you have taken your power and used it in a coercive fashion which exceeds the rights given. You cannot use your organization as a unit to put over political measures."

W. J. Thomas, Presbyterian Theological seminary, declared that in becoming politically minded a church dissipates valuable energy which should be spent in the attainment of spiritual values. With the exception of the Garrett Institute student, who stuck to his guns, the group present agreed that no one church should fashion the legislation for the whole nation.

"I realize that the Methodist church is regarded as the Prohibition party," Mr. Horton said. "We are supporting the government, as churches are enjoined to do. I know that the Methodist church has lost members and money by the stand it has taken, but the Methodist church will not back down one inch. Such sacrifices we have to make in following what we believe to be right we will make. If the press advertises ours as the Prohibition church, it does not follow that our enforcement of the prohibition amendment is our only work. We have a well rounded Christian program in addition of our political activities."

DR. OTTO ERHARDT NEW DIRECTOR OF CHICAGO OPERA STAGE

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The Chicago Civic Opera company is to have a new stage director during the coming season. Replacing Charles Moor, who served for several seasons, Dr. Otto Erhardt will take charge of all productions.

DR. OTTO ERHARDT

With a theatrical experience of twenty years, his right to the title of doctor comes from possessing degrees in both music and philosophy. He began as a violinist in an orchestra in Germany, was "volunteer assistant stage director" at Covent Garden in 1911, assistant director of the United theaters in Breslau in 1912, and the next year held the same position in the Breslau opera. Still assistant director at Bayreuth in 1914, he was called to war, wounded three times during 1915, given leave of absence in 1916, and dismissed because of his wounds in 1917.

During his period of military inactivity he was guest stage director at Hamburg and stage director at Barmen and Elberfeld. In 1920 he began a service of seven years as stage director at the Stuttgart opera, establishing an opera school in the Wuerttemberg College of Music in 1923. In 1927 he was called to Dresden, where he has been ever since except for guest engagements at Rome, producing "Salome" at the Costanzi theater, Turin for the first Italian performance of "Ariadne auf Naxos," three seasons for the German performances at Barcelona, Zurich, Geneva, and Budapest.

They tell that he is thoroughly familiar with the standard international operatic repertoire, and that he has an excellent command of the German, English, Italian, and French languages.

Cantacuzenes at Capital; Mrs. Grant Has Relapse

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Prince and Princess Michael Cantacuzene of Chicago have arrived at the Mayflower, having been called here by a relapse of the prince's grandmother, Mrs. Grant, widow of Maj. Gen. Frederick Dent Grant, who has been ill for many months. Mrs. Bruce Smith of Louisville, Ky., sister of Prince Cantacuzene, and Potter Palmer of Chicago, nephew of Mrs. Grant, accompanied by Mrs. Palmer, also have arrived here.

Sky's Beauty Helps Science, Woman Finds

Dr. C. Furness Here; She's Sun Specialist.

Dr. Caroline Furness, head of the department of astronomy, Vassar college, one of the first to arrive for the astronomers' meeting to open today in Adler planetarium, upset the conventional idea of astronomers as cold, inhuman mathematicians. In an interview last night she talked of moonlight in nonastronomical terms.

"I have seen the moonlight in many parts of the world, but the moonlight of India is the most beautiful," she said. "I had been told one could read by the light of the moon there. It is true; the light is clear and brilliant. One reason for that is that the moon is high above—almost overhead. You know, I do think the sky is a beautiful thing."

It is the discussion of the sun's activities, not the moon's, however, which will interest Dr. Furness principally during the three days' convention of the American Astronomical society.

E. B. Frost of Yerkes observatory, Williams Bay, Wis., where she at one time was a volunteer research worker, will discuss the ultra-violet radiation of the sun. Charles G. Abbot, secretary of Smithsonian institution, will read a paper on solar radiation and the weather. Dr. Furness, when a delegate to the Pan-Pacific science congress in Japan in 1926 read a paper on the work of the Smithsonian institution.

She has studied astronomy since high school days. Her father was a science teacher in a Cincinnati high school, and she received her A. B. from Vassar in 1891, her Ph.D. from Columbia university in 1900. In those days, she said, there were few women students of astronomy.

Asked if women were as well fitted to master science as men, she replied:

"I shouldn't like to say they weren't, as I am an ardent feminist. A number of women are getting their doctor's degree in astronomy. There are Dr. Anna J. Cannon of Harvard and Miss Anne S. Young, head of the astronomy department at Mount Holyoke college, and others, all of them proof that astronomy is a field for women."

A 12 o'clock breakfast honoring Dr. Cannon will be given by the Chicago Woman's club today; Mrs. Edwin Theodore Johnson will preside. Dr. Cannon and Dr. Furness will speak. Miss Young and Mrs. Dorothea K. Roberts of England are invited, as well as prominent men astronomers.

Protesting Mothers Cause New Parade of Babies at Aurora

Mothers of the losers in a baby parade held at the central states fair at Aurora yesterday protested the judges' decisions so vehemently that promoters of the fair were compelled to arrange another contest. Another parade will be held Friday night, the decisions to rest with the general audience.

About sixty children, arrayed as sprites, fairies, dryads, Egyptian court ladies, nurses and demure mamas, toddled down a runway. The judges, Mrs. Roy Smith of Miami, Mrs. Robert Broiler of Bradentown, Fla., and Mrs. Joseph Irwin of Chicago awarded first prize to 3 year old Jane McDole, attired as a bathing girl.

There was an angry buzz among the mothers. To the ears of the judges came such remarks as: "What do they know about babies?" "These Florida people must have a bathing girl complex."

The uproar was quelled only when Frank Thielen, president of the exposition, stepped forward and announced that another contest would be held. Little Jane and seven others selected for lesser honors at yesterday's parade will be permitted to keep their prizes, however.

Teaching by Play Urged as Part of City School Method

Children of today living in a large city are not given a fair deal because most of the attention of the city is directed to increased mechanical perfection and too little attention is paid to the human side of education. This is the opinion of William A. Wirt, superintendent of schools at Gary, Ind., who addressed the Chicago Rotary club yesterday.

"Children should be given an equally divided play and study education," he said, "with both under the direction of competent instructors. In large cities through most of the day the larger playgrounds are closed and it is only in the late evening that children have access to their facilities.

Daughter of Princess Weds Ex-Russian Navy Officer

New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Princess Miguel de Braganza, widow of Prince Miguel of Portugal, today announced the marriage of her daughter, Nadejda, to Vadim Dorozynski, in Capri, Italy, on Aug. 16. Mr. Dorozynski is the son of a former captain in the Russian navy and resides in Paris. Princess Miguel's husband died here in the home of William Rhinelander Steward in 1923.

THE STAGE

THE Dramatic League of Chicago has changed its mind about the play with which its new subscription season will open at the Princess theater Oct. 6. On that occasion first nighters will not see "The Girl in the News"—nor yet "The King's Motor," which is the new title for that adaptation from the Hungarian. "Topaze" will be the bill, and there is reason to cheer at the news.

The comedy called "Topaze," adapted from the French of Marcel Pagnol, must be rated as a hit of international scope. During the last year it has been acted all over the map of Europe. It was staged in New York last February, and smoothly reeled off a run of more than 200 performances. It was given a vacation of several weeks in the hot weather, and then was brought back to Broadway, where it is still popular. Frank Morgan has the title rôle—a gentle, diffident schoolmaster who turns grafter with comic results—and Catherine Willard, an actress favorably remembered here, has replaced Phoebe Foster as the heroine.

The reason for the substitution of "Topaze" for "The King's Motor" is a mild clamor for the latter play from Philadelphia, which has elected Miriam Hopkins, now rehearsing for its leading rôle, a civic favorite. The Professional Players, a Philadelphia organization allied with the Dramatic league of Chicago, will offer "The King's Motor" as the first item in its subscription season.

With the acquisition of "Topaze" for its opening bill, the Dramatic league's program for Chicago appears to be definitely arranged. After four weeks of this French satire, its schedule reads: Opening Nov. 3, "Death Takes a Holiday," adapted from the Italian of Alberto Casella, with Philip Merivale and James Dale in the central rôles; opening Dec. 1, "As You Wish Me," by Luigi Pirandello; opening Dec. 29, "The Man in Possession," by H. M. Harwood, with Isabel Jeans and Leslie Banks; opening Jan. 27, a new play by A. A. Milne, as yet untitled, and opening Feb. 24, "Dr. Harmer's Holiday," by Sir Arthur Pinero.

Incidentally, after the league's subscription season Grace George will come to the Princess in a return engagement of "The First Mrs. Fraser," which was the best play on the league's list last year. Miss George intends to offer this comedy by St. John Ervine for two weeks. She will then stage here, in an experimental way, two new plays with which she hopes to build up a repertory.

Speaking of changes in theater managers' plans: "Young Sinners" will not open at the Apollo Sept. 14, as announced, and "Sisters of the Chorus" will not close at the Apollo Sept. 13, as promised. Instead, "Sisters of the Chorus" will extend its run for two weeks, because the customers seem to be yearning for it now, and "Young Sinners" will be postponed that long.

In its annual review of the stage season, published yesterday, The Billboard magazine estimates that 87 per cent of the dramatic productions offered in New York between Aug. 1, 1929, and July 1, 1930, were failures. But this is no great cause for gloom, for the casualty list was only 2 per cent more than that of the preceding season. Moreover, The Billboard demands that a play shall have a run of 100 performances in New York before it is called a hit. . . . These statistics included 175 plays. C. C.

THREE SCIENTISTS SUED TO PRESERVE SECRET OF DURIUM

New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—An injunction to restrain three Columbia university scientists from disclosing secret formulae by which phonograph records are made of durium, a substance as flexible as paper, but hard enough to withstand hammer blows, was asked in a suit filed in Supreme court today by the Durium Products corporation.

Prof. Hal T. Beans, head of the chemistry department, and his assistants, George Walden Jr. and Louis P. Hammet, were employed in 1927 as consulting chemists to develop the basic invention, the complaint said. Their efforts resulted in the discovery of durium.

When the scientists were employed, at a salary of $100 a day, the complaint said, they agreed to keep the formulae secret. Later, after they discovered further improvements and were refused additional compensation, the complaint charged, they threatened to sell the formulas to the R. C. A.-Victor corporation.

BEG YOUR PARDON

The funeral of J. Scott Matthews, chief examiner of titles under the Torrens system, will be held at 2 p. m. today in the First Presbyterian church of Woodlawn, instead of at 2:30, as erroneously announced yesterday.

Schools Open; 500,000 Flock to the Desks

Increase Is Shown Over Last Year.

With the opening of all Chicago public schools and a majority of the county schools yesterday, more than 500,000 children took up their books for nine months of study after a summer of play. The remaining county schools will open within the next two weeks.

All parochial schools in the county will open next Monday, the additional week allowing for the return of children who left town over Labor day. Most of the private schools also will open next Monday.

The total first day's attendance showed an increase over that of last year, although many divisions showed marked decrease. Both the city and county teaching staffs were increased in proportion to the added enrollment. Statistics for the two years showed a decrease in elementary students, an increase in junior and senior high school students, and a decrease in college students. The figures follow:

|---|---|---|
| Elementary | 317,201 | 310,96[illegible] |
| Junior High | 28,395 | 29,38[illegible] |
| Senior High | 71,926 | 76,94[illegible] |
| Crane Junior college | 3,250 | 1,26[illegible] |
| Chicago Normal college | 1,156 | 96[illegible] |
| Continuation schools | [illegible] | 1,42[illegible] |

None of the enrollment figures are complete. No comparison could be made for continuation schools, as this is the first year they have been listed separately.

The Chicago teaching staff has been increased by approximately 400, making a total of 13,168 teachers.

The decreased elementary school attendance was explained in part by the increase in junior high schools, taking many seventh and eighth grade pupils. The increase in senior high school students was believed to be due to the lack of work for children who were thus allowed to continue in school.

For the first time in several years the Crane Junior and the Chicago Normal colleges showed a decreased enrollment over the previous year. In the case of Crane this was explained by the stricter admission requirements resulting from the ouster of the city college last year by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. The Normal college enrollment was cut by the advertising of the surplus of teachers.

The 600 county schools—exclusive of Chicago—which opened yesterday reported an enrollment of approximately 85,000 students. It was believed that the opening of the remainder of the county schools would increase the enrollment to 100,000. About 3,400 teachers will comprise the staff for the year, an increase of slightly more than 100.

County enrollment showed a 4 per cent increase over last year, while the average increase for the last few years has been 10 per cent.

Geology Show Tells of Illinois Area of 10,000,000 Years Ago

Fossilized ferns and tree roots between 5,000,000 and 10,000,000 years old taken from Illinois coal mines 700 feet below the ground were placed on exhibition yesterday at the Engineering building at 205 West Wacker drive. They are part of a geological show and represent the scientific data collected by the Illinois geological survey during the last twenty-five years.

Prof. Gilbert H. Cady at the exhibition stated that ages ago two-thirds of Illinois was a sort of a semi-tropical swamp, as shown by fossil remains of plants. Prof. Cady added that, notwithstanding the abandonment of 115 mines in the state in the last five years and the temporary closing of 35 others, the remaining 175 are steadily producing more coal, the total for 1929 being 60,000,000 tons as compared to 55,000,000 in 1927.

Lipstick Can Make or Mar a Pretty Face

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

About the business of lipsticks and their legitimate business of brightening up that part of the face over which they are played daily, hourly, or every minute (for it is believable that every minute of day and evening some girl is plying busy fingers over the tempting area):

It should be decided whether one's intention is to go forth looking frankly made up, or whether one means to achieve an effect that is natural and unobstrusive. If the mouth is well shaped and the teeth are perfect and one has that about her which stamps her as "unusual," she may have her mouth frankly and boldly made up. But one requires a great deal of chic of coiffure and costume to carry this sort of thing off effectively.

If one is not more than passing smart of dress and coiffure she should aim at the conventional with any makeup. It is not only a well groomed look one needs to get by effectively with frank and open make up ventures. Any number of girls have the requisites of shining, well coiffed head, good complexion, good teeth, good figure, nice dress, but they lack just that sophisticated smartness with which the obviously made up mouth is best worn.

The outdoor, healthy type of girl should not adopt the style. Her beauty lies in a wholesome naturalness. For her, therefore, the mouth that most closely resembles the healthy lips of childhood is wanted.

I know a good deal of the lip overcoloring is done to give contour to a line that seems ineffective in its raw state. The mouth is put through a course of being made over. But that's not good painting. Thin lips laden with red are not improved with the overdose. The paint does not work miracles of the sort. I think it better to follow the natural line, letting the shaping that must be done be attended with a slight thickening at the center. That splotch of red evenly and thickly distributed the entire lips over is never becoming, in spite of its frequent appearance.

It is known, of course, that a lipstick color should harmonize with the cheek rouge, but even at the sacrifice of this harmony the effect of the color of the lip rouge on the teeth is vastly more important. You can turn a good set of teeth into yellowish molars by a wrong colored lipstick. Also, you can whiten naturally yellowish or brown teeth if you strike just the right shade of lip tinting. Watch for the effect on the teeth always, for it is amazing the reflex action on them that close coloring provides.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

L. R.—SALT FOOT BATHS ARE excellent for perspiring feet. Soak the feet nightly for a half hour. Stockings should be changed daily, and two pairs of shoes should be in alternate use—the idle pair to be dusted with boracic acid powder. My leaflet on care of the feet may be had for a stamped, addressed envelope.

V. K.: BRUSH YOUR HAIR VIGorously for five minutes every morning and night if it is falling out. At night massage this tonic into the scalp with your fingertips: Resorcin, 45 grains; glycerin, 1 ounce, and equal parts of water and alcohol to fill a six ounce bottle.

WEDDING

Dr. and Mrs. Carl Beck of 525 Arlington place announce the marriage of their daughter, Helen, to Roul Berger, which took place last Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Berger are to reside in Cincinnati, their temporary home being at 328 Fosdick street.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Fowl Joke.

While coming back from my grandmother's I had a live hen with me. The street car stopped for a train which was passing by. The passengers were all quiet, when all of a sudden the hen jumped from the basket and ran through the street car cackling. I had to run after it. Everybody was laughing. Never again will I carry a live hen. I sure was embarrassed while running for that hen.

Good Old Days.

I was admiring the many beautiful mirrors in the home of a wealthy woman whom I had just met. I laughingly said that they reminded one of the old time saloons. I sensed that I had said the wrong thing when she stiffened up and walked away. Then I learned that her father had been a saloonkeeper in the old days and that was exactly where these mirrors had originally been.

One of the most exciting happenings the Lawsonia Country club over the day week-end was when Paul and John Deere Cady, playing same golf foursome on Satur- afternoon, each made a hole in The polo game on Sunday was with 1,000 spectators watch- the River Hills team of Milwaukee the Lawsonia team.

Just as Monday's game was about to begin a terrific storm blew up, knocking down tents and trees and almost blowing away the polo ponies. After the deluge many of the automo- had to be towed out of the sea and, the almost drowned horses led back to their stables, and the badly drenched players returned to clubhouse.

Harold Strotz, who with Mrs. Strotz recently returned from a cruise with Mr. Macdonald on his Mirpah in Marion bay, was among the players. The Labor day festivities officially closed the Lawsonia season, but many of the members are planning to re- main until late in the fall.

Revive Old Time Temperance, Is Crusaders' Plea

Col. Ira L. Reeves, executive secretary of the Crusaders, speaking yesterday before the Highland Park Rotary club, defined his organization as "a group absent without leave from political party affiliations in the interest of true temperance."

Col. Reeves said the Crusaders sought to reëstablish the old fashioned word "temperance" to its rightful place, abolishing prohibition, which he said had led to intemperance and corruption. He urged all voters to adopt a similar attitude toward abandoning party lines until the prohibition issue is definitely settled.

The executive committee of the Crusaders, headed by J. Russell Forgan, young broker, as commandant of the Chicago division, is to meet next week and make known its attitude toward the prohibition planks in the platforms of the Illinois Democratic and Republican parties. Plans are being formulated for naming a joint committee representing the Crusaders, the Association Against the 18th Amendment and the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, to unite their activities during the fall campaign.

Northern China Halts Teaching of Christianity

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PIEPING, Sept. 2.—The party politicians of North China have agreed heartily with those of Nanking in their attack on the elaborate educational enterprises of American and other foreign missionaries in this country. This is one of the few issues on which north and south are agreed.

The Nanking government has ruled that mission schools, from low to high, shall not teach the Christian religion in any form. A year ago the government ruled that Christian teaching should be entirely voluntary. They have now gone farther, and decreed that voluntary courses must be abandoned.

The educational board in Peiping supports this view. American mission schools, supported by money given in the United States for Christianizing China, probably will have to close, as their charters stipulate the teaching of Christianity.

An example of the present attitude toward missionaries is provided at Paotingfu, a large city about 100 miles from Peiping. Here the American Presbyterian mission has conducted a large and successful boys' middle school.

Last spring the ministry of education at Nanking ordered this school to register. That compels abandonment of Christian teaching. The missionaries refused to comply. Although Paotingfu is not in Nanking's jurisdiction, the education board in Peiping upheld the ruling.

The Chinese principal of the school, Jen Tsung-lu, who had worked with the American missionaries for years, saw a chance to make some money on his own account. He secretly wrote to Peiping applying for registration of the school in his own name. The application was accepted. He thereupon announced the opening of a summer school in the mission property, and has now announced the opening of the usual autumn term.

The American missionaries protested. They pointed out that this property had been bought according to treaty and paid for by American money. The Chinese principal paid no attention to their protests, and they appealed to the board in Peiping. The board has upheld the Chinese usurper.

The campaign against mission schools has gone so far the Canadian Anglican mission head, Bishop White, has ordered his mission's work in Honan closed, and has even directed that buildings be dismantled, so that they cannot be used by Chinese. The bishop feels that no self-respecting mission can carry on its work under existing conditions.

The campaign against mission schools is particularly distressing to Chinese desiring education for their children, because Chinese schools are in a most deplorable condition. A well informed Chinese scholar told this writer that today there is not a single competent primary school in Peiping, except high priced private schools to which only the rich can afford to send their children.

The best Chinese newspaper in the north, the Ta Kung Pao of Tientsin, recently pointed out that Chinese universities in Peiping are going from bad to worse. That newspaper said many professors never appear at all—in fact, many of them are Nanking politicians who do not leave Nanking, but draw salaries for "teaching" in Peiping. Nevertheless, the campaign against mission schools has now been extended to Yenching university, the finest mission college in north China. An effort is being made to forbid even voluntary teaching of the Christian religion at Yenching.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

A rippling cape gives animation to a thoroughly practical dress of printed silk crêpe. Horizontal tucks pinch the normal waistline, and the low flared, circular skirt shows a downward tendency at the back. It is smart for more formal afternoons and informal evenings in plain or printed chiffon.

The pattern, 2538, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years and 36, 38 and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material.

Food Talk.

Sometimes it is necessary to say a word in defense of what is often regarded an extravagance in cooking. The use of butter is many times discouraged. I know it is one of our most expensive items, but economy along other lines would enable many families to afford butter, which always will be an important article of our diet.

Buter is not pure fat. In addition to fat it contains some curd, water and salt. In different creameries the proportions may vary slightly, but all are controlled by the government which provides that the butter fat content must be at least 82.5 per cent.

Butter contains a large supply of vitamin A and also some B. Traces of mineral and the casein curd all enhance the food value. Instead of eating calories alone we are also securing other constituents essential to a complete diet. The pure sweet butter flavor is the most pleasing found among all the fats. And it is this delicate flavor that makes buttered vegetables, butter cake and butter icing so delicious.

One place where butter is not the best fat is in frying and in the making of pastry. Butter decomposes at a lower temperature than pure fat [hydrogenated fats, lard and oils]. Any fat that decomposes gives off extremely unpleasant odors and the residue has an unpleasant taste. In the frying kettle we must have a temperature higher than that which can be obtained with butter, without decomposition. When we sauté [fry in a small amount of fat] any food in butter, we obtain a surface less crisp than that obtained when a pure fat is used.

Pastry made with butter has a delicious flavor, but it is not so tender as that made with pure fats. Because butter is not pure fat is is not practical for shortening.

DATE CAKES.

1¾ cups pastry flour.
3 teaspoons baking powder.
½ teaspoon cinnamon.
1-3 cup butter.
1 cup brown sugar.
2 eggs, separated.

Sift flour, then measure. Resift twice with baking powder and spices. Cream fat, add sugar and cream thoroughly. Then add egg yolks and beat until mixture is smooth and fluffy. Add flour and milk alternately in 3 or 4 portions beginning and ending with flour. Then carefully fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Beat 20 seconds. Add dates and stir just enough to distribute. Pour immediately into oiled muffin tins and bake in a moderate oven [375° F.].

Yield: Twenty cakes. One cake, total, 136 calories; protein, 8 calories; fat, 39 calories; carbohydrates, 89 calories.

Byrd's Pilot Coming Here for Norwegian Celebration on Sunday

The eighth annual Leif Ericksen [Lief Ericson] day will be celebrated on next Sunday at Navy pier. This was announced yesterday by Christian Olsen, president of the Norwegian National league. More than 50,000 are expected to attend the celebration in which will be yacht races, a parade and a dance.

Bernt Balchen, pilot, and Carl O. Petersen, chief radio operator with Admiral Byrd's south pole expedition, are expected to land in a hydroplane, flying from New York. The McDonald trophy is to be the incentive to many entrants in the great lakes championship sponsored by the National Outboard Motorboat association. The Columbia Yacht club will hold a series of yacht, cutter boat and sea scout races.

The parade will include units of the 50 organizations composing the league. Music will be furnished by the Norwegian Singers' league and the Norwegian Women Singers' league. The principal speaker will be John J. Sonsteby. The Viking ball will close the celebration. Proceeds will go to charity.

Sigmund Freud, Psycho-Analyst, Reported Dying

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Austria, Sept. 2.—Sigmund Freud, father of psychoanalysis, is slowly dying from cancer of the tongue and throat, it was learned today. Doctors believe he will live only a few months.

The disease, which began in the fore part of the tongue, has already crept to the throat. When it reaches the larynx it will mean death, one physician said, adding that an operation is made impossible because of his advanced age. He is 74. He became gravely ill three months ago.

Prof. Freud was unable to go to Frankfort to receive the annual Goethe prize last week, and sent his daughter to read his address. Although he is not bedridden, it is said he has given up all work.

Trouble Here Corrected this Way

FRESH YEAST is a food, a simple addition to your daily diet. Eat it three times a day before or between meals.

Where TROUBLE Starts!

JUST THINK of that! Most of our common ailments traceable to one relatively small section of the human body!

Yet it's easy to understand. Here is where food is assimilated. In all food is a certain amount of waste matter that cannot be digested. Unless this waste is promptly eliminated, it remains there to putrefy and contaminate the system.

But medical science has found the answer . . . in fresh yeast.

Yeast softens waste matter so that it is more easily passed off. It stimulates intestinal muscles to normal action.

In addition, yeast is rich in vitamins B and G and the "sunshine" vitamin D—elements often lacking in our nourishment. As a food, it helps to balance our daily diet.

In short, yeast works by natural means, whereas temporary measures such as cathartics and laxatives are artificial methods.

If you would free yourself of this long-standing evil that holds so many in its grip, eat yeast. Get three cakes of Fleischmann's fresh Yeast daily at the nearest grocery store, soda fountain or restaurant. Eat them regularly, 3 cakes a day, according to the directions on the label.

And keep it up! If you do, you will soon see how far-reaching are the effects of a clean, healthy intestinal tract on your general well-being.

Eat FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST for Health 3 Times a Day

Always ask for Fleischmann's fresh Yeast (with the yellow label) . . . the only yeast "irradiated" to give it the Sunshine Vitamin D! Rich in Vitamins B and G, too.

How to plan the family's financial program
What is a woman's investment?
How should a woman invest her insurance?
Should a woman follow the investment practices of business men?

A book that will help women increase their knowledge of Sound Investment

QUESTIONS asked by women investors—and answered by the Old Counsellor on the Halsey, Stuart & Co. radio program—form the basis of this unusual booklet. It is therefore practical—drawn from actual experience gained in serving women investors.

Each subject is approached from the woman's point of view. The text is free from technicalities—presenting the essential information in an understandable way.

For the woman who may have been tempted to pattern her investments after those of some successful business man, this booklet explains the pitfalls of such procedure. It shows how the individual needs govern the proper selection of suitable securities. It points out the importance of diversification and the ways to diversify.

A particularly interesting section takes up the problem of how to plan the family's financial program, and offers a practical solution.

Women who are now investing money—whether in large or small sums—or who are ambitious to become investors, will find this twenty-page booklet of real help to them. We shall be glad to send a copy on request.

Mothers Told to Keep a Poker Face When Child Shocks

by Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

Short Reading References for the Expectant Mother will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Here is a letter on the ever present problem of dealing with "bad words":

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I have a little girl, 18 months old, and have found your articles in the paper interesting and helpful. I would appreciate your sending me the 'Sex Education Booklet,' for which I am inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"As my baby is so young, I have not as yet had many problems with her, but want to be prepared beforehand, as much as possible. I think a thing we mothers should learn to do is to look at the little problems that come up from time to time through the child's eyes and not be too quick to condemn, remembering that to the pure all things are pure. A dear old lady who has reared three lovely children told me of an instance that happened when her children were small. A neighbor woman came hurrying over to her excitedly, complaining that her little 4 year old boy was swearing dreadfully while he was playing, and stating that the youngster should be punished immediately.

"Instead of following this course, knowing that he had not heard this kind of language at home, the mother went quietly out to where the child was playing and said, 'Why, Bobby, what peculiar names you have for your horses!' 'But, mother,' the child replied, 'that's what all the teamsters name their horses, and I'm playing that I'm a teamster.' So she explained to him how wrong it was to use these words, whereas if she had just called the child in and punished him he would have been puzzled as to the reason for it, and his faith in his mother would have suffered, also."

This made me think of a wealthy little old lady I used to know. Having lost her first and only baby, she devoted the rest of her life to helping and being with little children. One day she said to me, "No matter what a child says to me, what a child tells me, what hair raising words he uses, I am never shocked. You know," with a twinkle, "shocking grownups is often an interesting and exciting experience! And," more seriously, "showing that you are shocked often closes doors to you."

And then she went on to tell an amusing incident of a small boy who used a word in her hearing that had aroused storms of protest at home. Keeping her expression and manner quite casual, she said, "That's not a new word to me, Sandy—it's in the Bible, you know." That word never appeared again.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Herbert Hoover Jr. returned last night to the White House with his father after spending the week end at the Rapidan camp. Mrs. Hoover is remaining at the camp for a part of this week, with a party of guests. Mrs. Stark McMullin of Palo Alto, Cal., is among them.

Secretary and Mrs. H. L. Stimson have returned to their Long Island place.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tuckerman have returned to their suburban home after spending a month at their summer home in Southampton and visiting in Newport. Miss Laura Tuckerman is en route here to join her parents.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Request for Clothing.

"I have been out of work for some time and it seems impossible to find anything to do. We need clothing badly and, since I cannot get it, I wonder if you can be of any help to us. A suit, size 42, and clothing for my wife, size 44, would be greatly appreciated. T. F."

A neat appearance may improve this man's chances of finding employment. Have you a suit he may have? And is there some one about to discard garments in his wife's size?

Useful for Student.

"I have two regulation high school tank suits, size 18, in perfectly good condition, which I should like to give to some student. I also have a middy blouse and gym bloomers some one may have. R. W."

If you are a high school student you can make use of these timely gifts. Write me for them if they are your size; please do not telephone.

Bright Sayings of the Children

My son has a friendly dog named Gyp and all of the neighborhood children know and love him.

The other day in the store I recognized Jean and her small sister, Virginia. Jean, aged 5, spoke to me, and when Virginia refused to do so she said, "Virginia, don't you know who that is? That's Gyppy's mother!"

Patou Gives the Black Net Ensemble New Lines

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special Correspondence.] —Those cynics who keep repeating "There's nothing new under the sun" have certainly never seen a Paris collection. It would be harder to find a creator with no new ideas than the proverbial needle. But to achieve novelty without eccentricity, to change our lines without giving us shell shock, takes a great artist.

This feat has been accomplished by Jean Patou in the dinner ensemble of diagonal mesh black net sketched above. It presents positively sensational innovations, yet it remains simple, ladylike, and wearable.

One of the chic novelties of the dress is the treatment of the decolleté, which is quite low in the front but high at the back. It is held up in front by two bands of the net attached in the center and which run diagonally up to join the band edging the bodice in back. The bodice is closely fitted in front and is trimmed with five shaped bands of the net, two of which continue in the back, where two vertical bands connect them with the neckline. A soft crush belt of the net attached to the bodice all around pulls down a little on the hips in a princess effect.

The double skirt of wide box plaids gives Patou's very latest silhouette. There are six in all, and extra lightness is given to the net, which is left unhemmed at the edges by adding inverted plaits between each box plait.

The transparent wrist length jacket is a member of almost every self-respecting cocktail and dinner ensemble nowadays. Patou makes this one of black net like the frock. He edges it with a band of the net, and five net bands on the sleeves recall the bands trimming the front of the bodice.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Refuses His Invitations.

"Dear Miss Blake: Every time I ask the girl I love for a date, she always has another appointment. Does she care for me? WORRIED."

I'm afraid she no longer cares. A girl doesn't refuse dates with a boy she's interested in.

Twits Her About Her Age.

"Dear Miss Blake: Shall I continue to see him, or shall I not? I am in love with a fellow who is five years older than I. Everytime we have any misunderstandings between us he brings up my age. Do you think he cares for me? BABE."

There's nothing the matter with your age. Five years' difference is not unusual, Babe. I think he's teasing you. Don't take him seriously on the subject of age.

New Face Powder Now the Fashion

"Wouldn't you, too, like a face powder that will keep shine away—stay on longer—spread smoothly—not clog the pores—and always be so pure and fine?" asks Gene Brady, charming stage beauty. She found this kind of face powder in MELLO-GLO, made by a new French Process that brings the youthful bloom—will not irritate the skin or cause that pasty, flaky look. It is surely a wonderful Face Powder.

"Suffered 30 Years With Indigestion"

Misery Goes Quick With Amazing New Formula Acidine

Mrs. Emma Green of Detroit, Michigan for the first time in over thirty years is enjoying a fit stomach. She tried many different remedies without success until Acidine brought her happy relief from acid indigestion. She says "Acidine has helped my digestion more than anything else I have ever taken after having suffered from acid indigestion for over thirty years." Burning acid stomach, pain after eating, belching, gas, bloating, heartburn, dizziness, and the resulting nervousness, sleeplessness, and colds won't trouble you if you use new formula, Acidine. It gives relief where all other remedies fail because it is entirely different. Contains an effective starch digestant, Japtase, which promptly liquefies 800 times its own weight of starchy foods, in laboratory tests. Five other ingredients neutralize burning acid, stop gas formation and soothe irritated stomach lining. Cleans up the troubles that commonly lead to stomach distress quicker than you would believe possible. Acidine is safe, harmless and pleasant for adults and children. Used by millions of people. Eat, drink, smoke what you want. Acidine is sold under a satisfaction or money back guarantee. Get Acidine at any drug store today, or write Health Laboratories, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Proposes to Girl, Then Falls in Love with Her Sister!

BY DORIS BLAKE.

If a young man were trying to think up the most difficult situation he could plunge himself into, romantically, it would be to fall in love with a sister of the girl he had already proposed to.

Such a fate has overtaken "Puzzled." All home town folk, too, to further complicate matters.

Sister No. 1 used to try to persuade her religious faith upon the gentleman in the case. It did not set well, but it obviously was the girl's only drawback. Puzzled went on an extended business trip to the city, and there sister No. 2 was visiting.

"Now I find out," Puzzled reports, "that I love this sister more than I ever could love the other, and she loves me. I've weighed all sides, and, believing that it is something neither the sister nor I could prevent happening, feel that we have a right to seek happiness together. But I know, too, what censure we two will be exposed to all around."

It's a complication that occurs fairly often, and anything but a pleasant one for those involved. The jilted sister, unless she can bring all her Christian fortitude to bear, will have a hard time reconciling herself to her sister's treachery, as she will think it. But, as you say, the thing often cannot be helped.

A case occurs of a family breach that never was healed as a result of such a love incident within it. The jilted one never married, and every year of looking on at the happy domestic scene of her sister embittered her until she became a sore trial to every one that knew her.

On the other hand, while the wound hurts frightfully in the beginning, it can be survived, and happily. You'll have to pray that some new man comes along quickly to replace you in the first one's heart.

But in such emergencies the squarest thing to do is to put it before the one who has been proposed to; ask her release and then go ahead with your plans with the other. At least give No. 1 an opportunity to save her face before the home town group, which she can make a better bluff at doing if she has been permitted to break the engagement. Better this way than running away with the sister and letting news come to No. 1 through other channels.

FARM and GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

WELCOME PARASITES.

Nut and fruit crops soon are to be given added protection from insect injury through work of the United States department of agriculture which is enlisting the aid of new parasites to help control pest infestation. Entomologists announce they have found an aid in a little parasite called "trichogramma minutum" which produces twins and even multiple sets of twins within the eggs of other insects.

This parasite in particular is expected to be liberated soon in pecan groves of Georgia where what is known as the nut case borer is threatening crop production in the groves. It is thought that possibly this same control insect may be useful for propagation farther north in fruit orchards.

Two small wasplike parasites which lay their eggs in the grub of the fruit moth are being grown at Moorestown, N. J. Another control for the codling moth is being sought in an endeavor to aid orchard owners. Practical propagation in large numbers is the main problem, the bureau of entomology has announced. More established is the work on control by parasites of the gypsy and brown tail moths and more recently parasitic control for the European corn borer.

CHEER UP!

STUDEBAKER'S PRICES ARE SO LOW!

THAT YOU CAN GET AN ALMOST NEW CAR AT ONLY A FRACTION OF ITS ORIGINAL COST!

And no matter what you pay, you are protected by the famous Studebaker Used Car Pledge.

$95 CHEVROLET SEDAN. Traded in at a very low figure, so we'll pass on the saving to you. In splendid condition throughout. Many extras.

$195 STUDEBAKER SEDAN. Std. 6 that we recommend as one of our very best buys. The finish and upholstery are in the original new condition. Motor runs fine.

$95 REO COUPE. Positively the best Reo buy in Chicago. It's a chummy, fine-performing car that runs like clockwork.

$395 ERSKINE SEDAN. 1929 that was oiled and greased every 500 miles so it's in wonderful condition now. Appearance is very attractive, and the equipment includes 4 whl. brakes, shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc.

$725 DODGE SEDAN. 1930 that's positively like-new throughout. It was only traded in because the owner desired a larger car. Will give new car satisfaction today.

$265 OAKLAND COUPE. 1928 with wire wheels, fender wells and a wealth of extras. The tires have little mileage and the upholstery appears unworn. The finish does not show a mar.

$295 STUDEBAKER SEDAN. 1928 Commander Special model. The motor runs as smooth as silk, and the appearance is very smart. 4 whl. brakes and many extras.

$650 BUICK SEDAN. 1928 Mast. 6 with brand new tires and $200 worth of extra equipment. This car cost almost $2,500 when new and it's in the original new condition throughout. Finished an attractive color with good-looking upholstery to match.

$850 CADILLAC PHAETON. A late model 314 finished a chocolate brown. Has wire whls., fender wells, tonneau windshield, and 6 practically new tires. This is undoubtedly the smartest-looking and best-performing open car offered in Chicago.

$195 PACKARD SEDAN. Here is an expensive car at an inexpensive price. Was chauffeur-driven, so it's in topnotch condition now. Has a wealth of extras.

$295 NASH SEDAN. 1927 Adv. 6. The appearance of this Nash is very pleasing. Motor has checked over and now it's okay in every respect. 4 whl. brakes and many extras.

$295 HUPMOBILE 8 ROADSTER. This low-slung car is in exceptionally fine condition. Has rumble seat, 4 whl. brakes, shock absorbers, spare tire, etc.

$395 DIANA 8 SEDAN. Here is a distinguished looking car that still has years of satisfactory performance in it. Painted an attractive two-tone green. Many extras.

$585 LINCOLN SEDAN. 5 pass. that's lacquered an olive green. Equipped with wire wheels, spare tires, driving lights, shock absorbers, opera seats, etc. This car was taken in on consignment and when it is sold its owner will take out a new Studebaker. We are anxious to dispose of it at once, so we priced it as low as this for quick sale.

$795 AUBURN CONV. SEDAN. 1929 eight with rumble seat, wire wheels, fender wells, two driving lights, etc. It's the last word for beautiful appearance and spirited performance.

$595 1930 STUDEBAKER Commander Sedan with wire wheels, fender wells and a dozen valuable extras. Only driven a few months, and how it carries a 30 day free service guarantee.

FORD FORDOR SEDAN. One of the very latest models that will satisfy the most exacting buyer in appearance and performance you might desire. Driven but a few miles from the factory. Very fully equipped. Priced unusually low.

LIBERAL TERMS. OPEN EVES.

French Flyers Greeted by Cheering Crowd on Long Island After Flying Across Atlantic in 37 Hours

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

AS HE APPEARED IN CHICAGO TWO YEARS AGO. Closeup of Capt. Dieudonne Coste made in 1928 when he visited city after flying across South Atlantic and north from South America. (Story on page 1.)

CITY'S PUBLIC SCHOOLS REOPEN WITH ESTIMATED ATTENDANCE OF 500,000. Miss Mattie R. Wiggins, teacher in the second grade of the Franklin school at 226 West Goethe street, instructing her pupils on the first day of fall term.

MORGAN'S $3,000,000 STEAM YACHT GOES AGROUND IN PENOBSCOT BAY. The new Corsair, just completed last spring for J. P. Morgan, which is held fast off Dark Harbor, Me. Junius Morgan, son of the financier, and his wife are on board, having refused to be taken ashore in any of the small craft that answered radio calls.
